GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
27th September 1913.

Burma.—During the week the rainfall was general over Lower Burma and light to moderate over Upper Burma. Cultivation of winter rice and miscellaneous crops is progressing. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice continues slightly above normal but tends to fall.

Assam.—During the week slight to moderate rain fell in all districts which somewhat improved the condition of the standing crops but the area under transplanted rice in Cachar and the central districts of the Brahmaputra Valley is likely to be less than it should be on account of previous want of rain. Harvesting of autumn rice and jute and transplantation of winter rice are nearly finished. The outturn of autumn rice is fair. Prospects of winter rice are fair to poor. The crop has been damaged by insects in parts of Sylhet, Goalpara and Darrang. Manufacture of tea is in progress and prospects are good. The average price of common rice has risen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet, Kamrup and Darrang.

Bengal.—During the week light to moderate rain fell over the Province. More rain is wanted in some districts for winter rice. Transplanting of winter rice and harvesting of autumn rice are almost finished. Cutting and steeping of jute are still in progress and are nearing completion. Preparation of lands for spring crops has just commenced in places. The prospects of standing crops are on the whole fair in Western Bengal and those in Eastern Bengal are fairly good. The condition of cattle in the areas affected by the floods is still reported to be bad. Cattle disease is reported from five districts only. Want of fodder is felt in six districts. The price of rice has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain was fairly general except in the districts of the Patna and Tirhut divisions where there was practically no rain. More rain is wanted in parts of Orissa. Transplantation of winter rice in the flood affected areas of Cuttack and Balasore is almost completed. Weeding of winter rice and harvesting of autumn crops continue. Preparation of lands for spring crops has commenced in some districts. Prospects of standing crops are good so far except in the flood affected areas of Cuttack, Balasore, Patna and Gaya where agricultural prospects are, however, gradually improving. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly in comparison with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from 10 districts. Agricultural prospects in the Feudatory States of Orissa are on the whole good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. More rain is urgently needed throughout the Provinces. Damage to standing crops by drought is reported from all but the eastern districts. Harvesting and weeding of autumn crops and of millets, sowing of gram, picking of cotton, and preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops continue. Irrigation from wells and canals has been resorted to wherever practicable. Cattle disease has decreased considerably throughout the Provinces. Fodder is scarce in the central districts and in Bundelkhand but sufficient elsewhere. Prices have risen further.

Punjab.—During the week the weather was dry and rain is badly wanted in the Ambala division where unirrigated crops are withering from drought. Elsewhere the condition of standing crops is average to good. Picking of cotton and harvesting of other autumn crops continue with outturn average to good. Ploughing for and sowings of spring crops are proceeding. Sowings are normal and in time. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices are generally close to normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless and the weather moderate. The condition of standing crops is good in the Bannu tahsil, average in Peshawar except on unirrigated areas in Swabi and fair on irrigated areas and average on unirrigated areas in Dera Ismail Khan. Irrigation from the Paharpur Canal commenced from 17th September. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient except in the Swabi tahsil of the Peshawar district where fodder is insufficient. Prices are high but stationary.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in one tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—No rain fell during the week. Standing crops are in fair condition. Cattle disease prevails in the Baramula and Anantnag districts. Prices are normal. Reaping of autumn crops and ploughing for spring crops are in progress.

Rajputana.—The weather was clear. The rainfall in Udaipur was 50 cents. Slight falls were also reported from isolated parts in Rajputana. Good general rain is very urgently needed in the Eastern States, Central Rajputana, including Ajmer-Merwara, and in parts of Kotah and Jhalawar where standing crops on dry lands have withered from drought. In these areas fodder is also insufficient. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress and land is being prepared for sowings. Cattle are in good condition. Water is generally sufficient. Prices are high and fluctuating. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Marwara.

Central India.—During the week the rainfall was nil in Bundelkhand, Baghelkhand and Bhopal, partial in Gwalior and Indore, good in Malwa and Bhopawar, insufficient in Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand and the Gwalior division of Gwalior, and in the Alampur pergana of Indore. The weather continues to be seasonable. Weeding of autumn crops and preparation of land for spring crops are going on. Operations have been stopped in parts of Bundelkhand for want of rain. Standing crops are good in Malwa, Bhopal and Bhopawar, and bad elsewhere. The crops have been damaged by want of rain in Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand, the Gwalior division and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. The supply of fodder is bad in the Gwalior division, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. Prices are rising in some districts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand, are normal in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—During the week the weather was clear, hot and occasionally cloudy. Chhindwara and Amraoti received light rain not exceeding 20 cents. More rain is required. The break is causing damage to autumn crops in parts of several districts. Cotton so far is faring well. Preparation of land for spring crops was in progress but rain is required to facilitate the operation. The supply of fodder and water is adequate. Agricultural stock is in good condition. The price of gram rose from two to four seers per rupee in Saugor, Damoh, Narsinghpur and Hoshangabad. Elsewhere prices remained fairly steady or fluctuated slightly exhibiting a tendency to rise.

Feudatory States.—During the week seven States had rain ranging from 15 cents to 1½ inches. Prospects are generally good but more rain is needed. Prices are almost steady.

Bombay.—The rainfall during the week was moderate in parts of the Konkan, the Deccan, the Karnatak, Kathiawar, Savantvadi and Kolhapur and slight elsewhere except in Sind, Ahmedabad, the Panch Mahals, Palanpur and Cutch. The rain has been beneficial but is still insufficient in the Konkan, the Deccan, Belgaum and Kolhapur. Standing crops have been slightly damaged by locusts and insects in parts of Sind, by insects in parts of Ahmedabad and Bijapur and by rats in Karachi and Rewa Kantha. They are withering in parts of Ratnagiri, Ahmednagar, Poona and Satara. Harvesting of autumn crops generally continues. Preparation of lands for spring crops is progressing. Sowing has commenced in parts. The supply of fodder is sufficient. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is sufficient except in parts of Sholapur and Dharwar. Prices are falling in parts of Sind, fluctuating in the Deccan and steady elsewhere. The public health is generally good. Stocks of grain are sufficient. The numbers on gratuitous relief for the week ending 27th September were :— Poona, Sholapur and Bijapur 306.

Hyderabad.—During the week the rainfall was general but light to moderate, the average being 1 inch 4 cents. Autumn crops are fair to good but have suffered somewhat from want of rain in the Raichur, Gulbarga and Mahbubnagar districts and have been damaged by insects in parts of the Raichur and Mahbubnagar districts. Early rice is being irrigated. The crop is fair except in parts of the Gulbarga, Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar districts. Lands are being prepared for spring crops and sowings are progressing but more rain is awaited in parts. Scarcity of fodder and water prevails in five and cattle disease in six talukas. There has been no variation in the prices of grains. The highest price in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Mahbubnagar, Nalgonda and Karimnagar and the lowest 18 seers in Usmanabad and Bidar.

Mysore.—During the week the rainfall was good in Bangalore, Kolar, Tumkur and Mysore and fair elsewhere. The price of Ragi has fallen slightly in Bangalore and Kolar and risen in Chitaldroog and the price of rice has fallen in Tumkur. The markets are well supplied. Standing crops are improving under the recent rains. The prospects of the season are generally good but more rain is required in parts of Hassan and Kadur. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—During the week the rainfall was light but general. Rice is in good condition. Picking of cardamoms continues. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy in South Arcot, heavy in Chingleput, Salem, Trichinopoly, Tanjore and Pudukkottai, nil in Sandur, light in the Vizagapatam Agency, Madras and Tinnevely, and fair to good elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good and have benefited by the recent rains in parts but require rain in many places. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy over small areas is proceeding with outturn generally fair. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Pasture is scanty in many places. Prices show a slight upward tendency.

PRESENT :

The KING'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Lord President.

Mr. Secretary Harcourt.

Sir William Carington.

Mr. Fischer.

Sir Louis Mallet.

WHEREAS by treaty, grant, usage, sufferance, or other lawful means, His Majesty the King has jurisdiction within China :

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in this behalf by the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890, or otherwise in His Majesty vested, is pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows :—

1. This Order may be cited as "The China (Amendment) Order in Council, 1913," and shall be read as one with the China Order in Council, 1904, hereinafter referred to as the "Principal Order," and this Order and the China Orders in Council, 1904 to 1910, may be cited together as "The China Orders in Council, 1904 to 1913."

2. In this Order, unless the context otherwise requires :—

"Judgment" includes decree, order, sentence, or decision ;

"Record" means the aggregate of papers relating to an Appeal to His Majesty in Council (including the pleadings, proceedings, evidence and judgments) proper to be laid before His Majesty in Council on the hearing of the Appeal ;

"Registrar" includes the officer having the custody of the records in the Supreme Court.

3. (1) Any person committing a breach of any International Regulations approved by the Secretary of State under article 74 of the Principal Order shall, on conviction, be liable to the punishment, forfeiture, or fine therein prescribed, or, if no such punishment or fine is prescribed, he shall be liable, on conviction, to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a period not exceeding one month, or to a fine not exceeding £ 20.

(2) Where a fine is recovered for breach of such Regulations, and the Regulations contain no provisions as to the manner in which it shall be disposed of and applied, it shall be disposed of and applied in such manner as the Minister may direct.

4. In the application of the Perjury Act, 1911, by the Court, in the exercise of its criminal jurisdiction on the principles of, and in conformity with, English law for the time being under article 35 (2) of the Principal Order, the words "judicial proceeding" in the said Act shall be deemed to include a proceeding before a Chinese Court, or a Court in China of any State in amity with His Majesty.

5. If any person subject to the jurisdiction of the Court does any act in relation to proceedings in a Chinese Court, or before a Chinese judicial officer, or in a Court or before a judicial officer in China of any State in amity with His Majesty, which, if done in the or in relation to, any proceedings in the Court, would have been punishable as an offence, such person shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable, on conviction, to such punishment as he would have been liable to if the offence had been committed in the course of, or in relation to, proceedings in the Court.

6. When a British subject is accused of an offence, the cognizance whereof appertains to any Court established under the Principal Order, and it is expedient that the offence be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in a British possession, the accused may under "The Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890," section 6) be sent for trial to Lahore, and the Chief Court of the Punjab shall be the authorized Court for the purposes of that enactment.

The Court may, where it appears to be so expedient, by warrant under the hand of a Judge and the Seal of the Court, cause the accused to be sent for trial to Lahore accordingly.

The warrant shall be sufficient authority to any person to whom it is directed to receive and detain the person therein named, and to carry him to and deliver him up at Lahore, according to the Warrant.

When any person is to be so sent to Lahore, the Court before which he is accused shall take the preliminary examination, and, if it seems necessary and proper, shall bind over such of the proper witnesses as are British subjects in their own recognizances to appear and give evidence at the trial.

Nothing in this article shall affect the operation of article 50 of the Principal Order.

Appeals in Criminal Cases.

7. Any person who is convicted of an offence on a trial under article 45 of the Principal Order, or who is sentenced on a conviction for an offence under article 48 of the Principal Order, to be imprisoned without the option of a fine, may appeal to the full Court—

(i) Against his conviction—

(a) On any ground of appeal which involves a question of law alone ; or

(b) With the leave of the Full Court, or upon the certificate of the Court which tried him, that it is a fit case for appeal, against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of fact alone, or a question of mixed law and fact ; or

(c) With the leave of the Full Court on any other ground which appears to the Full Court to be a sufficient ground of appeal.

(ii) With the leave of the Full Court, against the sentence passed on his conviction, unless the sentence is one fixed by law.

8. After the hearing and determination at a summary trial under article 48 of the Principal Order of any information or complaint, either party to such summary trial may, if dissatisfied with the said determination as being erroneous in point of law, appeal to the Full Court.

9.—(1) When a person desires to appeal to the Full Court under articles 7 or 8 he shall give notice of his Appeal, or of his application for leave to appeal, to the Court against whose judgment or sentence he desires to appeal, in such manner as may be prescribed, within 7 days of the date of his conviction or of the determination of an information or complaint.

(2) An appellant may, in such manner as may be prescribed, present his case and his argument in writing, and deliver the same to the Registrar of the Court before which the trial took place. The respondent may in like manner present his case and argument in writing, and deliver the same to the Registrar of the said Court.

(3) Such Court shall thereupon send under the seal of the Court to the Registrar of the Supreme Court the notice, the case, and the argument, if any, and a report by the Judge who presided at the trial, together with such other papers and in such manner as may be prescribed.

(4) Where the trial took place before a Judge of the Supreme Court, sitting elsewhere than at Shanghai, the papers may be transmitted to the Registrar of the Supreme Court through the Provincial Court of the district.

10. Where notice is given under article 9, the Court before which the trial was had may, as it thinks fit, either postpone judgment on the conviction or respite execution of the judgment, and either commit the person convicted to prison or take security for him to come up for judgment or to deliver himself for execution of the judgment (as the case may require) at an appointed time and place.

11. An appellant shall not be entitled to be present at the hearing of an Appeal except by leave of the Full Court, or of the Court before which he was convicted.

12.—(1) Appeals under articles 7 and 8 of this Order shall be heard and determined by the Full Court.

(2) In the hearing and determination of such Appeals the Full Court shall, so far as circumstances admit, follow the practice of the Court of Criminal Appeal in England and the provisions contained in sections 1 (5), 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 11 (2), 14 (2) (3), 17 and 18 of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, or of any law amending or substituted for the same.

(3) Provided that the Full Court shall not annul a conviction or sentence, or vary a sentence, on the ground—

- (a) Of any objection which, if stated during the trial, might, in the opinion of the Court, have been properly met by amendment at the trial ; or
- (b) Of any error in the summoning of the jury or the assessors ; or
- (c) Of any person having served as a jurymen or an assessor who was not qualified ; or
- (d) Of any objection to any person as a jurymen or assessor which might have been raised before or at the trial ; or
- (e) Of any informality in the swearing of any witness ; or
- (f) Of any error or informality which, in the opinion of the Court, did not affect the substance of the case or subject the convicted person to any undue prejudice.

(4) The Full Court shall not award costs to either side in an Appeal under this part of the Order save in an appeal under article 8.

13. The power of the Judge of the Supreme Court, under article 119 of the Principal Order, to make rules of Court shall extend to rules for the purpose of regulating the manner of presenting Appeals, as to the papers which are to be sent to the Full Court, and the transmission of the same, and generally as to the conduct of Appeals and all matters connected therewith.

14. Article 52 of the Principal Order shall apply to all proceedings before the Full Court under this Order.

15. When notice has been given of any Appeal or application for leave to appeal, the Judge of the Supreme Court shall, save where the trial took place before himself, have power, for reasons to be recorded in the minutes, to order that it shall be heard and determined or dealt with, in the manner provided in this Order by himself alone instead of by the Full Court.

16. Where a person is convicted of any offence before any Court, if the Judge of such Court thinks fit to reserve for the consideration of the Full Court any question of law arising at the trial, he shall state a case, setting out the facts and the grounds of the conviction, and the question of law, and send or deliver it to the Registrar of the Supreme Court.

The jurisdiction of the Full Court under this article shall be exercised subject to the provisions of this Order.

17. There shall be no Appeal in a criminal case to His Majesty the King in Council from a decision of the Full Court or from a decision of the Judge alone under article 15, except by special leave of His Majesty in Council.

18. Reports to the Minister under article 64 of the Principal Order of sentences of death shall not be sent until the expiration of the time allowed for an Appeal, or for applying for leave to appeal, against the conviction, or, if there is an Appeal, until the determination of the Appeal.

Appeals to His Majesty in Council.

19. Subject to the provisions of this Order, an Appeal shall lie to His Majesty in Council—

(1) As of right, from any final judgment of the Supreme Court made in a civil action, where the matter in dispute on the Appeal amounts to or is of the value of £ 500 or upwards, or where the Appeal involves, directly or indirectly, some claim or question to or respecting property or some civil right amounting to or of the value of £ 500 or upwards ; and

(2) At the discretion of the Supreme Court, from any other judgment of the Supreme Court, whether final or interlocutory, if, in the opinion of the Supreme Court, the question involved in the Appeal is one which, by reason of its great general or public importance or otherwise, ought to be submitted to His Majesty in Council for decision.

20. Applications to the Supreme Court for leave to appeal shall be made by motion within fifteen days from the date of the judgment to be appealed from, and, unless the application is made in Court at the time when such judgment is given, the applicant shall give the opposite party notice of his intended application.

21. Leave to appeal under article 13 shall only be granted by the Supreme Court in the first instance—

(a) Upon condition of the appellant within two months from the date of the hearing of the application for leave to appeal, giving security to the satisfaction of the Court, to an amount not exceeding £ 500, for the due prosecution of the Appeal, and for the payment of all such costs as may become payable to the respondent in the event of the appellant's not obtaining an order granting him final leave to appeal, or of the Appeal being dismissed for non-prosecution, or of His Majesty in Council ordering the appellant to pay the respondent's costs of the Appeal (as the case may be); and

(b) Upon such other conditions (if any) as to the time or times within which the appellant shall take the necessary steps for the purpose of procuring the preparation of the Record and the despatch thereof to England as the Court, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, may think it reasonable to impose.

22. Where the judgment appealed from requires the appellant to pay money or perform a duty, the Supreme Court shall have power, when granting leave to appeal, either to direct that the said judgment shall be carried into execution or that the execution thereof shall be suspended pending the appeal, as to the Court shall seem just, and in case the Court shall direct the said judgment to be carried into execution, the person in whose favour it was given shall, before the execution thereof enter into good and sufficient security, to the satisfaction of the Court, for the due performance of such Order as His Majesty in Council shall think fit to make thereon.

23. The preparation of the Record shall be subject to the supervision of the Supreme Court, and the parties may submit any disputed question arising in connection therewith to the decision of the Court, and the Court shall give such directions thereon as the justice of the case may require.

24. The Registrar, as well as the parties and their legal agents, shall endeavour to exclude from the Record all documents (more particularly such as are merely formal) which are not relevant to the subject matter of the Appeal, and generally, to reduce the bulk of the Record as far as practicable, taking special care to avoid the duplication of documents and the unnecessary repetition of headings and other merely formal parts of documents; but the documents omitted to be copied or printed shall be enumerated in a list to be placed after the index or at the end of the Record.

25. Where in the course of the preparation of a Record one party objects to the inclusion of a document on the ground that it is unnecessary or irrelevant, and the other party nevertheless insists upon its being included, the Record, as finally printed, shall, with a view to the subsequent adjustment of the costs of and incidental to such document, indicate in the index of papers, or otherwise, the fact that, and the party by whom, the inclusion of the document was objected to.

26. The Record shall be printed in accordance with the rules in the Schedule to this Order, and may be printed either locally or in England.

27. Where the Record is printed locally the Registrar shall, at the expense of the appellant, transmit to the Registrar of the Privy Council forty copies of such Record, one of which copies he shall certify to be correct by signing his name on, or initialling, every eighth page thereof, and by affixing thereto the seal of the Supreme Court.

28. Where the Record is to be printed in England, the Registrar shall, at the expense of the appellant, transmit to the Registrar of the Privy Council one certified copy of such Record, together with an index of all the papers and exhibits in the case. No other certified copies of the Record shall be transmitted to the agents in England by or on behalf of the parties to the Appeal.

29. Where part of the Record is printed locally and part is to be printed in England, articles 21 and 22 shall, as far as practicable, apply to such parts as are printed locally and such as are to be printed in England respectively.

30. The reasons given by the Judge, or any of the Judges, for or against any judgment pronounced in the course of the proceedings out of which the Appeal arises, shall, unless they are included in the Record, be communicated in writing by such Judge or Judges to the Registrar, and shall by him be transmitted to the Registrar of the Privy Council at the same time when the Record is transmitted.

31. Where there are two or more applications for leave to appeal arising out of the same matter, and the Supreme Court is of opinion that it would be for the convenience of the Lords of the Judicial Committee and all parties concerned that the Appeals should be consolidated, the Court may direct the Appeals to be consolidated, and grant leave to appeal by a single order.

32. An appellant, who has obtained an order granting him conditional leave to appeal, may, at any time prior to the making of an order granting him final leave to appeal, withdraw his appeal on such terms as to costs and otherwise as the Supreme Court may direct.

33. Where an appellant, having obtained an order granting him conditional leave to appeal, and having complied with the conditions imposed on him by such order, fails thereafter to apply with due diligence to the Supreme Court for an order granting him final leave to appeal, the Court may, on an application in that behalf made by the respondent, rescind the order granting conditional leave to appeal, notwithstanding the appellant's compliance with the conditions imposed by such order, and may give such directions as to the costs of the Appeal and the security entered into by the appellant as the Court shall think fit, or make such further or other order in the premises as, in the opinion of the Court, the justice of the case requires.

34. On an application for final leave to appeal, the Supreme Court may inquire whether notice, or sufficient notice, of the application has been given by the appellant to all parties concerned, and, if not satisfied as to the notices given, may defer the granting of the final leave to appeal, or may give such other directions in the matter as, in the opinion of the Court, the justice of the case requires.

35. An appellant who has obtained final leave to appeal shall prosecute his Appeal in accordance with the rules for the time being regulating the general practice and procedure in Appeals to His Majesty in Council.

36. Where an appellant, having obtained final leave to appeal, desires, prior to the dispatch of the Record to England, to withdraw his Appeal, the Supreme Court may upon an application in that behalf made by the appellant, grant him a certificate to the effect that the Appeal has been withdrawn and the Appeal shall thereupon be deemed, as from the date of such certificate, to stand dismissed without express Order of His Majesty in Council, and the costs of the Appeal and the security entered into by the appellant shall be dealt with in such manner as the Court may direct.

37. Where an appellant, having obtained final leave to appeal, fails to show due diligence in taking all necessary steps for the purpose of procuring the dispatch of the Record to England, the respondent may, after giving the appellant due notice of his intended application, apply to the Supreme Court for a certificate that the Appeal has not been effectually prosecuted by the appellant, and if the Court sees fit to grant such a certificate, the Appeal shall be deemed, as from the date of such certificate, to stand dismissed for non-prosecution without express Order of His Majesty in Council, and the costs of the Appeal and the security entered into by the appellant shall be dealt with in such manner as the Court may direct.

38. Where at any time between the order granting final leave to appeal and the dispatch of the Record to England the Record becomes defective by reason of the death, or change of status, of a party to the Appeal, the Supreme Court may, notwithstanding the order granting final leave to appeal, on an application in that behalf made by any person interested, grant a certificate showing who, in the opinion of the Court, is the proper person to be substituted or entered on the Record in place of, or in addition to, the party who has died, or undergone a change of status, and the name of such person shall thereupon be deemed to be so substituted or entered on the Record, as aforesaid without express Order of His Majesty in Council.

39. Where the Record subsequently to its dispatch to England becomes defective by reason of the death, or change of status, of a party to the Appeal, the Supreme Court shall, upon an application in that behalf made by any person interested, cause a certificate to be transmitted to the Registrar of the Privy Council showing who, in the opinion of the Court, is the proper person to be substituted, or entered, on the Record, in place of, or in addition to, the party who has died or undergone a change of status.

40. The Case of each party to the Appeal may be printed either locally or in England and shall, in either event, be printed in accordance with the rules in the Schedule to this Order, every tenth line thereof being numbered in the margin, and shall be signed by at least one of the counsel who attends at the hearing of the Appeal, or by the party himself if he conducts his Appeal in person.

41. The Case shall consist of paragraphs numbered consecutively, and shall state, as concisely as possible, the circumstances out of which the Appeal arises, the contentions to be urged by the party lodging the same, and the reasons of appeal. References by page and line to the relevant portions of the Record as printed shall, as far as practicable, be printed in the margin, and care shall be taken to avoid, as far as possible, the reprinting in the Case of long extracts from the Record. The taxing officer, in taxing the costs of the Appeal, shall, either of his own motion, or at the instance of the opposite party, inquire into any unnecessary prolixity in the Case, and shall disallow the costs occasioned thereby.

42. Where the Judicial Committee directs a party to bear the costs of an Appeal incurred in China, such costs shall be taxed by the proper officer of the Supreme Court in accordance with the rules for the time being regulating taxation in the Supreme Court.

43. The Supreme Court shall execute any Order which His Majesty in Council may think fit to make on an Appeal from a judgment of the Supreme Court in like manner as any original judgment of the Supreme Court should or might have been executed.

Consular Registers of Companies.

44. A register of companies incorporated or registered in the United Kingdom or in any British possession and carrying on business in China shall be kept in the office of every consulate in China.

45. The consulate at which companies shall be registered shall be that in the district of which their chief local office is situated, or their business is chiefly carried on, and notice shall be given at the consulate of any other district in which the company is also carrying on business as to the place at which the company is so registered.

46. On the registration of a company at a consulate there shall be deposited and filed in the office of the consulate a copy of the certificate of incorporation of the company, or other document corresponding thereto, a copy of the memorandum and articles of association or other documents corresponding thereto, a statement showing the nominal capital of the company, and the amounts thereof which have been subscribed and paid up respectively, and, if the company has been incorporated under a law which provides for the periodical filing of a list of the shareholders, a copy of the last list so filed.

47. The consular officer shall, on the registration of a company at the consulate, issue to the person making the registration a certificate, signed and sealed with the consular seal, that the company has been so registered.

48—(1) Every company registered under this Order shall register the name and address of the manager or other chief local representative in China and shall from time to time, as may be necessary, register any alteration of the representative of the company or in his address. Names and addresses so registered shall be open to the inspection of the public.

(2) Rules of Court made under article 119 of the Principal Order may provide that service of writs, notices, or other documents upon the person registered under this article, or at his address, shall be good service of such documents upon the company.

49. Registration of a company under this Order shall not require to be renewed annually, but may be renewed from time to time as the parties may desire, and must be renewed when any change takes place in the name of the company.

50. On every registration of a company under this Order, and on every renewal thereof, there shall be payable a fee of £1, and on every registration under article 41 there shall be payable a fee of 2s.

51.—(1) A company shall not be entitled to be recognised or protected as a British company unless it is registered under this Order, but shall, although not so registered, be subject to the jurisdiction of His Majesty's Courts in China.

(2) Nothing in this article shall affect the right of the Secretary of State to direct that British protection shall not be accorded to a company, even though it has been registered under this Order.

Orders of a Court of Consuls.

52—(1) Where by agreement among the diplomatic representatives in China of foreign States, Regulations have been, or are, made for the establishment, control or procedure of a Court of Consuls, or other like Court, to deal with disputes or suits relating to the property or proceedings of any board, committee, association or other like group of persons which has been appointed for public purposes at any treaty port or foreign settlement or concession in China, and on which other nations besides Great Britain are represented, and such Regulations have been or are approved by the Secretary of State, the jurisdiction of the said Court shall not, so far as persons subject to the Principal Order are concerned, be deemed to conflict with article 6 of the Principal Order, and the Court shall enforce on all persons subject to its jurisdiction the orders and decrees of such Court of Consuls or other like Court.

(2) Regulations approved by the Secretary of State under this article shall be published in the same manner as King's Regulations.

53.—(1) Articles 85, 86, 87, 115 and 116 of the Principal Order are hereby repealed but such repeal shall not—

(a) Affect the past operation of such articles or any right, title, obligation, or liability thereunder; or

(b) Interfere with the institution or prosecution of any legal proceedings thereunder.

(2) Appeals in criminal cases and Appeals to His Majesty in Council commenced under any articles hereby repealed shall be continued so far as is practicable in accordance with this Order.

And the Right Honourable Sir Edward Grey, Baronet, K.G., one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein.

RESULT OF THE MEASURES ADOPTED IN THE DIFFERENT PROVINCES FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF WILD ANIMALS AND VENOMOUS SNAKES
DURING THE YEAR 1912.

No. 2108-2123.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

PUBLIC.

Dated Simla, the 7th October 1913.

RESOLUTION.

The annual reports received from the various local Governments and Administrations show that 2,066 persons were killed by wild animals in British India during the year 1912. Although this figure is somewhat in excess of that reported for the year 1911, it compares favourably with the statistics for each of the three preceding years. In reviewing the figures for 1911 it was noticed that the mortality attributable to this cause, both amongst human beings and cattle, was considerably higher in Bengal than in any other province. Conditions have been altered by the territorial redistribution of 1912, and in that year the largest number of deaths was reported from the province of Bihar and Orissa which, with 807 victims (about one-half of whom belonged to the Chota Nagpur Division) returned more than a third of the total number. At the other extreme, the North-West Frontier Province showed a blank return, as in 1911, while in the Punjab the previous year's record of 6 victims was exceeded only by 2. Among the other provinces, there was an increase of 32 in Burma where 95 deaths were reported. In the United Provinces with 160, and the Central Provinces with 123 deaths, there was little variation from the results of the previous year.

2. Tigers, as usual, claimed the largest number of victims, and the number of persons killed by them rose from 762 in 1911 to 885 in 1912. Of these no less than 396 persons were killed in Bihar and Orissa, all of whom, with the exception of 9, were inhabitants of the Chota Nagpur and Orissa Divisions. It is noticeable that in the United Provinces the number of deaths caused by tigers rose from 18 in 1910 to 36 in 1911 and to 71 in 1912. Of these 71 deaths, 61 occurred in two districts, Naini Tal and Almora. In the former district a single man-eater is regarded as responsible for some 41 deaths, and although a special reward of Rs. 500 has been offered for its destruction it was still at large at the end of the year. In the Madras Presidency tigers were responsible for 164 deaths, in Bengal for 117, in Burma for 44, in Assam for 45, and in the Central Provinces and Berar for 40. Leopards caused a total number of 261 deaths, against 253 in 1911, while the number of persons killed by wolves rose from 190 to 255. Of the 255 deaths for which the latter animals were responsible, 197 occurred in Bihar and Orissa, mostly in the Hazaribagh and Darbhanga districts. There was a slight decrease in the number of deaths attributed to animals not classified under any specific head, the number being 498 as compared with 537 reported in 1911.

3. The total mortality due to snake-bite among human beings fell from 24,312 in 1911, to 21,461 in 1912. Bihar and Orissa with 5,816, the United Provinces with 5,214, and Bengal with 4,471 deaths were the provinces which suffered most severely in this respect. Of the deaths attributed to snake-bite in Bihar and Orissa, nearly 2,600 were reported from the Tirhut Division. The returns under this head show a general decrease in all provinces, except in the North-West Frontier Province, where the mortality rose from 30 to 32 and in Coorg, where one death was reported against a blank return for the previous year. The information furnished as to the use of Sir L. Bruntons' lancets in certain provinces does not afford material for any general conclusion of value on the efficacy of this method of treatment of snake-bite.

4. The number of cattle reported to have been killed by wild animals was 94,873, or some 3,000 more than in the previous year. The increase was shared by all provinces except Assam where, it is reported, there was a decline, though even this province reports a total mortality of over 14,600. As previously stated the province of Bihar and Orissa returned the largest number of kills, most of which occurred in the Chota Nagpur Division. About half the total number of cattle-kills, were, as usual, attributed to leopards, but more than 29,000 fell victims to tigers and over 11,000 to wolves, kills by the latter being most in evidence in the Bombay Presidency. As in 1911, slightly over 10,000 head of cattle were reported to have succumbed to snake-bite.

5. During the year, 24,612 wild animals were destroyed; in 1911 the number reported was 22,406. A sum of Rs. 1,83,720 was disbursed as rewards for the destruction of animals, which exceeded the amount so paid in 1911 by about Rs. 16,500. The rewards paid for snakes killed amounted to Rs. 7,421 only, and fell short by over Rs. 30,000 of the sum paid in the previous year although the number reported as having been killed, 171,976, was not proportionately smaller. This decrease in disbursements occurred wholly in Burma, but it is reported that there was probably no falling off in the actual number of snakes killed, although the villagers in several districts did not trouble to come forward and claim the small rewards offered. The fact that the rate of reward was reduced in certain districts also contributed to the decrease.

6. The number of fresh licenses issued under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, in forms XVI, XVII and XVIII, rose from 21,448 in 1911 to 27,058 in 1912. But the total number of licenses in force in the year under report was 180,539 against 182,014 in 1911.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution (and annexure) be forwarded to local Governments and Administrations* and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information; also that a copy be forwarded to the Director-General, Commercial Intelligence.

* Including the Chief Commissioners of the North-West Frontier Province and Ajmer-Merwara, and the Resident in Mysore.

Secretary to the Government of India.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
4th October 1913.

Burma.—The week was generally wet. Cultivation of winter rice and upland crops and harvesting of cotton are progressing normally. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice has risen in Rangoon.

Assam.—During the week the weather was seasonable with moderate rain which improved the condition of the standing crops, but more rain is still wanted in Kamrup for transplantation of winter rice. Harvesting of autumn rice and jute and transplantation of winter rice are practically finished. The outturn of autumn rice is fair. The prospects of winter rice on the whole are fair and those of tea are generally good. The average price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet and Kamrup.

Bengal.—During the week moderate rain fell nearly all over the Province doing much good to the standing crops, the condition of which is generally favourable, except in the flood affected areas. Weeding of winter rice and harvesting of autumn rice and jute are still proceeding. Lands are being prepared for spring crops but the sowings have not yet begun. Cattle disease is reported in five districts. Want of fodder is felt in three districts. Agricultural loans are being issued to people in the flood affected areas of the Burdwan division. There is no demand for gratuitous relief on a large scale at present.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light rain fell in most districts of the Province. More rain is wanted in parts of Orissa. Weeding of winter rice and harvesting of autumn crops continue. Preparation of lands for spring crops has commenced in some districts. The standing crops are doing very well except in the flood affected areas where however agricultural prospects are gradually improving. The average price of common rice has slightly risen in comparison with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from some districts. Agricultural prospects in the Feudatory States of Orissa are on the whole good.

United Provinces.—During the week no rain fell save showers in the south-eastern and eastern districts, parts of South Oudh, the central submontane and Himalayan districts and in the Tehri and Benares States. More rain is urgently needed throughout the Provinces except in the hill districts. Damage to crops by drought is reported from all but the eastern districts. Harvesting of autumn crops and of millets continues and in some places is nearing completion. Picking of cotton, sowing of pulses, preparation of land for spring crops and irrigation of crops are in progress wherever practicable. Cattle disease has almost disappeared. Fodder is scarce in the central Doab and the north central districts and in parts of the Himalayan, western submontane, Lower Doab and Bundelkhand districts, but at present is sufficient elsewhere. Prices have risen further.

Punjab.—The weather was dry during the week. Rain is badly wanted in the south-eastern and submontane tracts where unirrigated crops are withering from drought. Elsewhere standing crops are generally average to good. Picking of cotton and harvesting of other autumn crops continue. Outturn is average to good save in the unirrigated tracts of the Southeast Punjab where it is below average. Ploughings for and sowings of spring crops are proceeding. Sowings are normal except in the Ambala division where they are seriously restricted on unirrigated lands for want of moisture. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices are generally close to normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless and the weather moderate. The condition of standing crops is generally good on irrigated areas and average on unirrigated lands except in the Swabi Tahsil of the Peshawar district. Irrigation from the Paharpur Canal continued. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are sufficient except in Swabi where fodder is insufficient. Prices are generally high but are falling in Dera Ismail Khan.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. The condition of the standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in one tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—During the week no rain fell throughout the Province. Reaping of autumn and sowing of spring crops are in progress. Cattle disease is reported in some villages of the Valley. Crops are in fair condition. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—During the week the weather was generally clear and hot. 54 cents of rain fell in Partabgarh and slight showers in parts of Jhalawar and Ajmer. Rain is very and parts of Bundi and Kotah where standing crops on dry lands have withered from drought. Fodder is generally insufficient. Cattle are generally doing well. Water is generally sufficient. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress and lands are being prepared for spring sowing. Prices are high and are rising. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Merwara and a few States.

Central India.—During the week the rainfall was partial in Gwalior, Malwa and Bhopawar. Elsewhere no rain fell. The weather was abnormally hot and more rain is wanted in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand and in the Rampurabhanpur district and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Lands are being prepared for spring crops in Indore, Bhopal, Malwa and Bhopawar. Operations have been retarded in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand for want of rain and in Baghelkhand for want of sufficient moisture. Standing crops are bad in parts of Gwalior, Indore, Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand and good elsewhere. The crops have been damaged in parts of Gwalior, Indore, Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand. The condition of agricultural stock and pasturage are bad in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand and are good elsewhere. Prices are rising in the Gwalior division of Gwalior, Bhopal and Bundelkhand, are above normal in Baghelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be clear and hot and occasionally cloudy. The week was rainless and the continued drought is causing further damage to autumn crops (except cotton). In the districts of the Central Provinces rain is urgently required to improve the condition of standing crops and ensure successful germinating of spring crops. Harvesting of rice, kodon and til has begun in several districts. Fodder and water are sufficient except in Saugor. Cattle are doing well. In Drug, Akola Amraoti and Buldana the price of food grains remains stationary, elsewhere prices rose from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ seers per rupee.

Feudatory States.—No rain fell during the week and rain is badly needed to improve crop prospects. Prices rose in five States ranging from $\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 seers per rupee.

Bombay.—During the week good to slight rain fell in the Konkan, the Deccan, the Karnatak and Kathiawar. The week's rain was useful but more is still needed in parts. Standing crops have been slightly damaged by locusts and insects in parts of Sind, by insects in parts of Broach, West Khandesh, Ahmednagar, Bijapur and Kolhapur and by rats in Karachi, Hyderabad and Rewa Kantha. They are withering in parts of the Deccan and Kolhapur. Autumn harvesting continues generally. Preparation of lands for the sowing of spring crops is progressing. Sowing continues except in parts of the Deccan where it has been retarded. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Drinking water is adequate and water for irrigation sufficient except in parts of Sholapur, Bijapur and Dharwar. Prices are rising in parts of Sind, and have fallen in the Deccan and the Karnatak. The public health is generally good. Stocks of grain are sufficient. The numbers on gratuitous relief for the week ending 4th October were :—Poona, Sholapur and Bijapur 459.

Hyderabad.—Little rain fell during the week, the average being 15 cents. Autumn crops are fair to good but require rain in the Raichur, Gulbarga, Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar districts. They have been damaged somewhat by insects in Raichur and Mahbubnagar. The early rice crop is fair and is being irrigated except in parts where water is insufficient. Lands for spring crops are being prepared and sowings are progressing generally except in parts for want of moisture. Fodder scarcity prevails in one, water scarcity in seven and cattle disease in five talukas. The prices of grains are almost stationary. White juar sells for ten seers per rupee in Hyderabad City. The highest price in districts is eight seers per rupee in Mahbubnagar, Nalgonda and Karimnagar and the lowest 24 in Adilabad.

Mysore.—During the week the rainfall was fair in Kadur and good elsewhere. Prices are steady in Mysore and Hassan, have risen slightly in Tumkar and show a downward tendency elsewhere. The markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The prospects of the season are generally good but more rain is wanted in parts of Kadur and Shimoga. Water and fodder are available. Cattle are generally healthy.

Coorg.—The rainfall during the week was 3 inches 5 cents. Rice is in good condition. Picking of cardamoms continues. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—During the week the rainfall was very heavy in Travancore, heavy in Chittoor, North Arcot, Salem, Malabar and South Canara, light to fair in Kurnool, Nellore and Tinnevely and good elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good but require rain in some places. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy over small areas is proceeding with outturn poor to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. The supply of water is insufficient for cultivation in many places. Fodder is generally sufficient. Pasture is scanty in many places. Prices are stationary.

Letter from the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs, No. 584^S-G., dated the 29th September 1913, embodying the Administration Report of the Indian Telegraph Department for the year 1912-13.

ANNUAL REPORT
ON THE INDIAN TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT
FOR THE YEAR
1912-13.

No. 584^S-G., dated Simla, the 29th September 1913.

From—The HON'BLE MR. W. MAXWELL, C.I.E., M V.O., I.C.S., Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry.

I have the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Indian Telegraph Department for the official year 1912-13.

2. The administration of the department was in the hands of Sir Charles Stewart-Wilson, K.C.I.E., up to the 17th February 1913 when he proceeded on leave. I held charge for the remainder of the year.

3. The number of persons on the establishment on the 31st March 1913 was 11,401 of whom 47 were women.

business.

During the year 15,764,265 telegrams were transmitted over the lines of the department representing a revenue of Rs. 1,10,02,277, giving, with receipts from other sources such as rent of railway and private lines, a total revenue of Rs. 1,52,79,958, as compared with working charges amounting to Rs. 1,28,21,644.

New radio offices were opened at Karachi and Butcher Island, Bombay, with a working range of 600 miles, for the exchange of public correspondence with ships at sea, and the temporary radio office at Bombay was closed. With these exceptions no departmental telegraph offices were opened or closed during the year, but three such offices were transferred to the agency of the Post Office and converted into combined post and telegraph offices, while 160 new combined post and telegraph offices were opened and 16 were closed, making at the close of the year a total number of 10,118 telegraph offices of all kinds in India and Burma of which 7,854 were open for public business. Of these 255 were departmental offices, 2,860 were combined offices, 4,732 were railway telegraph offices and 7 were canal telegraph offices. Fifty-two of the Government telegraph offices were also meteorological observation offices. There were also at the close of the year 4,650 post offices which are receiving offices for telegrams.

The telegraph system was extended during the year by the erection of 2,284 miles of line and 11,691 miles of wire and cable, and at the close of the year consisted of 78,862 miles of line and 311,034 miles of wire and cable, of which 96,587 miles of wire and cable were used by railways, 9,361 for canals, 19,249 for telephone exchanges and private lines and 185,837 miles for departmental purposes.

The number of instruments of all kinds rented from the department at the close of the year was 23,854, of which 7,172 were on railway, 1,125 on canal and 15,557 on private lines.

The total number of signalling operations entailed in the transmission of all telegrams from the office of origin to the office of destination increased from 75,451,192 to 78,200,879, giving an average number of operations per sent telegram of 4.96 as compared with 5.06 at the close of the year 1911-12. The statistics of 85 principal offices show that 53.07 per cent of the total traffic was in course of transmission within 10 minutes, and 73.08 per cent within 20 minutes of receipt of the messages in the offices of origin, and that 79.55 per cent of the total traffic was sent out for delivery within ten minutes of receipt in the offices of destination.

Principal events

4. In their resolution in the Department of Commerce and Industry No. 830-833, dated the 24th January 1912, referred to in the conclusion of paragraph 4 of the report for 1911-12, the Government of India announced their decision to bring the administration of the Post Office and the Telegraph Department under one head with the intention that the officer appointed to hold charge of both departments should, after he had gained some experience of the working of both departments, report whether a complete fusion of the postal and telegraph services was feasible and advisable; and, if so, that he should prepare a scheme for their gradual amalgamation.

Accordingly, on the 1st April 1912, Sir Charles Stewart-Wilson, K.C.I.E., assumed charge of the Telegraph Department, in addition to his duties as Director-General of the Post Office, and I was placed on special duty from the same date to assist him in administering the two departments and in preparing at the same time a workable scheme of amalgamation. The Government of India had announced that the general interests involved were of such importance that they considered it desirable that the public should be given a full opportunity of expressing their views on the question of amalgamation, and that the adoption of any experiments that might be made would afford a convenient means of forming an opinion. Proposals were accordingly placed before the Government of India towards the end of May 1912 for the experimental amalgamation of the postal and telegraph services in the Bombay and Central Circles from the 1st July 1912. The fundamental principles of this experimental scheme, which followed closely the systems in force in the United Kingdom and several other European countries, were the separation of the traffic from the engineering work of the Telegraph Department and the transfer of the telegraph traffic work to the Postmasters-General of these circles while the engineering work of both circles was entrusted to the charge of one officer, styled the Superintending Engineer, Telegraphs. It was considered essential that the circles chosen for the purpose of the experiment should adjoin each other and the Bombay and Central Circles were selected, partly because they represented different types of country in relation to both telegraph and postal work, and partly because the Postmaster-General of the former circle was a postal officer, while the officiating Postmaster-General of the latter was a telegraph officer, who had then been officiating as Postmaster-General for some time and had become acquainted with the system of Post Office administration. The experiment was approved by Government and introduced in July 1912. Its progress was most carefully watched departmentally, and was freely discussed with all the senior and many of the junior officers and subordinates of both the Post Office and the Telegraph Department. Full details of the experimental arrangements were communicated to the commercial bodies in the two circles, and the general public were also invited by means of a press communique and notices exhibited at all telegraph and postal offices to express their views regarding their suitability. The general opinion expressed at the end of October was decidedly in favour of the experiment. By that time Sir Charles Stewart-Wilson had come to the conclusion that the advantages of separating the traffic from the engineering work of the Telegraph Department were unquestionable, and that the separation could best be effected by the application to the whole of India as a permanent measure of the arrangements that had been in force in the Bombay and Central Circles from the 1st July. There had ceased to be, so far as could be ascertained, any feeling on the part of the officers or the subordinate staff of either the Telegraph Department or the Post Office against the permanent amalgamation of the two departments, provided that the interests and prospects of officers of all grades already serving in the departments were adequately protected, and it was ascertained that the leading commercial bodies and the public in India and Burma had no objection to amalgamation carried out on this basis. A complete scheme was accordingly prepared and submitted to the Government of India in November 1912. This scheme follows generally the lines of the experimental arrangements adopted in the case of the Bombay and Central Circles, and provides in detail for the transfer of traffic work to the control of Postmasters-General, the recruitment of engineers for engineering work only, and the abolition of dual control.

Under the scheme greater telegraph and telephone facilities will be afforded to the public, and the telegraph service generally will be improved in consequence of the closer control which it will be possible to exercise over the traffic arrangements, especially in the larger towns where all the telegraph offices will be placed under the control of the officer in charge of the central office.

The scheme was under consideration by the Government of India at the close of the year under review, and its details cannot therefore be furnished in this report, but the experimental arrangements were still in force in the Bombay and Central Circles and continued to work satisfactorily throughout the year. Towards the end of the year the Postmaster-General, Central Circle, reported that the traffic arrangements of the circle were without doubt better than they were in July 1912, and he attributes this to the excellent work of his traffic officers and to the fact that his traffic staff at the head-quarters of the circle had their attention concentrated on purely traffic work. Equally satisfactory results are reported by the Postmaster-General, Bombay Circle, and there can be no doubt that the provision of a separate traffic staff has done much to improve the working of these two circles and has facilitated the training of the staff both in departmental and combined offices. Superintendents of post offices are gradually being instructed in telegraph traffic matters so that they can supervise the working of combined offices properly, and they now take much greater interest in telegraph questions than before the experimental amalgamation, while their inspections of combined offices with the assistance of a specially designed form of inspection report have had a marked effect on the working of these offices. The newly organised traffic branch of the Central Circle was put to a severe test during the autumn tour of His Excellency the Viceroy in Central India from the 6th November to 20th December 1912. Twenty-one telegraph and seven booking offices had to be opened and, in addition to these, ten camp offices were opened for His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief. The organisation for the disposal of traffic was most efficient, and the heavy volume of additional traffic was handled without delay or difficulty.

Reports submitted by the officers responsible for the telegraph engineering in these two circles show that, owing to the separation of this branch from traffic, it is now possible for the engineers to spend far more time than formerly on tours of inspection and to exercise closer supervision over the line staff, with the result that this branch of the work is performed efficiently. The arrangement under which officers are employed solely on one class of duties promises to be as successful in the case of the engineering as of the traffic branch.

The Kashmir Division was abolished with effect from the 15th June 1912, and from that date a Superintendent was attached to the traffic branch of my office.

The head-quarters of the Ambala Division was transferred to Delhi with effect from the 1st December 1912 and that division was designated "Delhi Division".

Many measures of decentralisation of work were carried into effect and the procedure of the department was greatly simplified, with the result that it was found possible to dispense with the services of 34 temporary clerks employed in circle and divisional offices.

At the beginning of the official year the arrangements for the storage and issue of standard forms were found to be defective and stocks of such forms were generally far in excess of requirements. The whole position was carefully examined, with the result that the indents on the printing contractors during the latter part of the year for fresh supplies of standard forms were very small and a considerable saving was effected under the head "Stationery and Printing".

The construction by the department of the three large wireless stations at Karachi, Nagpur and Lahore was successfully completed during the year, and the new station on Butcher Island, Bombay, was almost finished. The delay in regard to this station was due to the breakage of some accumulator plates, which had to be replaced from England. Arrangements have been made to erect four more wireless stations at Madras, Secunderabad, Peshawar and Quetta during the current year.

The system of calculating guarantees for combined offices, which are unlikely to pay their way, has been thoroughly revised with the object of keeping guarantees as low as possible. Guarantors will also benefit greatly by the arrangements which have been made recently to use light and cheap material for combined office lines.

The old Delhi telegraph office was closed in November 1912, and a new Central Telegraph Office was opened near the Imperial Secretariat with every facility for dealing expeditiously with the increased traffic due to the presence of the head-quarters of the Government of India at Delhi during the cold weather. Local offices were opened at Kashmir Gate, Timarpur and Kingsway to deal with the traffic of certain local areas and reduce the pressure on the central office, and the Chandni Chowk office was made a delivery office for the city area.

The attempt on the lives of Their Excellencies the Viceroy and Lady Hardinge on the 23rd December 1912 caused an abnormal pressure of traffic in the Delhi office for some time, but the staff of the office proved equal to the occasion and disposed of all the messages without undue delay.

The Unattached List of the Telegraph Department consisting of twenty warrant and non-commissioned officers has been placed on a time-scale of promotion, by which sergeants attain the rank of sub-conductor after 9 years departmental service, and sub-conductors the rank of conductor after 16 years departmental service. Appointments to this list have, however, been discontinued since the 1st April 1913 and it will be abolished when the present incumbents complete their service. In its place it has been arranged to appoint annually to the establishment of civil telegraphists six qualified time-expired military telegraphists. The selected men are transferred to the civil establishment as General Service telegraphists from the date of their transfer to the Army Reserve or discharge from the Army, and their pay under the time-scale of pay sanctioned for civil telegraphists is fixed by the period for which they have rendered continuous service in the Telegraph Department as military telegraphists. This period will also count as service towards leave and pension under civil rules.

With effect from the 1st September 1912 the rate for telegrams exchanged between India and Burma on the one side and Ceylon on the other was reduced in the case of private telegrams from three annas a word to the rate for Indian inland express telegrams, vis., one rupee for the first twelve words and two annas for each additional word, with a proportionate reduction in the charges for press telegrams and telegraphic money orders. It is too soon to form an accurate estimate of the effect of these reductions, but from the beginning of September 1912 to the end of March 1913 the number of telegrams exchanged over the Madras-Colombo circuits was 189,043 as compared with 163,683 during the corresponding period in 1911-12, or an increase of 15.5 per cent. The increase in traffic during the same period in 1911-12 over the traffic of 1910-11 was 14,240 messages or 9.5 per cent. It may therefore be concluded that the reduction in rates will lead to an appreciable increase in telegraphic correspondence to and from Ceylon.

From the 1st October 1912 the charge for press telegrams exchanged via the Eastern Telegraph Company's cables between India and Burma on the one side and the United Kingdom on the other was reduced from nine to four annas a word. A corresponding reduction was made at the same time in the rate for other countries in Europe by this route, and the reduction was applied with effect from the 1st February 1913 to press telegrams exchanged with Aden, Perim and Egypt.

The system of requiring security deposits from members of the signalling establishment, native inspecting telegraphists and signal office clerks was abolished except in the case of a few appointments, the holders of which are responsible for large sums of money.

The staff of the central telegraph office at Calcutta decided to start a Co-operative Credit Society so that members would be able to obtain loans at a reasonable rate of interest. The movement was well supported from the first, and the Society started on the 1st July 1912 with 144 members holding 764 shares of Rs. 10 each. Five months later the membership had grown to 213 with a subscribed capital of Rs. 11,140 in 1,114 shares, and 78 loans had been granted aggregating Rs. 10,480. The annual report just published for the year ending 30th June 1913 shows that the authorised capital of Rs. 20,000 has been subscribed and that during the year 260 loans were granted aggregating Rs. 32,729. The success of the Society is now assured and it has already done much to relieve the telegraph staff from debts contracted at high rates of interest. It is probable that the example of the Calcutta office will be followed by other offices and that before long similar societies will be started in other large centres. The thanks of the Department are due to Mr. G. W. Talbot, who was at the time Superintendent in charge of the Calcutta Central Telegraph Office, for the great trouble he took in founding the Society at Calcutta.

SECTION I.—INLAND TELEGRAPHS.

5. The following table shows the numbers and value of inland telegrams of each class with the corresponding figures of the previous year :—

The average value of a state telegram was Rs. 0·872 as against Rs. 0·941 in 1911-12, while the average value of a private telegram was Rs. 0·549 as against Rs. 0·541 and that of a press telegram Rs. 0·981 as against Rs. 0·999.

The year's working shows a decrease of 2·42 per cent in number and 9·64 per cent in value under state telegrams, attributable mainly to the fact that the totals under this head were abnormally large during 1911-12 owing to the visit of Their Imperial Majesties to India. The percentages of increase were 6·01 in number and 7·65 in value under private, and 14·40 in number and 12·41 in value under press. The large increase under press is due to increased activity on the part of news agencies and the growing demand for early information on passing events in India.

Below are shown the percentages of inland sent traffic under the various classes during the last two years:—

Class.						1911-12.		1912-13.
						No.	Value.	No.	Value.

		Express	35·75	21·53	29·73	23·59
		Total	100·00	100·00	100·00	100·00

There is a slight increase in the percentage of private telegrams in the express class, but under state and press there is a decrease as was to be expected after the abnormal rise in the number of these telegrams sent during 1911-12 in connection with the Coronation Durbar.

Statistics of inland telegraphic money orders.

6. The number of inland telegraphic money orders dealt with during the year was 506,436 and the telegraph charges on these amounted to Rs. 2,42,174 as compared with 435,697 and Rs. 2,06,337 during the previous year, the increase amounting to 16·23 per cent and 17·36 per cent respectively. The number under each class and the telegraph charges realised during the past two years are shown below:—

Class.							1911-12.		1912-13.

7. In consequence of the large number of complaints regarding the insecurity of envelopes closed with gum it has been decided, in deference to the opinion expressed by the various Chambers of Commerce, to revert to the practice in force prior to the submission of the administration report for 1908-09, of closing envelopes by means of eyeletting. The principal reason for substituting gummed envelopes for envelopes closed with eyelets was the comparative slowness of the latter process, but it was found that this objection could be removed to a great extent by the introduction of improved eyeletting machines. These machines have been manufactured in the Telegraph workshops at Alipore but have not yet been issued to telegraph offices as, owing to the non-arrival of some machinery, the contractors have not yet been able to supply envelopes of the new pattern. For the present, therefore, telegrams are still being delivered in gummed envelopes.

Principal cause affecting inland telegrams.
Fastening of envelopes.

With effect from July 1913 telegrams re-directed to a second address, without orders for transmission to the new destination by telegraph, are posted as unregistered letters free of charge, and a remark to this effect is added to the notice of non-delivery sent to the senders of the telegrams.

Re-direction telegrams.

8. The Baudot system of working has been further extended. An additional set has been fitted at Calcutta and Bombay to meet the increasing demands of traffic. A new terminal set has also been fitted at Madras for communication with Colombo.

Introduction improved apparatus.

Among the improvements and new apparatus tried the following may be mentioned:—

The standard connections for terminal Duplex Simplex sets were modified and greatly simplified during the year.

A stopping device for Wheatstone Automatic working was tried with such satisfactory results that its use is being extended. This device enables a receiving station to stop the sending station in the middle of a message, when signals are not being properly recorded, without the use of a second wire and thus considerable delay to traffic is often obviated.

A keyboard perforator and automatic transmitter for Baudot working were also tried but these did not prove successful.

SECTION II.—FOREIGN TELEGRAPHS.

9. The following table shows the number and value of foreign telegrams of each class with the corresponding figures of the previous year:—

Statistics foreign telegrams.

These figures show a decrease under state of 32.73 per cent in the number of telegrams and 29.02 in the number of words, with an increase of 11.34 per cent in value, due largely to a revised method of accounting for foreign concessional telegrams. Under private there is an increase of 4.88 per cent in number and 4.65 in words, with a decrease of 1.13 per cent in value, and this difference in percentages is due mainly to the introduction of deferred foreign telegrams and the reduction in the rates for telegrams to and from Ceylon. The increase under press is 22.78 per cent in number and 39.44 in words with a decrease of 17.76 in value owing to the reduction of the rates for press telegrams exchanged with Europe.

Statistics of
money orders.

10. There were 24,673 telegraphic money order advices exchanged between India and Ceylon during the year as compared with 21,684 in the preceding year, the increase being 13.78 per cent. The telegraph charge for these advices was reduced, from the 1st September 1912, to one rupee for the first twelve words and two annas for each additional word.

Interruptions to communication with
tions.

11. Communication with Europe via Suez by the Eastern Telegraph Company's route was maintained without interruption throughout the year. Two of the Company's cables were, however, taken for repairs, one from the 22nd July 1912 to the 16th September 1912 and the other from the 22nd July 1912 to the 4th October 1912, and all continental traffic had to be sent by the third cable and the Indo route during this period. The Teheran or Indo route was interrupted for 224 as against 342 hours in the previous year. The Turkish route was interrupted for 616 as compared with 1,519 hours in the preceding year.

Communication between India and Siam over the Moulmein-Bangkok line via Kanburi was interrupted beyond the Indian frontier for 225 hours, as against 262 in the previous year. Within the Indian frontier the line was interrupted for 132 as against 85 hours in the previous year. The line via Raheng was interrupted for 489 hours beyond, and 15 hours within, the Indian frontier as compared with 631 and 117 hours, respectively, during 1911-12.

Communication with Australia and China by the Eastern Extension, Australasia and China Telegraph Company's cables was maintained uninterruptedly throughout the year. The cables from Madras to Penang were interrupted from the 16th to 24th December 1912, but during this period the traffic was forwarded via Bombay and Cocos.

Communication with China via Bhamo was interrupted for 2,673 hours beyond the Indian frontier, as compared with 3,251 hours in 1911-12. Within the Indian limits the route was interrupted for 48 hours only, as against 295 hours in the previous year.

Deferred Foreign Telegrams.

The system of deferred foreign telegrams in plain language at half the usual rates for private telegrams, referred to in paragraph 4 of the last Annual Report on the Indian Telegraph Department, was extended to practically all European administrations besides a number of administrations in the extra-European regime. The number of deferred telegrams exchanged during the year rose to 28,666 with a total value of Rs. 30,166 as compared with 3,720 of a total value of Rs. 3,798 for January, February and March 1912. The system meets a long-felt want, and is certain to be largely used when its existence becomes more widely known.

Mixed postal and telegraph services
the United Kingdom.

12. The use of the mixed postal and telegraph service between India and the United Kingdom, referred to in paragraph 12 of the report for 1911-12, continues to be neglected. The number of telegrams dealt with since the service was introduced is:—

					From India to United Kingdom.	From United Kingdom to India.
1909-10 (9 months)	359	22
1910-11	275	58
1911-12	303	63
1912-13	278	65

The introduction of the reduced cable rates for deferred telegrams will probably cause a further decrease in the number of these telegrams and, if a proposal now under consideration to extend to India the system of week end cablegrams is adopted, it is possible that the combined postal and telegraph service will gradually fall into disuse.

SECTION III.—COMBINED OFFICES.

13. The following statement shows the number of combined offices open at the end of each of the last five years, and the number and value of telegrams sent from them as well as the total number of signalling operations during these years:—

SECTION IV.—WIRELESS TELEGRAPHS.

14. Besides the erection by the department of the four large Marconi Stations at Karachi, Nagpur, Lahore and Bombay already alluded to, the principal event of interest in India under this head has been the large increase which has taken place in the number of ships fitted for wireless telegraphy. This result is largely due to the Titanic disaster, and most of the passenger steamers plying regularly in Indian waters are now fitted with wireless apparatus.

Progress in establishment of wireless stations.

The increased demands made by ships on the coast stations have been met by opening a new station at Karachi, and by arranging that Calcutta, Diamond Island, Mergui and Victoria Point should operate by night as well as by day.

There are now around the Indian coast six wireless stations which keep open permanently to receive distress and other signals from ships. These stations have working ranges sufficient to cover a large portion of the Bay of Bengal and the North-Eastern portion of the Arabian Sea and, as soon as the Madras station is opened, practically the whole of the Bay of Bengal will be within range of a coast wireless station.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Meteorological Department furnishes the coast wireless telegraph stations with a short telegram daily regarding the weather conditions likely to be met with in the Arabian Sea and the Bay of Bengal, and this telegram is supplied by the wireless station to any ship requiring it. No weather telegram for the Bay of Bengal is, however, ordinarily published between the 14th January and the 1st April as experience has shown that during this period the Bay of Bengal is not liable to storms.

Storm telegram

15. The total number of wireless stations has risen from nine to fifteen during the year, and of these five are situated inland. The latter have in a small degree assisted in the disposal of the ordinary traffic of the department, but it is as yet impossible to afford them regular work so that the actual number of messages dealt with by them affords no idea of their capacity. Special trials have, however, shewn that Calcutta is capable of exchanging with Simla about 1,600 words during each watch of eight hours, including repetitions at Allahabad and Delhi. Two stations working direct with each other can, however, deal with a heavier volume of traffic.

Statistics of wireless telegrams.

The number of messages of all kinds disposed of by the ten coast stations during the last three years is as follows :—

State of communication.

17. The stations worked well throughout the year except during the months of April, May and June when the atmospheric disturbances were exceptionally troublesome. There have been no serious breakdowns of apparatus during the year.

18. During the past winter the newly-opened Karachi station was frequently able at night to read the signals of a station in Northern Europe. On occasions press messages which were being despatched to foreign warships in European waters were taken down by that office. Extent of communications.

19. The total staff employed on the 15 stations was 7 mechanists, 32 telegraphists and 31 engine drivers. All the stations, except Bombay, are technically under the control of the Electrical Engineer-in-Chief and are periodically visited by his officers. During the year the entire control of the Bombay station was transferred from the Electrical Engineer-in-Chief to the Superintending Engineer, Telegraphs, Bombay and Central Circles, and the Burma stations were transferred to the Burma Circle, except as regards technical matters. Staff employed on wireless telegraph stations.

SECTION V.—TELEPHONES.

20. On the 31st December 1912 the number of telephone exchanges established by the department was 183, the total number of connections being 4,313, as against 179 exchanges and 3,485 connections on the corresponding date last year. In addition, there were 663 non-exchange circuits with 1,248 offices, the figures for the preceding year being 629 and 1,144, respectively, and 129 operators were employed in the exchanges worked by the department. The subscriptions for telephone and similar services increased markedly during the calendar year 1912. Statistics of telephones in use.

21. The telephone lines both at Delhi and Simla were placed underground. The old Kotwali exchange at Delhi with a system of 60 connections was closed and a departmental exchange was opened in the new central telegraph office building on 1st October 1912 with 90 connections, which had risen to over 300 by the end of March. The connections to the Simla exchange increased during the year from 325 to 425 and arrangements have been made to instal an automatic switchboard there next winter. In Lahore a 300-lines central battery switchboard was installed and the lines were thoroughly overhauled. New exchanges were also opened at Maymyo, Bangalore and Narayangunj. Progress in provision of telephonic communication.

Great care is being taken to afford the public an efficient telephone service, and it is evident from the expansion which is taking place in the system that the public appreciate the efforts of the department in this direction. Statistics of telephone exchanges established by Companies.

22. At the close of the year the number of telephone exchanges established by Telephone Companies was 13 with 7,899 connections, compared with 14 exchanges and 6,876 connections at the close of the preceding year, and the royalties paid to the Telegraph Department by the Companies during the year amounted to Rs. 72,540, as compared with Rs. 63,570.

SECTION VI.—CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE.

Unknown causes	839	8,504
Total for 1912-13	4,992	65,090
Total for 1911-12	4,753	61,879

The number of faults per mile of line and wire was almost exactly the same as in the previous year.

First fitting and refitting of offices.

25. Several important works were carried out by the Technical Branch during the year. Electric light and fan installations were completed in the Lahore and Mandalay signal offices, in the office of the Director, Madras Circle, and in the training class at Ahmedabad. The electric light and fan installations of the Agra and Madras central telegraph offices were renewed and brought up to date. An accumulator plant was installed at the Cawnpore office. New signal offices were fitted up at Cawnpore and Delhi and the Lahore office was completely re-fitted, the latest pattern of tables apparatus and wiring being used. The Belgaum, Manickganj, Rajbari and Silchar offices were also re-fitted.

SECTION VII.—STORES AND WORKSHOPS.

26. Stores.—The value of the stock at the beginning of the year was Rs. 48,96,000 and stores to the value of Rs. 32,81,000 were received during the year, of which Rs. 12,49,000 represented the value of stores imported from England ready for issue, Rs. 9,13,000 the value of stores transferred from the Workshops, and Rs. 1,93,000 the cost of stores purchased in India. The issues during the year amounted to Rs. 33,77,000, of which Rs. 1,52,000 worth was transferred to other Government departments, or sold to the public. The value of the stock in hand on 31st March 1913 was Rs. 48,00,000.

The total number of indents disposed of was 18,013 as compared with 16,263 in 1910-11 and 17,046 in 1911-12. The Calcutta depôt dealt with 66 per cent of these indents as against 67 per cent in 1911-12 and 73 per cent in 1910-11.

All indents for instruments continue to be dealt with at Calcutta, the number during the past year being 3,072, as compared with 2,306 and 2,239, respectively, in 1910-1911 and 1911-12.

The following permanent establishment was employed in the Stores Branch at the end of the year:—

Assistant Superintendents	2
Deputy Superintendents	6
Telegraphist	1
Store-keepers and clerks	86
Menial staff	62

In addition a daily wage staff of about 360 carpenters, packers, store-lascars, etc., is employed.

27. Workshops.—The year's outturn from the Workshops rose from Rs. 9,32,000 to Rs. 10,25,000. The value of the instruments made and repaired was practically the same as during the previous year but the value of line construction stores manufactured was greater by Rs. 97,700. Work done by the Telegraph Department Workshops.

95,780 galvanised tubes for telegraph poles were made as against 32,600 last year.

1,700 tons of castings, consisting principally of parts of telegraph poles, were manufactured at an average cost of Rs. 5'56 per cwt.

51 steel masts ranging in height from 70 ft. to 200 ft. were turned out for wireless stations and for supporting telegraph wires over rivers.

Excluding small articles, 5,890 instruments were manufactured and 16,488 were repaired during the year. 125 motors and dynamos other than those of the Workshops were repaired.

A nickel plating plant from which a very substantial saving is expected was installed in February. Gas for heating purposes was laid on to the instrument shops during the year.

The value of stores consumed was Rs. 7,85,000, of which the sum of Rs. 2,50,000 represents approximately the value of pig iron coke coal and other stores purchased locally. Of English stores 1,523 tons of steel sheets and 276 tons of zinc spelter were used in making and galvanising telegraph poles.

The staff working under the control of the Superintendent of Workshops consisted of a Works Manager, six foremen, an instrument tester, three draughtsmen and a clerical staff of 34. 859 workmen were employed, of whom 441 were piece workers.

SECTION VIII.—STAFF.

28. At the close of the year the total actual establishment of the department stood as follows:— Staff of the department.

Superior officers	91
Deputy Superintendents	130
Workshop foremen	7
Civil Telegraph Masters and telegraphists	2,892
Military telegraphists (including Unattached List)	609
Clerical establishment (including telephone operators)	1,102
Line and office maintenance establishment	2,968
Menial establishment	3,602
Total					11,401

The casualties during the year were:—

Deaths	81
Retirements	75
Resignations	57
Dismissals	44
Desertions	4
Transferred to other Departments	10
Total					271

The number of volunteers on the rolls of the department during the year was 1,062 as compared with 953. Of this number, 534 were extra efficient, 434 efficient and 94 non-efficient. By way of encouragement, prizes aggregating Rs. 1,305 were granted for proficiency in drill and shooting.

Certificates of proficiency in telegraphy were granted to 306 soldiers and 286 Post Office clerks as against 210 and 379, respectively, in 1911-12.

SECTION IX.—FINANCIAL RESULTS.

Receipts
charges.

29. The total receipts and revenue charges of the year, as shown in the Telegraph Department accounts and given in Appendix D annexed to this report, are as under :—

RECEIPTS.		REVENUE CHARGES.
1911-12.	1912-13.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1,42,74,275	1,52,79,958	1,23,24,356	1,28,21,644

According to these figures the charges for 1912-13 exceeded the charges for 1911-12 by Rs. 4,97,288, the receipts for 1912-13 exceeded the receipts for 1911-12 by Rs. 10,05,683 and the receipts for 1912-13 exceeded the charges for the same year by Rs. 24,58,314. The expenditure during the year debitable to the capital account amounted to Rs. 33,82,001, bringing the total capital expenditure up to the end of the year under review to Rs. 11,79,73,619.

30. The amount shewn above under revenue charges includes gratuities, leave allowances paid out of India and the average capitalised value of pensions paid to Telegraph department employes; and the amount shown under receipts includes the pro forma value of the news free and concessional traffic shown in Appendix B. The percentage of net revenue on capital expended, which amounts to 2.08 cannot be regarded as entirely satisfactory so long as it falls short of 3.5 per cent per annum, the average rate of interest which should be charged on capital expenditure, and the additional amount required for this purpose would be Rs. 16,11,927. This figure does not, however, take into account the services rendered by the Department in the care and maintenance of large quantities of mobilisation telegraph stores which are kept at the disposal of the military authorities at various centres, nor does it take into account the loss, which there is every reason to believe, results from the arrangement by which railways are permitted to retain the whole of the receipts on account of public messages booked at their offices, irrespective of the fact that such telegrams are transferred to the departmental lines at the nearest transfer office and that the traffic received from the railway telegraph systems is generally greater than the traffic transferred to these systems. Of recent years too the department has had to incur very heavy expenditure, both initial and recurring, in connection with the erection and upkeep of wireless telegraph stations, for which there is little or no monetary return.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

W. MAXWELL,

Director General of Posts and Telegraphs.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Simla, the 10th October 1913.

RESOLUTION.

The question of prescribing a uniform system of weights and measures for the whole of India has been under the consideration of Government from time to time since the passing of the Indian Weights and Measures of Capacity Act, 1871 (XXXI of 1871), by section 8 of which the Governor General in Council is empowered to introduce a system of weights and measures of capacity consistent with the statutory unit prescribed by section 3. Although the Act has been on the statute book for more than 41 years no notifications have yet been issued under it, as it was hoped that weights and measures based on the statutory unit would be gradually and generally adopted without further intervention on the part of Government. This hope has not, however, been realised. The Indian Railways and the Government Departments have it is true, adopted as standards the tola of 180 grains, the seer of 80 tolas and the maund of 40 seers; but no general tendency has manifested itself on the part of Indian Commercial Circles to follow the lead given them by Government.

2. The whole question was examined very carefully between the years 1890 and 1894 by the Government of India in consultation with Local Governments and Administrations, and the policy since followed has been to prescribe, as necessity arose, standard weights and measures for particular districts or groups of districts similar to those adopted by the Indian Railways and the Government Departments. Some of the Local Governments have taken action in this direction, but the general state of affairs is at present far from satisfactory, for the systems of weights and measures in use vary considerably, not only in different Provinces, but also in different areas of the same Province. The Government of India are fully alive to the difficulties which beset attempts to impose a uniform system of weights and measures for adoption throughout British India. At the same time they are satisfied that the existing lack of uniformity is seriously prejudicial to trade, and they have reason to believe that the development of railway communications and commerce in this country, the formation of Chambers of Commerce and the advance of municipal and trade organizations have gone far to remove objections formerly felt to the introduction of a single uniform system.

3. The Government of India have, therefore, decided to re-open the question of the feasibility of securing the use of uniform weights and measures in India, and to appoint a Committee to enquire into the whole subject. The Committee will assemble at Bombay on the 10th of November 1913, and will proceed to such places as it may consider desirable to visit in order to obtain the opinion of the Chambers of Commerce and leading merchants and others. The Government of India trust that Local Governments and Administrations will afford the Committee all the assistance which it may require, and will comply with any request for information and advice which may be addressed to them by it. The Committee will submit its report in six months and the report will then be referred to Local Governments and Administrations for consideration before action is taken upon it.

The Committee will consist of:—

PRESIDENT :

The Honourable Mr. S. R. Arthur, I.C.S., Commissioner, Central Division, Poona.

MEMBERS :

Mr. C. A. Silberrad, I.C.S.,
Magistrate and Collector, United Provinces.

Mr. A. Y. G. Campbell, C.I.E., I.C.S.,
Acting President, Corporation of Madras.

Mr. Rustomji Faridoonji, U.C.S.,
Commissioner of Excise, Central Provinces.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, to the Home, Finance and Education Departments and the Department of Revenue and Agriculture, and to the President and Members of the Committee.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

READ—

Letter No. 1860, dated the 19th August 1913, from the Deputy Commissioner, Delhi, forwarding the report of the Delhi Municipality for the year 1912-13.

Remarks.—1. Constitution and working.—The Deputy Commissioner of Delhi has, in his letter of 13th August 1913, with which he forwards the report on the working of the Delhi Municipality for the year 1912-13, given an interesting account of the development of the Municipal Committee of Delhi from small beginnings into the organization which now controls municipal affairs at the Capital of India. The dignity which has fallen on Delhi City by the Royal desire of the King-Emperor has brought heavy responsibilities in its train, and municipal affairs have now to be administered not only to suit local standards but in accordance with ideals befitting the control of the Municipality of the Capital of India. The census results of 1911 show a growing local population with needs to be provided for; the lesson of the malaria epidemic of 1908, the high death rate which still obtains in the City, and the notable prevalence of tubercular disease make it clear that the Committee has before it an arduous but necessary programme of sanitary reform. This programme must rank prior to the provision of minor amenities; but when such amenities come to be considered it must be confessed that the roads, schools and lighting of Delhi fall short of the standard which a Capital City might be expected to exhibit. The Municipal Committee have thus a task of great magnitude before them. This task is not likely to be accomplished unless the trammels of petty local considerations and parochial ideas are cast aside and there is a whole-hearted concentration on progress and efficiency.

2. The municipal machine at first appeared unlikely to adapt itself readily to the great changes for which provision had to be made on the formation of the New Capital. Steps have, however, been taken to remedy this. The appointment of an Additional District Magistrate has given the Deputy Commissioner adequate time to devote to his duties as President of the Committee. The appointment of a wholetime City Magistrate has enabled a proper enforcement of the municipal law and of Section 34 of the Police Act, while it has, by setting free the Assistant Commissioner acting as Secretary of the Municipality from all case work, allowed him to spend his whole time on municipal administration. Government has sanctioned a whole time Health Officer for the City and given financial assistance to defray the expenditure consequent on the appointment. It has also sanctioned the constitution of a separate Notified Area for the portion of the Municipality in which the temporary offices of the Government of India and residences of officials are situated, thus relieving the Committee of an area which would have proved expensive to administer and have caused a considerable tax on the activities of the management.

3. The Chief Commissioner is glad to acknowledge the fact that the Committee have, on their side, made earnest and well directed efforts to improve the machinery of their administration. The year's record is one of real progress. The Sanitary, Engineering, Finance and Tax Departments have been reorganized, and a new executive Department has been created. In regard to the latter, the Chief Commissioner wishes to offer some remarks. The departure from the system by which the Ward Members were supposed to be in charge of the executive work in their Wards, has, in some places, formed the subject of comment as a retrograde measure tending to curtail the direct interest of the members in the furtherance of the work and interests of the Committee.

The objection appears to be based on a misconception of the proper position of the members of a Municipal Committee. In the first place, material considerations prevent their becoming really efficient executive officers. Most of them are professional or commercial men, with a busy daily life of their own; many are in addition prevented by family reasons, by age or by enforced absences from continued application to executive work. But the case goes further than this. The true function of the Municipal Member is to advise, direct and control the municipal organization, the actual work of which is best executed by an efficient executive staff serving under the Committee. To entrust him with petty functions in connection with the sweeping of streets or the removal of obstructions, is to involve a confusion of functions which cannot fail to impair his value as a representative of the public. The Chief Commissioner takes this opportunity of noting that an increase of the Executive Department would appear to be necessary in order to provide for the speedier disposal of applications under the building bye-laws, and requests that the matter may engage the attention of the Committee.

4. The Chief Commissioner is gratified by the returns of the attendance of members both at the meetings of the Committee and at the meetings of sub-committees. Delhi has been prominent in recognition of the ability of the sub-committee system in the past and it is on the efficient working of this system that success in the task before the Municipality largely depends.

5. The Municipal Committee lost three members during the year—Mirza Suraya Jah, a Commissioner for twenty years, R. B. Jowahan Lal and Gopi Nath. There were six elections during the year; but in only two cases was there any contest. In the other cases the outgoing member was unopposed or the other candidates retired before the matter came to the hustings.

6. Taxation.—Octroi accounts for Rs. 5,81,787 of the total taxes amounting to Rs. 7,08,106. The actuals for 1911-12 were abnormal on account of the dabar; and the figures in the present report may be compared with the figures for 1910-11, which are Rs. 4,91,363 and Rs. 6,11,829 respectively. These are gross figures. Part of the increase may be put down to influx of population connected with the building operations of the temporary capital and the advent of the Government of India, and put to better assessment and collection. The octroi department is one of the municipal departments of which the reorganization has not been completed; it is not, however, predicted by the President that any large increase in receipts are to be anticipated. The octroi refunds now amount to 11 per cent of the gross income, and the steady growth of refunds, together with the complaint that the refund system is complicated and unequal in its working, make it necessary for the Committee to face at an early date the necessity for reconsidering the whole position regarding octroi. The objections originally formulated by the Government of India against a terminal tax have now been withdrawn, and the Committee should consider at an early date the arguments for and against the substitution of this tax.

7. The taxes on land, houses and buildings for the year amount only to Rs. 83,450 as compared with Rs. 86,683 in 1911-12 and Rs. 86,816 in 1910-11. The house-tax is the only direct tax paid by the inhabitants at large, and averages the low figure of only just over five annas per annum per head of population and Rs. 3-4 per annum per house. This tax only forms 11 per cent. of the total taxation. The low receipts appear wholly incompatible with the rise in price and renting value of house property in the Municipality. There is a small increase in the receipts from taxes on vehicles and animals and tolls. These two taxes only bring in about Rs. 45,000 and are obviously incapable of any material development. This subject is further dealt with in a succeeding paragraph (No. 8).

8. Financial Position.—Omitting Government grants, the financial position of the Municipal Committee in view of the work which has to be done is not very favourable. Taking the year 1912-13 as a normal year the receipts are :

	Lakhs.
1. Octroi after deducting refunds	5.12
2. Other taxes and specialacts	1.31
3. Revenue derived from municipal property and powers other than taxation	3.27
4. Miscellaneous31
5. Balance56
TOTAL	10.57

It is somewhat difficult to extract from the accounts as now presented the figures of normal expenditure, since the annual figures include expenditure of a capital nature out of special grants and contributions. But if as stated in paragraph 9 of the Deputy Commissioner's letter, the normal expenditure on "the payment of establishment and upkeep of municipal properties" is 11½ lakhs, it is clear that in order to carry on ordinary municipal administration and repay loans, without any special expenditure on improvements or large works, a normal deficit of about three-quarters of a lakh has to be faced. There appears no possibility of curtailing the expenditure on maintenance. While the Municipality may normally anticipate some assistance from Government for large works of improvement and sanitary reform, they cannot look to general revenues to finance a recurring annual deficit. The amount involves an increase of taxation of five annas per head of population per annum. It is not at all certain that octroi will bring in an appreciable increase. The nazul properties cannot be counted on as giving an increased income for some years to come. Some of these properties will be resumed by Government for the need of the new Imperial City, resulting in an immediate loss of income to the Committee. The latter assessment and collection of rents on other plots may lead to a better income in special cases; but the Chief Commissioner thinks that much of this will be discounted for some time to come by immediate expenditure on providing such area with roads, water and drainage in order to convert them into really valuable property. The conclusion appears to be inevitable that the deficit must be made up by an increase in the house tax.

9. General.—The Chief Commissioner has read with interest the report of the various Departments which are enclosed with the municipal report. At present the Municipal Committee makes a profit of 33 per cent. on its expenditure on work done for private individuals in connection with water supply. Apparently this admits a possibility of favourable developments. The total receipts for the sale of water are given as Rs. 1,73,412 against an expenditure (excluding capital charges) of Rs. 1,19,484. The rates have lately been revised, but it is clearly necessary by careful administration to do all that is possible to make up for the heavy interest charges on the capital outlay on the water works. The drainage system is in the crucible and awaits the event of the wide investigation now being carried out. Mr. Salkield's remarks on the road problem have been read with great interest and his whole note on the engineering branch is an excellent summary of the activities in store for this branch of the Municipality.

Major Cook Young gives an interesting summary of the difficulties of sanitation in Delhi and the steps that are being taken to combat the prevalent insanitary condition. With the help received from the Government of India, it has been possible to make considerable headway with reforms.

10. The detailed reports, and the remarks of the President, make it clear that the Committee have considered the programme of immediate requirements and have in hand a number of sanitary and other works of the most pressing urgency. While recognizing this, the Chief Commissioner wishes to indicate to the Committee the following items which have, in his opinion, a paramount claim on their attention during the coming twelve months :—

- (1) The formulation of adequate building bye-laws ; it may be said that at present Delhi has no building bye-laws at all.
- (2) The extension of public latrine accommodation of a revised type.
- (3) The regulation of the milk supply. Land will shortly be available for grazing grounds across the Jumna, and it will be necessary to transfer to these grounds a large number of the milch cattle now stabled in the city.
- (4) The improvement of arrangements for vaccination.
- (5) The improvement of the conditions in which meat is sold.

11. In regard to the remarks of the President with respect to the necessity for provision of room for the extension of Delhi city, the Chief Commissioner has given the whole question his earnest attention and comprehensive proposals will shortly be submitted to the Government of India dealing with the provision of areas for the extension of the city for many years to come.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the foregoing remarks be forwarded to the Deputy Commissioner, Delhi, and the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner in the Public Works Department. Also that the remarks be published in the Government of India Gazette.

By order,

G. F. DEMONTMORENCY,
Personal Assistant to Chief Commissioner, Delhi.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
11th October 1913.

Burma.—During the week the rainfall was moderate but uneven. The cultivation of winter rice and the harvesting of cotton are making normal progress. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice is stationary and is a little above normal.

Assam.—During the week the weather was generally dry and unfavourable for standing crops in Kamrup and Darrang. Harvesting of autumn rice still continues in Darrang. Cutting of jute and transplantation of winter rice are practically over. Sowing of pulses is in progress. Ploughing for mustard has commenced. The prospects of winter rice are fair on the whole and those of tea are generally good. The average price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease is reported from two districts. Fodder is insufficient in the Surma Valley and Kamrup.

Bengal.—During the week light rain fell nearly all over the Province. More rain is wanted in some districts for winter rice. Harvesting of autumn paddy and jute is almost over. Ploughing of lands for spring crops is going on and sowings have just been commenced in some places. The condition of winter rice is generally good and its prospects are hopeful. Cattle disease is reported from three districts only. Want of fodder is felt in one district and a report of injury by insect pests has also been received from one district. The price of rice has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. Gratuitous relief and agriculturist loans to the people in the flood affected areas of the Burdwan division were paid during the week on a comparatively moderate scale.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light to moderate rain was general in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and in the Bhagalpur division. There was practically no rain in the Patna and Tirhut divisions and more rain is wanted for winter paddy particularly in those divisions. Harvesting of autumn crops still continues. Preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops has commenced in some districts. The standing crops are doing well except in the flood affected areas where agricultural prospects are however gradually improving. The average price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. Agricultural prospects in the Feudatory States of Orissa are good on the whole.

United Provinces.—No rain was received during the week except slight showers in eight districts. More rain is badly wanted all over the Provinces. Crops on unirrigated tracts are suffering from want of rain except in the Eastern districts. Prospects are uncertain. Harvesting of autumn crops and picking of cotton continue. Fields are being watered where practicable and prepared for the sowing of spring crops. Cattle disease continues in twelve districts. Scarcity of fodder is being increasingly felt especially in Bundelkhand where water is also running short. Prices are still rising.

Punjab.—During the week the weather was dry and rain is badly wanted in the Ambala and Lahore divisions. In the Ambala division standing unirrigated crops are withering and sowings of spring crops are seriously restricted for want of rain. Elsewhere standing crops are generally average to good. Picking of cotton and harvesting of other autumn crops are proceeding with outturn generally average to good. Ploughings for and sowings of spring crops continue and are normal. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices of wheat are generally below normal and of other grains close to normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was cloudy and the weather temperate. Slight rain fell in Peshawar. The condition of standing crops is generally fair. Irrigation from the Peshawar Canal continues. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. The prices of wheat in Bannu and of barley in Peshawar are rising and of grain in Peshawar and wheat in Dera Ismail Khan falling.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 11 to 20 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in a few tahsils. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—During the week insignificant rain fell in some places. Harvesting of autumn crops and sowings of spring crops are in progress. Crops are in fair condition. Damage to crops is reported by hailstorms in some villages in the Baramulla district. No cases of cattle disease are reported. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—No rain fell during the week and the weather was cloudy and hot. Rain is wanted everywhere especially in the Eastern States and Central Rajputana including Ajmer-Merwara, where standing crops on dry lands have withered and fodder is generally insufficient. Cattle are generally doing well. Water is generally sufficient. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress and land is being prepared for spring sowing. Prices are high and are rising. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Merwara and Jaipur, Kishengarh, Bharatpur and Karauli.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week and the weather was cool. More rain is wanted in Bundelkhand, parts of Baghelkhand, Bhopal and the Rampura Bhanpura district of Indore. Preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops is in progress in Indore, Bhopal, Malwa and Bhopawar. The operations have been stopped in parts of Bundelkhand for want of rain. Standing crops are bad in Bundelkhand indifferent in Baghelkhand and good elsewhere. Crops have been damaged in Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Indore, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. The supply of fodder is indifferent in Baghelkhand, scarce in Bundelkhand and sufficient elsewhere. Prices are rising in Bhopal and Bundelkhand, are above normal in Baghelkhand and are steady elsewhere.

Gwalior reports rainfall nil during the week. The rainfall is insufficient except in the Malwa division and the districts of Bhilsa and Isagarh of Gwalior. Agricultural operations have been retarded in the Gwalior division for want of rain. Weeding of autumn crops and preparation of fields for spring crops are in progress in Malwa. Sugar-cane and cotton are being irrigated where practicable. Standing crops and outturn are bad in the Gwalior division except in the districts of Bhilsa and Isagarh and the Malwa division. Crops have been damaged by drought except in the districts of Bhilsa and Isagarh of Gwalior and the Malwa division and by locusts in two pe ganahs of the Gwalior division. The condition of agricultural stock is bad in the northern districts owing to scarcity of water and fodder. The fodder supply is bad in the Gwalior division and good in the Malwa division except in the Sangoh tahsil of Mandasur where fodder scarcity is felt. Prices are rising in the Gwalior division and are steady in Malwa.

Central Provinces.—During the week the weather has been hot and occasionally cloudy. In the Vindhyan districts, the Nerbudda Valley districts (except in part of Narsinghpur), Akola and Buldana no rain fell during the week. Drug and Chanda had 1 and 1½ inches of rain respectively, elsewhere the quantity registered ranged from 10 cents in Bhandara to 87 cents in Balaghat. The rainfall has greatly benefited the standing crops and has facilitated the sowing of spring crops. More rain is, however, required everywhere especially to save crops on light soils from withering. Germination of spring crops already sown is not very satisfactory for want of sufficient moisture in the seed beds. Reaping of autumn crops continues in a few districts. The supply of fodder and water is generally adequate except in Saugor and Damoh. Agricultural stock is in good condition. The price of juar remained stationary in 20 districts, rice in 19, gram in 16 and wheat in twelve districts. The price of gram fell and that of juar rose in Buldana by 3 seers per rupee. Other variations are unimportant but generally indicate an upward tendency.

Feudatory States.—During the week four States had a sprinkling of rain not exceeding 56 cents. More rain is urgently required everywhere to push on the sowing of spring crops and to ameliorate the condition of autumn crops. The price of wheat and kodon in Kawardha, of rice in Sarangarh and of wheat, gram and rice in Korea rose from 2 to 5 seers, while gram in Udaipur and wheat and gram in Jashpur fell from 2 to 4 seers per rupee.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week in parts of the Konkan, the Deccan, the Karnatak, Kathnawar and Kolhapur and slight elsewhere except in Sind. The rain has been beneficial but more is still needed in parts of the Deccan and Belgaum. Standing crops have been slightly damaged by locusts, rats and insects in parts of Sind, and by insects in parts of Broach, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur. Harvesting of autumn crops generally continues. The sowing of spring crops is progressing in parts. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Water for drinking and for irrigation is generally adequate. Prices are high but stationary. The public health is generally good. Stocks of grain are sufficient.

Hyderabad.—During the week the rainfall was light to moderate and beneficial to the autumn crops in the Gulbarga, Raichur and Mahbubnagar districts. Very little or no rain fell elsewhere. The autumn crop is fair to good except in parts of the Karimnagar district and in a few isolated parts but has been damaged by insects in parts of the Raichur, Mahbubnagar and Nalgonda districts. Early rice is generally fair and is being irrigated except in parts where water is insufficient. Lands are being prepared for the sowing of spring crops and sowing is in progress. Scarcity of fodder and water and cattle disease prevail in a few talukas. Prices of grains are almost stationary. White juar sells at ten and half seers per rupee in Hyderabad City. The highest price in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Mahbubnagar, Nalgonda and Karimnagar and the lowest 24 in Adilabad.

Mysore.—During the week the rainfall was good in Kolar and fair elsewhere. The price of ragi and rice has fallen in Tumkur and is steady in other parts. The markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition, but more rain is wanted in Shimoga. The prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—During the week the rainfall was general throughout. Rice is in good condition. The picking of cardamoms continues. The prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—During the week the rainfall was light in the Vizagapatam Agency and Tinnevely and good to very heavy elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good and have benefited by the recent rain but require rain in some places. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy over small areas is proceeding with outturn poor to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. The supply of water is insufficient for irrigation in some places. Fodder is generally sufficient. Pasture is scanty in some places. Prices are stationary.

AGRICULTURE.

Simla, the 13th October 1913.

RESOLUTION.

The following Rules and Regulations which have been prescribed for carrying out the provisions of the United States Plant Quarantine Act of 20th August 1912 as amended by the Act of March 4th, 1913, are published for general information, in supersession of the rules published with the Revenue and Agriculture Department's Resolution No. 17-40-3, dated the 1st April 1913.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR CARRYING OUT THE PLANT QUARANTINE ACT.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Regulation 1. Short Title of the Act.

The act "To regulate the importation of nursery stock and other plants and plant products; to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish and maintain quarantine districts for plant diseases and insect pests; to permit and regulate the movement of fruits, plants, and vegetables therefrom, and for other purposes," approved August 20, 1912 (37 Stat., 315), as amended March 4, 1913 shall be known and referred to as "The Plant Quarantine Act."

Regulation 2. Definitions.

For the purpose of this act the term "nursery stock" includes all field-grown florists' stock, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit pits, and other seeds of fruit and ornamental trees or shrubs, and other plants and plant products for propagation, except field, vegetable, and flower seeds, bedding plants and other herbaceous plants, bulbs, and roots.

The following classes of plants are included in nursery stock as defined above: Fruit trees, fruit-tree stocks, nut trees, grapevines, bush fruits, roses, rose stocks, forest and ornamental trees and shrubs (both deciduous and evergreen), field-grown florists' stock, cuttings, scions, or seedlings, fruit pits and other seeds of fruit and ornamental trees or shrubs, and other plants and plant products for propagation not otherwise listed, except as noted above.

All woody plants and parts thereof for propagation or planting are included within the term "nursery stock" as used in this act.

"Field-grown florists' stock" is all florists' stock which is usually grown outside of greenhouses for all or part of the year.

"Herbaceous plants" are plants which perish annually down to (sometimes including) the root; that is, soft, succulent plants.

Regulation 3. Applications for Permits for Importation of Nursery Stock.

Persons contemplating the importation of nursery stock shall first make application to the Federal Horticultural Board for a permit stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the country and locality where grown, the port of entry, and the name and address of the importer in the United States to whom the permit should be sent.

Applications for permits should be made in advance of the shipment of the nursery stock, but if, through no fault of the importer, stock should arrive before the issue of a permit the stock will be held in customs custody at the risk and expense of the importer for a period not exceeding 20 days pending the issue of a permit.

Applications may be made by telegraph, in which case the information required above must be given.

The port of entry is the port where the stock is cleared from customs and the duty paid, and is therefore not necessarily the port of arrival.

Seeds and plants not included in "nursery stock," as defined in regulation 2 and not under specific quarantine, may be imported without permit or compliance with other provisions of the plant quarantine act.

Permits are not required for nursery stock entering the United States for immediate transportation in bond to foreign countries.

Permits for nursery stock entering the United States for immediate transportation to interior points in bond are required only at port of entry.

Two forms of application are provided: (1) for importation of nursery stock from countries which maintain nursery stock inspection in accordance with regulations 6 and 7; and (2) for importation from countries which do not maintain nursery stock inspection in accordance with regulations 6 and 7.

Entry of nursery stock from countries which maintain nursery stock inspection will not be allowed unless the invoice is accompanied by an original certificate, and unless each container bears a copy certificate, issued by a duly authorized official of the country from which it is exported, stating that the nursery stock covered by the certificate has been thoroughly inspected by him or under his direction and found, or is believed to be free from injurious plant diseases and insect pests. Nursery stock exported between October 1 and May 31 shall be inspected on or after the 1st of October, and stock exported between June 1 and September 30 shall be inspected at the time of packing.

Nursery stock from countries which do not maintain nursery stock inspection will be admitted into the United States only for experimental purposes and in limited quantities under special permit through ports designated therein. (See regulation 5.) Such nursery stock shall not be delivered to the importer or consignee until it has been examined by an inspector of the Department of Agriculture and found to be free from plant diseases and insect pests: Provided however, That nursery stock which, in the judgment of the Federal Horticultural Board, can be cleaned by disinfection or other treatment may be delivered to the importer, consignee, or agent for the proper care and treatment thereof upon the filing of a voluntary bond, with approved sureties in double the invoice value of the property (the amount of the bond in no case to be less than $20 nor less than $1 per plant in case of date palms and date-palm offshoots), conditioned upon the redelivery thereof to the collector of customs within 40 days from date of arrival, and providing that the same shall not be removed from the port of entry until a written notice is given to the collector of customs by the inspector of the Department of Agriculture that the nursery stock in question has been properly treated. Nursery stock inspected, as provided herein, which is found to be carrying any plant disease or insect pest, and which, in the judgment of the Federal Horticultural Board, cannot be cleaned by disinfection or treatment, shall be refused entry. All charges for storage, cartage, and labor incident to inspection, other than the services of inspectors, shall be paid by the importer.

If a package of nursery stock offered for entry includes any prohibited article, the entire package will be refused entry.

Each case, box, or other container or covering of nursery stock offered for entry shall be plainly and correctly marked to show the number of permit, the general nature and quantity of the contents, the district or locality and country where grown, the name and address of the exporter, and the name and address of the consignee.

Regulation 7. Foreign Certificate of Inspection.

Each certificate and copy certificate shall give the date of inspection; name of the grower or exporter; the district or locality and the country where grown; a statement that the stock has been inspected by a duly authorized official and found, or believed to be, free from insect pests and plant diseases. The original certificate shall be signed and sealed by, and the copy certificate shall bear the seal of, the responsible inspection official for the country of origin.

Lists of officials in foreign countries authorized to inspect nursery stock, giving their names and official designations, will be furnished to collectors of customs through the Secretary of the Treasury.

Regulation 8. Notice of Shipment by Permittee.

Immediately upon the entry and before removal from the port of entry of nursery stock, for each separate shipment or consignment thereof, the permittee shall notify the Secretary of Agriculture through the collector of customs where entry is made on forms provided for that purpose, stating the number of permit, the general nature and quantity of the nursery stock, the country and locality where grown, the date of entry, and the name and address of the consignee to whom it is proposed to forward the nursery stock, together with the probable date of delivery for transportation.

At the same time a copy of the notice to the Secretary of Agriculture shall be sent by the permittee to the duly authorized inspector or other officer of the State, Territory, or District to which the nursery stock is to be shipped. Lists of such inspectors and officers may be obtained on application to the collector of customs or the Federal Horticultural Board, Washington, D. C.

Permits may be cancelled and further permits refused if a permittee fails to give either of said notices, or gives a false notice, or knowingly mis-labels any nursery stock with intent to evade any provision of the plant quarantine act or of any regulation thereunder.

Should a consignee named in such a notice ship or deliver for shipment to any other State, Territory, or District such nursery stock before it has been inspected by a duly authorized State, Territorial, or District inspector or officer, he shall prior to such shipment give like notice to the Secretary of Agriculture and to the duly authorized inspector or other officer of the State, Territory, or District to which the nursery stock is to be reshipped.

Imported nursery stock which has been once inspected will be allowed to move interstate without restrictions other than those imposed on the interstate movement of domestic nursery stock.

Regulation 9. Hearings.

When the Secretary of Agriculture contemplates the restriction of the importation of plants and plant products not included within the term "nursery stock" as used in the plant quarantine act, or the prohibition of the importation of nursery stock and other plants and plant products from any foreign country, or the prohibition or restriction of the shipment of nursery stock and other plants and plant products from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to another State, Territory, or District, he will give a public hearing to interested parties, who may appear either in person or by attorney and give evidence or be heard respecting the subject of the hearing. Due notice of the hearing will be given by publication or otherwise, as may be deemed appropriate. Notices will contain a statement of the action which is contemplated and the time and place of the hearing.

The above rules and regulations are hereby adopted and shall be effective on and after July 1, 1913.

D. F. HOUSTON,

Secretary of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21, 1913.

THE PLANT QUARANTINE ACT, AUGUST 20, 1912, AS AMENDED MARCH 4, 1913.

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE IMPORTATION OF NURSERY STOCK AND OTHER PLANTS AND PLANT PRODUCTS; TO ENABLE THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE TO ESTABLISH AND MAINTAIN QUARANTINE DISTRICTS FOR PLANT DISEASES AND INSECT PESTS; TO PERMIT AND REGULATE THE MOVEMENT OF FRUITS, PLANTS, AND VEGETABLES THEREFROM, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be unlawful for any person to import or offer for entry into the United States any nursery stock unless and until a permit shall have been issued therefor by the Secretary of Agriculture, under such conditions and regulations as the said Secretary of Agriculture may prescribe, and unless such nursery stock shall be accompanied by a certificate of inspection, in manner and form as required by the Secretary of Agriculture, of the proper official of the country from which the importation is made, to the effect that the stock has been thoroughly inspected and is believed to be free from injurious plant diseases and insect pests : Provided, That the Secretary of Agriculture shall issue the permit for any particular importation of nursery stock when the conditions and regulations as prescribed in this act shall have been complied with : Provided further, That nursery stock may be imported for experimental or scientific purposes by the Department of Agriculture upon such conditions under such regulations as the said Secretary of Agriculture may prescribe : And provided further, That nursery stock imported from countries where no official system of inspection for such stock is maintained may be admitted upon such conditions and under such regulations as the Secretary of Agriculture may prescribe.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury promptly to notify the Secretary of Agriculture of the arrival of any nursery stock at port of entry ; that the person receiving such stock at port of entry shall, immediately upon entry and before such stock is delivered for shipment or removed from the port of entry, advise the Secretary of Agriculture or, at his direction, the proper State, Territorial, or District official of the State or Territory or the District to which such nursery stock is destined, or both, as the Secretary of Agriculture may elect, of the name and address of the consignee, the nature and quantity of the stock it is proposed to ship, and the country and locality where the same was grown. That no person shall ship or offer for shipment from one State or Territory or District of the United States into any other State or Territory or District, any nursery stock imported into the United States without notifying the Secretary of Agriculture or, at his direction, the proper State, Territorial, or District official of the State or Territory or District to which such nursery stock is destined, or both, as the Secretary of Agriculture may elect, immediately upon the delivery of the said stock for shipment, of the name and address of the consignee, of the nature and quantity of stock it is proposed to ship, and the country and locality where the same was grown, unless and until such imported stock has been inspected by the proper official of a State, Territory, or District of the United States.

Section 3. That no person shall import or offer for entry into the United States any nursery stock unless the case, box, package, crate, bale, or bundle thereof shall be plainly and correctly marked to show the general nature and quantity of the contents, the country and locality where the same was grown, the name and address of the shipper, owner, or person shipping or forwarding the same, and the name and address of the consignee.

Section 4. That no person shall ship or deliver for shipment from one State or Territory or District of the United States into any other State or Territory or District any such imported nursery stock the case, box, package, crate, bale, or bundle whereof is not plainly marked so as to show the general nature and quantity of the contents, the name and address of the consignee, and the country and locality where such stock was grown, unless and until such imported stock has been inspected by the proper official of a State, Territory, or District of the United States.

Section 5. That whenever the Secretary of Agriculture shall determine that the unrestricted importation of any plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products not included by the term "nursery stock" as defined in section six of this act may result in the entry into the United States or any of its Territories or Districts of injurious plant diseases or insect pests, he shall promulgate his determination, specifying the class of plants and plant products the importation of which shall be restricted and the country and locality where they are grown, and thereafter, and until such promulgation is withdrawn, such plants and plant products imported or offered for import into the United States or any of its Territories or Districts shall be subject to all the provisions of the foregoing sections of this act : Provided, That before the Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate his determination that the unrestricted importation of any plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds or other plant products not included by the term "nursery stock" as defined in section six of this act may result in the entry into the United States or any of its Territories or Districts of injurious plant diseases or insect pests he shall, after due notice give a public hearing, under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe, at which hearing any interested party may appear and be heard, either in person or by attorney.

Section 6. That for the purpose of this act the term "nursery stock" shall include all field-grown florists' stock, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit pits and other seeds of fruit and ornamental trees or shrubs, and other plants and plant products for propagation, except field, vegetable, and flower seeds, bedding plants and other herbaceous plants, bulbs, and roots.

Section 7. That whenever, in order to prevent the introduction into the United States of any tree, plant or fruit disease or of any injurious insect, new to or not theretofore widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, the Secretary of Agriculture shall determine that it is necessary to forbid the importation into the United States of any class of nursery stock or of any other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products from a country or locality where such disease or insect infestation exists, he shall promulgate such determination, specifying the country and locality and the class or nursery stock or other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products which, in his opinion, should be excluded. Following the promulgation of such determination by the Secretary of Agriculture, and until the withdrawal of the said promulgation by him, the importation of the class of nursery stock or of other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products specified in the said promulgation from the country and locality therein named, regardless of the use for which the same is intended, is hereby prohibited; and until the withdrawal of the said promulgation by the Secretary of Agriculture, and notwithstanding that such class of nursery stock, or other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products be accompanied by a certificate of inspection from the country of importation, no person shall import or offer for entry into the United States from any country or locality specified in such promulgation, any of the class of nursery stock or of other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds or other plant products named therein, regardless of the use for which the same is intended: Provided, That before the Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate his determination that it is necessary to forbid the importation into the United States of the articles named in this section he shall, after due notice to interested parties, give a public hearing under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe, at which hearing any interested party may appear and be heard, either in person or by attorney: Provided further, That the quarantine provisions of this section, as applying to the white-pine blister rust, potato wart, and the Mediterranean fruit fly, shall become and be effective upon the passage of this act: Provided further, That hereafter any class of nursery stock or of any other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products of which the importation may be forbidden from any country or locality under the provisions of section seven of the Plant Quarantine Act approved August twentieth, nineteen hundred and twelve (Thirty-seventh Statutes, page three hundred and fifteen), may be imported for experimental or scientific purposes by the Department of Agriculture upon such conditions and under such regulations as the said Secretary of Agriculture may prescribe.

Section 8. That the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized and directed to quarantine any State, Territory, or District of the United States, or any portion thereof when he shall determine the fact that a dangerous plant disease or insect infestation, new to or not theretofore widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, exists in such State or Territory or District; and the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to give notice of the establishment of such quarantine to common carriers doing business in or through such quarantined area, and shall publish in such newspapers in the quarantined area as he shall select notice of the establishment of quarantine. That no person shall ship or offer for shipment to any common carrier, nor shall any common carrier receive for transportation or transport, nor shall any person carry or transport from any quarantined State or Territory or District of the United States, or from any quarantined portion thereof, into or through any other State or Territory or District any class of nursery stock or any other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products specified in the notice of quarantine except as hereinafter provided. That it shall be unlawful to move or allow to be moved any class of nursery stock or any other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds or other plant products specified in the notice of quarantine hereinbefore provided, and regardless of the use for which the same is intended, from any quarantined State or Territory or District of the United States, or quarantined portion thereof, into or through any other State or Territory or District, in manner or method or under conditions other than those prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture. That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of Agriculture to make and promulgate rules and regulations which shall permit and govern the inspection, disinfection, certification, and method and manner of delivery and shipment of the class of nursery stock or of any other class of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products specified in the notice of quarantine hereinbefore provided, and regardless of the use for which the same is intended, from a quarantined State or Territory or District of the United States, or quarantined portion thereof, into or through any other State or Territory or District; and the Secretary of Agriculture shall give notice of such rules and regulations as hereinbefore provided in this section for the notice of the establishment of quarantine: Provided, That before the Secretary of Agriculture shall promulgate his determination that it is necessary to quarantine any State, Territory, or District of the United States, or portion thereof, under the authority given in this section, he shall, after due notice to interested parties, give a public hearing under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe, at which hearing any interested party may appear and be heard, either in person or by attorney.

Section 9. That the Secretary of Agriculture shall make and promulgate such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying out the purposes of this act.

Section 10. That any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or who shall forge, counterfeit, alter, deface, or destroy any certificate provided for in this act or in the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That no common carrier shall be deemed to have violated the provisions of any of the foregoing sections of this act on proof that such carrier did not knowingly receive for transportation or transport nursery stock or other plants or plant products as such from one State, Territory, or District of the United States into or through any other State, Territory, or District; and it shall be the duty of the United States attorneys diligently to prosecute any violations of this act which are brought to their attention by the Secretary of Agriculture or which come to their notice by other means.

Section 11. That the word "person" as used in this act shall be construed to import both the plural and the singular, as the case demands, and shall include corporations, companies, societies, and associations. When construing and enforcing the provisions of this act, the act, omission, or failure of any officer, agent, or other person acting for or employed by any corporation, company, society, or association, within the scope of his employment or office, shall in every case be also deemed to be the act, omission, or failure of such corporation, company, society, or association as well as that of the person.

Section 12. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act there shall be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture from existing bureaus and offices in the Department of Agriculture, including the Bureau of Entomology, the Bureau of Plant Industry, and the Forest Service; a Federal Horticultural Board consisting of five members, of whom not more than two shall be appointed from any one bureau or office, and who shall serve without additional compensation.

Section 13. That there is hereby appropriated, out of the moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended as the Secretary of Agriculture may direct, for the purposes and objects of this act, the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

Section 14. That this act shall become and be effective from and after the first day of October, nineteen hundred and twelve, except as herein otherwise provided.

ANNUAL REPORT
ON THE POST OFFICE OF INDIA
FOR THE YEAR
1912-13.

No. 6178-B. P., dated Simla, the 11th October, 1913.

FROM—THE HON'BLE MR. W. MAXWELL, C.I.E., M.V.O., I.C.S., DIRECTOR-GENERAL OF POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS,

TO—THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

I have the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Post Office of India for the year which ended on the 31st March, 1913. The report deals with the last of the seven years of Sir Charles Stewart-Wilson's tenure of office which was marked throughout by progress and reform in every direction.

2. The administration of the Department was in the hands of Sir Charles Stewart-Wilson up to the 16th February, 1913, and in my charge for the rest of the year. Charge of the Post Office.

3. The following figures give some idea of the magnitude of the business of the Indian Post Office at the present time. At the close of 1912-13 the numerical strength of the staff was 92,870, the number of post offices open was 18,789, and the mileage of mail lines was 154,493. During the year 1,014 millions of articles, including 22 millions of registered articles, were given out for delivery; stamps worth £1,788,000 were sold for postal purposes; 29½ million money orders representing a total value of 34½ million pounds sterling were issued; a sum of over 7½ million pounds was realised on behalf of tradesmen and others through the value-payable system; nearly 2½ million insured articles representing a total insured value of 44 million pounds were posted, while the amount which had to be paid as compensation was only £1,538; pensions to the amount of £191,800 were disbursed to Native Military pensioners; a sum of £74,084 was collected by the Post Office on account of customs duty on parcels and letters from Magnitude of business.

abroad; 10,694 lbs. of quinine were sold to the public; and nearly 8½ millions of telegraph messages were sent from telegraph offices under the control of the Post Office, representing a total revenue of £308,252. On the 31st March, 1913, there were 1,566,860 accounts in the Savings Bank with a total balance of nearly 13½ million pounds sterling and 23,288 active Postal Life Insurance policies with an aggregate assurance of £2,141,769. The total revenue and expenditure for the year, after making the various administrative adjustments, amounted to £2,286,526 and £2,099,664, respectively.

Principal
post.

4. The most important event of the year under report was the amalgamation of the Traffic branch of the Telegraph Department with the Post Office in the Bombay and Central Circles. In each of these Circles the telegraph traffic staff was placed under the Postmaster-General with effect from the 1st July, 1912, and the arrangement has worked smoothly and efficiently.

Manœuvres in which 45,000 men were engaged were held from the 8th to the 12th December, 1912. Special postal services were employed and a travelling base office was established which controlled a large camp office at Sonapat and 15 field offices at various points between Sonapat and Delhi, according to the movements of the forces. The postal service was highly praised by the officers in command.

Two postal motor services were established during the year—one in Rangoon and the other between Trichinopoly and Tirumayam, a distance of 45 miles. Both have proved successful.

It is satisfactory to note that the number of deaths from plague has greatly declined. The figure for 1912-13 is 46 as compared with 194 for the previous year and 171 for 1910-11.

A large measure of reform resulting in a substantial saving of expenditure was effected by the abolition of the system of duplicate Savings Bank ledgers. Previously ledgers were maintained in each head post office and a duplicate set in the Audit offices. From the 1st July, 1912, the Audit office ledgers were discontinued and the work of preparing the annual interest statements was transferred to head post offices.

The number of combined offices increased from 2,713 to 2,860 and steps are being taken to provide telegraph offices wherever they are likely to prove remunerative. Particular attention is being devoted to the larger towns where arrangements are being made to enable the public to book telegrams at all but the smallest post offices.

Special postal arrangements had to be made for Imperial Delhi during the winter months, a large post and telegraph office being opened near the Imperial Secretariat. The staff of the Delhi head office was considerably strengthened in order to cope with the additional work, and a service of tongas was introduced for the conveyance of mails between the Secretariat and the head office.

A special train to convey the outward foreign mails from Madras was introduced from December, 1912, and has proved a great boon to the residents of that Province.

The Kalka-Simla tonga line was finally abolished on the 31st March, 1913, and all the mails for and from Simla are now conveyed by train.

Increases in
servants.

5. Increases in pay were sanctioned in the case of 20 head postmasters, 5 deputy postmasters, 537 sub-postmasters, and 417 branch postmasters. The pay of 692 clerks and sorters, 1,838 postmen and village postmen, 1,639 runners, and 448 other inferior servants was also raised.

6. The letter postage to the New Hebrides including the Banks and Torres Islands was reduced to one anna the ounce. Principal events, foreign post.

The value-payable system was made applicable to postal articles exchanged with the Straits Settlements.

The fees for telegraphic money orders issued in this country for payment in Ceylon were reduced, and arrangements made to enable the remitter to include a private communication to the payee in the official telegram advising the remittance.

7. The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company's steamers carrying the mails from Europe were due in Bombay at 6 A. M. on Friday of each week. During the year 52 weekly mails were received, and the steamers arrived at Bombay on 51 occasions on Friday and once on Saturday. In the case of the Friday arrivals the contract time was exceeded on five occasions. On one of these occasions the steamer was signalled at 7-41 A.M. and anchored off the Apollo Bunder two hours later, but owing to heavy cyclonic weather in the harbour it was found impracticable to land the mails at the Ballard Pier and they had, therefore, to be sent to the Victoria Dock where owing to the heavy weather landing was not completed until a late hour at night. The solitary instance of a Saturday arrival was due partly to the mail train having left Calais 8 hours late, and partly to the connecting steamer "Isis" having encountered extremely rough weather between Brindisi and Port Said. Working of the Peninsular and Oriental Contract.

The shortest time occupied in the transit of the mail from London to Bombay was 13 days, 6 hours and 49 minutes, while the average time for the year was 13 days, 8 hours and 34 minutes. In the opposite direction the quickest transit was 12 days, 21 hours and 56 minutes, the average time for the year being 13 days, 10 hours and 5 minutes.

Section I.—Post offices and postal communications.

(1) Post offices and letter-boxes.

8. Appendix I shows the number of post offices, letter-boxes, and village postmen in each circle at the end of the year, compared with those in existence on the 31st March, 1912. The decrease of 12 in the number of post offices is due to the closing of a number of unremunerative branch offices in the Madras Circle. There was an increase of 402 letter-boxes. The number of post offices in charge of schoolmasters and other persons who are not regular servants of the Department rose from 12,269 to 12,279. The decrease in the number of village postmen is due to the fact that with improved delivery arrangements many of these officials have been designated postmen. Post offices and letter-boxes.

(2) Postal Communications.

9. In Appendix I is also shown the number of miles over which mails were conveyed in each circle by various agencies. The total figures for 1912-13 and 1911-12 are given in the following statement:— Postal communications.

Statistics of postal arti-

10. The actual number of registered articles of the letter mail and parcel mail articles posted, added to the estimated number of all other kinds of articles given out for delivery except money orders, amounted to more than 1,014½ millions, or about 49½ millions in excess of the corresponding figure for the preceding year. Statistics showing the different classes of articles posted or given out for delivery in the various postal circles during 1912-13 will be found in Appendix II, and a general summary of the results is given in the following statement:—

Grand Total	965,392,730	1,014,788,447	+49,395,715	+5.12

It will be seen that there was a large increase in respect of all classes of articles except registered letters and packets, in the case of which there was a slight decrease of 1.43 per cent.

The diagram opposite this page shows graphically the growth of postal traffic in its principal branches since 1879-80, as indicated by the figures given in the various Annual Reports.

11. During the season of 1912-13 the total number of fresh fruit parcels dealt with by the Post Office was 16,750. Out of the total sum of R 23,270 received as postage, the Department had to spend no less than R 19,738 to convey them to the rail-head, leaving a sum of only R 3,532 to meet the cost of the rest of their transit to destination.

12. The second table in Appendix I shows for each circle the number of post offices, letter-boxes, and postal articles in relation to area and population. Average number of postal articles per head of population.

The average number of postal articles per head of population was 3.15, being highest in Bombay with 7.26.

13. The foreign correspondence received for delivery in India is included in the total figures contained in Appendix II. No estimate can, however, be given of the number of letters, postcards, and other articles received from the United Kingdom during the year. In previous years these figures have been calculated from statements furnished by the British Post Office showing the actual weight of each week's mail but, on account of the labour involved, the British Post Office has found it necessary to discontinue the system of weighing the mails. The mails received from the United Kingdom were, therefore, weighed by the Bombay-Aden Sea Post Office on two occasions, once in June and once in January, but the figures obtained from calculations based on the weight of these two mails are so largely in excess of those of the previous year that they cannot without further examination be taken as accurate. The estimated number of letters and postcards despatched to the United Kingdom was a little over 12½ millions as compared with about 12½ millions during 1911-12, and the number of newspapers, book-packets, and samples was a little over 2 millions as compared with 2½ millions during 1911-12. The decrease under the latter head is attributed to a large falling-off in the number of cotton samples sent from India to Manchester and Liverpool. Foreign correspondence.

As regards correspondence exchanged with countries other than the United Kingdom the figures for the year under report are based on the fresh statistics recorded in October, 1912. The estimated number of letters and postcards received in India from such countries was nearly 6½ millions while that of newspapers, book-packets, and samples received was about 5½ millions. The estimated numbers of (1) letters and postcards and (2) newspapers, book-packets, and samples despatched to such countries were 7½ millions and 4½ millions, respectively.

14. The total number of parcels sent by the foreign post from this country was 366,942 as compared with 334,812 during the previous year, and the number of parcels received was 522,839 against 474,912 in 1911-12. There was thus an increase of 9.60 per cent. in the number of foreign parcels despatched and of 10.09 per cent. in the number received. Foreign parcels.

Of these, 133,707 were sent to and 361,490 received from the United Kingdom as compared with 127,010 and 332,603, respectively, during 1911-12.

15. The total number of letters, postcards, newspapers, packets and parcels dealt with and money orders issued for payment amounted to 1,044,136,150 as compared with 992,362,407 in 1911-12. Of these articles it is estimated that 99.75 per cent. were actually delivered or paid. Delivery work of the year.

16. The total number of postal articles, excluding money orders, that reached the Dead Letter Offices was 9,294,168 as compared with 9,459,627 in the previous year. Work of Dead Letter Offices.

Detailed information showing the distribution among the Dead Letter Offices and the manner of disposal of the articles which reached them is given in Appendix III.

Of the articles received 37 per cent. were redirected to the addressees, while 42 per cent. were issued for return to the senders. Only a little more than 4½ per cent. of the total number of articles issued by the Dead Letter Offices came back to them undelivered, and the total number of articles finally deposited as "Dead," that is as undeliverable to either the addressees or the senders, was 2,281,494. This last figure includes a large number of articles which bore no address. In Bengal, Madras and Bombay alone, 142 articles were posted every day on the average with no address whatever, and many of these contained money or valuables. In articles opened in the five larger Dead Letter Offices, cheques, hundis, currency notes, bills of exchange, coins and other property of the nominal value of more than seven and a half lakhs of rupees were found. The great majority of these articles were successfully delivered to either the addressees or the senders.

(2) Postage Stamps.

17. Details of the issues from treasuries of ordinary and service postage stamps and stationery will be found in Appendix IV. The total value of ordinary postage stamps and postal stationery issued during the year amounted to 3 crores and 81 lakhs of rupees, showing an increase of more than 19 lakhs. The total value of service stamps and stationery issued exceeded 53½ lakhs, being an increase of nearly 1½ lakhs upon the last year's figure.

The quarter-anna ordinary adhesive stamp continued to command the highest sale, the total number sold being 238 millions as compared with 223 millions in the previous year. The half-anna ordinary adhesive stamp had the next largest sale with a total of over 135 millions. Then came the quarter-anna single postcard with a total sale of 113 millions as compared with 116 millions in the previous year, the decrease being due chiefly to the public using in its place halves of the new Georgian inland reply postcards, which, owing to a shortage in the stock of the old reply cards, had to be placed on sale before the new single cards. This was followed by the 1 anna ordinary adhesive stamp with a sale of 79½ millions. Of the small half-anna envelope, which is sold for the face value of the stamp, over 67½ millions were issued, the number for the previous year being nearly the same. The sales of 25 rupee ordinary stamps declined. They were not available at all treasuries during the greater part of the year, as the fresh supplies bearing the portrait of His Majesty King George V which had been indented for in 1910 were not received from England in time. There was also a slight decrease in the issue of R10 ordinary and R1 and R15 service stamps, but this was more than balanced by the increase in the sale of the other high value stamps. The remaining denominations of ordinary and service stamps showed a general increase.

In addition to postage stamps, non-judicial and court fee stamps are sold by many post offices but, except in Burma, postmasters act as private vendors in respect of these stamps, which do not form part of the Post Office balance. In Burma, where general stamps are kept by postmasters in the same way as postage stamps, the sales amounted to R1,00,298.

- New postage stamps and postal stationery of the *marginally noted denominations bearing the portrait of His Majesty King George V were issued from treasuries and post offices in India and Burma during the year. The new registration envelopes are of the same sizes as those previously in use but of a greatly improved quality, being of the same pattern as the British registration envelopes, while the face value of the embossed stamp has been raised from 2 annas to $2\frac{1}{2}$ annas, so as to cover both the registration fee and the initial rate of letter postage. The Georgian inland postcards are larger than the old inland cards, are printed in the same shade of grey as the quarter-anna postage stamps, and are provided with space on the address-side for the writing of communications.

Arrangements were made for the sale of service postage stamps to the public in order to provide facilities to stamp-collectors for obtaining these stamps.

Section III.—Insurance and Value-payable Post.

(1) Insurance.

18. The number of letters and parcels insured for transmission by post was Insurance business 2,706,436, with an aggregate insured value of over 67 crores of rupees. The following statement shows the year's business as compared with that of the preceding year:—

	Insured letters.		Insured parcels.		Total.
	Number.	Value.	Number.	Value.	Number.	Value.	Insurance fees.
		R		R		R	R
1911-12 ...	1,287,662	34,49,57,299	569,240	13,07,38,894	1,856,902	47,56,96,193	6,16,519
1912-13 ...	2,059,237	51,96,42,403	647,199	15,17,94,215	2,706,436	67,14,36,618	8,69,414
Percentage of increase.	59'92	50'64	13'70	16'10	45'75	41'15	41'02

The increase was due mainly to the fact that from the 1st October, 1911, insurance was made compulsory in the case of inland postal articles containing currency notes.

The average amount for which each letter was insured was R252 as compared with R268 in the preceding year, and the average amount in the case of parcels was R235 against R230 in 1911-12.

19. Three hundred and thirty-seven claims for compensation were made in respect of insured articles as compared with one hundred and sixty-two in Claims for compensation.

1911-12. One hundred and eleven claims were admitted, the loss having been caused in ninety-five cases by fraud or negligence on the part of postal servants, and in the remaining sixteen cases by highway robbery. The total amount paid in satisfaction of these claims was Rs 23,072-12-3 against Rs 16,364-3-0 in 1911-12. Of the sum paid Rs 11,060-15-3 was however recovered, so that the actual net loss to the Department was Rs 12,011-13-0 against Rs 6,257-8-6 in the previous year.

The following cases are of special interest :—

A parcel insured for Rs 500 was posted at the Palghat City post office. The addressee called at the Ernakulam post office and took delivery of the parcel on a clear receipt, after satisfying himself that it bore no sign of having been tampered with. He, however, took the precaution of opening the parcel in the presence of the sub-postmaster as some of the jewels which it was supposed to contain were intended for the sender's wife, and it was then found that the parcel contained a piece of gunny cloth and some scraps of paper, instead of five gold ornaments and four sovereigns. The Police prosecuted the sender who was sentenced to a long term of imprisonment.

In another case the addressee of a parcel insured for Rs 1,000 found that it contained rubbish, which the sender afterwards acknowledged having despatched as a practical joke. The case was referred to the Legal Remembrancer, Punjab, and on his advice no action was taken against the sender.

There was a series of cases in which insured parcels posted in Bombay and alleged by the senders to contain gold were found, after delivery to the addressees, to contain lead or stones. In every instance the parcel was delivered in good condition with seals intact, and as the Post Office was free from all responsibility the claims of the senders were not admitted. There is no reason to believe that a system of fraud was attempted by the senders, who belong to respectable firms. It is possible that the persons whom they employed to pack the parcels in tin cases substituted worthless materials for the gold before the parcels were sealed and taken to the Post Office. In one instance a broker employed by the sender confessed to having perpetrated the theft and was punished for the offence.

(2) Value-payable post.

ness.

20. The total number of value-payable articles of all kinds sent through the post was 8,815,915 as compared with 7,984,292 in the previous year, and the total amount declared for recovery rose from 9½ to nearly 11 crores of rupees. There was an increase of 10·42 per cent. in the number of articles and of 14·26 per cent. in the amount specified for recovery. The number of value-payable articles posted in Calcutta rose from 2,251,074 to 2,441,087, and the Department realised for the tradesmen of that city a total sum of Rs 2,93,95,610, or nearly 2 million pounds sterling. The number of value-payable articles posted in the city of Bombay increased from 1,180,138 to 1,219,345 and the amount paid to the senders was Rs 1,54,13,515, or a little over a million pounds sterling.

The increase extended to all classes of value-payable articles. The average value of a value-payable article posted was Rs 12-7-4 as compared with Rs 12-0-7 in 1911-12.

The number of value-payable articles despatched from India to Ceylon was 116,446 of the aggregate value of Rs10,80,672 as compared with 101,225 articles valued at Rs9,90,256 in 1911-12.

Section IV.—Money orders.

21. Appendix V (a) shows the entire money order transactions, including value-payable money orders, year by year for the past ten years, separate figures being given for inland and for foreign money orders. The total number of money orders issued during 1912-13 was 29,618,584 as compared with 27,243,409 in the previous year, and the total amount remitted exceeded 52½ crores as compared with 48¾ crores in 1911-12. Foreign money orders constitute, as usual, a very small percentage (3·36) of the entire transactions.

22. Appendix V (b) shows the issues and payments of inland money orders by postal circles and compares the results of the year with those of the previous year. More than 28½ million inland money orders, ordinary and telegraphic, of the aggregate amount of nearly 47½ crores of rupees were issued, on which commission amounting to 55 lakhs of rupees was realised. There was an increase over the transactions of the previous year of 8·75 per cent. in the number of inland money orders issued, of 7·00 per cent. in their amount, and of 6·82 per cent. in the commission realised. The average amount of an inland money order was Rs16-8-10 as compared with Rs16-13-2 in 1911-12.

23. Appendix V (b) also gives separate figures for telegraphic money orders. There was an increase both in the number and in the amount of such orders issued, as well as in the postal commission realised which amounted to Rs4,39,692 as compared with Rs3,91,028 in the preceding year. The average amount of a telegraphic money order was Rs78-12-2 against Rs80-3-8 in 1911-12.

24. The special classes of money orders for the payment of land revenue, rent, and miscellaneous Government dues are included under inland money orders in Appendix V (b). Separate figures for these classes of orders are given in the table below :—

25. Figures relating to the money order exchanges with foreign countries and certain Native States in India will be found in Appendix V (c). This shows (1) the sterling money order exchanges which are in force with the United Kingdom and its colonies and with foreign countries generally and (2) the rupee money order exchanges which are in force chiefly with countries and places in the Far East and East Africa. These figures call for no special remark.

British postal orders.

25. The popularity of the British postal order for making small remittances is steadily increasing, and 417,529 orders representing a value of £268,084 were sold as compared with 381,804 of the value of £251,664 in 1911-12. Of the total number sold, more than half were of the values of ten and twenty shillings.

The number of British postal orders paid in India was 133,701, amounting to £91,470. Of these only 18,012 of the value of £8,857 were both issued and paid in this country, thus showing that the public have not yet appreciated the usefulness of this means of remitting small sums of money by the inland post. The net commission realised on the sales was ₹16,537 as compared with ₹14,856 in the previous year.

Section V.—Post Office Savings Bank.

27. Appendix VI shows in detail, according to circles, the Savings Bank transactions of the year as compared with those of 1911-12. There were 1,565,860 active accounts in existence on the 31st March, 1913, a net increase of 66,026, or 4·39 per cent., over the figure for 1911-12. The total amount at the credit of depositors at the close of the year exceeded 20 crores 61 lakhs, which is higher by 1 crore 71 lakhs, or 9·06 per cent., than the balance at the close of the preceding year.

The deposits and withdrawals, exclusive of all transfers, exceeded those for the previous year by over 86 lakhs and 1 crore 18 lakhs, respectively, and the interest paid was higher by 5½ lakhs.

28. The number of Government promissory notes purchased through the Post Office was 3,461 of the nominal value of ₹23,07,200 as compared with 2,600 of the nominal value of ₹17,55,300 in the previous year. The number sold was 807 of the nominal value of ₹5,62,700 against 795 of the nominal value of ₹5,27,400 in 1911-12. The nominal value of the Government promissory notes held in the custody of the Accountant-General, Post Office and Telegraphs, at the close of the year on account of depositors in the Post Office Savings Bank was ₹89,39,700 as compared with ₹77,57,300 on the 31st March, 1912. 946 investment certificates for fractional amounts of Government promissory notes of the nominal value of ₹3,43,279 were purchased as compared with 868 such certificates of the nominal value of ₹3,02,388 purchased in the previous year. The number sold was 716 of the nominal value of ₹2,38,430 as compared with 754 of the nominal value of ₹1,85,934 in 1911-12.

31. The number of complaints recorded as having been made by the public was 58,522 against 56,203 in 1911-12, being an increase of 4·13 per cent. as compared with an increase of 5·43 per cent. in the sale of postage stamps. Of the total number of complaints received, 21,979, or 37·56 per cent., were found to be justified, while no less than 25,373 or 43·56 per cent., proved to be groundless. In the remaining cases, either no definite conclusion could be arrived at or the investigation had not been completed by the end of the year.

32. The number of cases in which servants of the Post Office were held to be guilty of offences punishable by law, as well as the number punished in these cases, are shown in Appendix VII, of which a summary is given below:—

	1911-12.		1912-13.
	Number of cases.	Number of offenders.	Number of cases.	Number of offenders.
Convictions in Courts of Law ...	299	267	289	260
Cases punished departmentally...	204	201	183	165
Total ...	503	468	472	425

There were 66 cases of misappropriation of office cash, 172 money order frauds, 12 savings bank frauds, and 146 cases of theft from mails and post offices. Most of the remaining offences were committed in respect of letters, parcels, or other postal articles entrusted to the Post Office for conveyance. Among the offenders convicted or departmentally punished were 28 departmental postmasters and 31 clerks, 69 extraneous agents in charge of post offices, 196 postmen and village postmen, 19 runners and 27 officials of the Railway Mail Service. The defalcations and losses amounted to Rs41,070-8-8 as compared with Rs58,073-15-8 in the previous year. Of this sum Rs26,558-7-6 was recovered from the offenders or their sureties, Rs2,302-1-0 was decreed against the Post Office Guarantee Fund, Rs54-3-0 was written off as irrecoverable, and Rs12,155-13-2 had still to be adjusted when the year closed.

other persons.

33. The offences against the Post Office that were committed by persons not belonging to the Department included seventeen cases of money order fraud, involving a sum of Rs3,925-12-0 and six cases of fraudulent withdrawal from the Savings Bank representing a total sum of Rs974-5-2. There were also one hundred and fifteen cases of theft of Government money from mails and post offices besides the cases of highway robbery which are dealt with separately. The total amount stolen was Rs32,934-7-2 of which Rs5,175-0-3 was recovered; a sum of Rs2,903-12-5 was written off as finally lost; and Rs24,849-10-6 remained unadjusted at the close of the year. The bulk of the loss was due to a series of burglaries in the United Provinces. Five head post offices were broken into and cash to the amount of Rs19,494-15-9, insured articles of the value of Rs2,237 and British postal orders of the value of Rs3,863-0-6 were carried off. It is believed that the burglaries were committed by a gang of professional thieves from Baluchistan. The Police have not traced the offenders nor recovered any of the valuables stolen, notwithstanding the offer of a large reward.

The following case shows the advantage of vesting the Postmaster-General with the power to withhold the payment of money recovered on a value-payable article when he is fully satisfied that the article was sent with the intention of defrauding the addressee. A person calling himself the agent of "The Backerganj fine rice Co., Ltd." sold two lottery tickets to two persons residing in different places in the Jessore district. His accomplice, who posed as Secretary of the bogus Company, telegraphed to the ticket-holders that they had each won a prize of a thousand maunds of rice in the lottery. The telegrams were followed by two value-payable Railway Receipt Notes, on each of which Rs500 was marked for recovery, advising the despatch by rail to each of the ticket-holders of the rice won by him. The addressees took delivery of the value-payable Railway Receipt Notes on payment of the money specified for recovery, but when they went to the Railway stations to take delivery of the goods they discovered that no goods had arrived and that a fraud had been committed on them. They complained immediately to the Post Office and payment of the money orders was stopped. Information was given to the Magistrate of Barisal and an enquiry was instituted which disclosed the fact that the Company was non-existent. The swindlers could not, however, be traced.

Highway robberies of the mails.

34. There were 19 cases of highway robbery of mails as compared with 28 in the previous year. Of these, 12 occurred in British territory and 7 in Native States.

Of the robberies that occurred in British territory, there was one in each of the Provinces of Bengal, Bombay, Burma, Bihar and Orissa, the Punjab, and the United Provinces; four in Madras; and two in Baluchistan.

Two cases were attended with loss of life. A runner carrying mails from Morvi to Bagathla in the Morvi Native State was murdered and the whole mail was carried off, but the Police succeeded in tracing the robbers and recovering most of the stolen property. Two men were prosecuted and one of them was sentenced to death, the other being acquitted.

On the 31st August, 1912, a mail contractor and his servant while conveying mails on a mule near the Lawari Pass on the Malakand frontier were both killed by outlaws from across the border. The whole mail consisting of three packet bags and 19 parcels was plundered. The Political levies succeeded in recovering the packet bags and some of the parcels, but failed to trace the offenders.

Particulars with regard to two other cases may also be noted. On the 8th August, 1912, a large gang of robbers attacked the jhutka conveying mails from Tirumayam to Kanadukathan in the Pudukota Native State. The mail guard was overpowered and wounded, but managed to escape and conveyed the news to Tirumayam. The sub-postmasters of Tirumayam and Kanadukathan and the Magistrate and Police of Tirumayam proceeded to the scene, and, with the assistance of the villagers, pursued the robbers who were obliged to abandon most of their booty. The greater part of the plundered mails was thus recovered, including insured parcels to the value of over ₹14,000. The State Police have not concluded their enquiries.

On the 17th September, 1912, the runner carrying mails on the Nepal-Raxaul line was attacked in Nepal territory by robbers who wounded him and carried off a portion of the mail. The remainder of the mail was recovered and forwarded to Nepal, and was found to contain, among other articles, two letters which had been insured for the aggregate sum of ₹3,800. When the insured letters were delivered nothing of value was found in them. The sender was suspected of having planned the robbery with the object of claiming compensation for the loss of the contents of the insured letters, and was prosecuted together with two accomplices in Nepal. The Nepal Durbar sentenced the sender to imprisonment for life and his accomplices to rigorous imprisonment for twelve years each.

In nine of the cases of robbery of the mails Government suffered a loss of ₹3,198-4-6. Of this sum, ₹111-12-6 represents cash and ₹3,086-8-0 the amount of compensation which had to be paid for the loss of registered and insured articles. The entire mail was recovered in four cases, and part of the mail in ten cases. In the remaining five cases the whole mail was lost. The offenders were prosecuted in eight cases, in four of which convictions were obtained.

35. There were several mishaps during the year resulting in the death of Post Office officials. Casualties.

A postman was drowned while crossing a stream in flood, and a village postman lost his life owing to the capsizing of a boat. Another postman was killed by lightning.

A runner was carried off by a tiger on the Ranchi-Daltonganj line, another died from snake bite in the Ratnagiri District, and two lost their lives in an avalanche on the Sikkim-Tibet line.

On the 21st October, 1912, a mail sorter accidentally fell between the platform and footboard of the mail van at the Sealdah Railway Station while the train was in motion, and succumbed to the injuries that he received.

Twelve post offices were destroyed by fire and one collapsed owing to heavy rains, but the value of the property lost was inconsiderable.

On the 31st March, 1913, the total numerical strength was 92,870 as compared with 92,755 at the close of 1911-12. This figure includes 282 pensioned soldiers of the Native Army, of whom 63 were non-commissioned officers and 219 sepoys. The number of women employed was 86, of whom 74 were either Europeans or Eurasians and 2 were Burmans.

The total number of servants of the Department dismissed was 471 against 540 in the previous year. Of this number 226 were postmen or village postmen and 28 belonged to the road establishment,

The total number of Burmans employed was 649 as compared with 497 in the previous year, and efforts are being made to increase this number as far as possible.

Use of private presses.

37. The charges incurred on account of printing work done by private presses amounted to R13,503 as compared with R10,628 in the year 1911-12.

Section VII.—Non-postal Branches of the Post Office.

38. During the year 163 combined post and telegraph offices were opened and 16 were closed. There was, therefore, a net increase of 147 in the total number of such offices against an increase of 136 during 1911-12. Of the 163 new combined offices, 156 were opened at places which had previously been without a Government telegraph office and 126 at places where there had previously been neither a Government nor a Railway telegraph office. The total number of combined offices open on the 31st March, 1913, was 2,860 as compared with 2,713 on the 31st March, 1912. The number of postal servants who qualified as signallers was 286 and the total number of signallers was 4,443 as compared with 4,307 at the close of 1911-12. There were 1,135 boys employed as messengers in these offices, the number at the close of the preceding year being 1,149.

39. In Appendix IX will be found the traffic statistics of combined offices. Traffic statistics of combined offices. which show that there was an increase over the previous year's figures of 738,742, or 9.62 per cent., in the number of messages sent, of 561,021, or 8.51 per cent., in the number received, and of Rs. 14,242, or 9.84 per cent., in the revenue realised on sent messages. The revenue from telegrams booked at combined offices was Rs. 46,23,789 against Rs. 42,09,547 during the preceding year, while the total number of telegrams sent, excluding free messages, was 8,415,817 and the number received 7,152,269.

40. In addition to the telegrams sent and received by the 2,860 combined Telegraph receiving offices. offices, there were 62,496 telegrams booked at receiving offices for despatch by post to telegraph offices as compared with 58,279 in the previous year. The revenue realised on these telegrams was Rs. 35,654 as compared with Rs. 34,545 in 1911-12.

The number of telegrams received at post offices in the Persian Gulf on account of the Indo-European Telegraph Department was 260 against 318 in the year 1911-12, the fees realised amounting to Rs. 2,905 as compared with Rs. 3,087 in the previous year.

41. The Post Office continued to act as agent for the receipt of salt revenue Receipt of salt revenue at post offices. at certain selected offices in the Punjab and North-West Frontier, United Provinces, Bengal and Central Circles. There was an appreciable increase in this class of work as shown by the following figures:—

			1911-12.	1912-13.

Indents received	...	No.	2,114	2,245

Value of salt indented for	...	Rs.	6,71,808	7,32,319

42. The Post Office obtained 10,694 lbs. of quinine for sale to the public Sale of quinine at post offices. as compared with 9,562 lbs. in the preceding year.

43. Appendix X shows the operations of the scheme of Life Insurance, Post Office Insurance Fund. Endowment Assurance, and Monthly Allowances as compared with those of the previous year, and Appendix XI shows the financial results of the administration of the Post Office Insurance Fund up to the end of 1912-13. The number of new policies issued was 1,920 of the aggregate value of Rs. 26,85,000 against 2,496 issued in the previous year for a total sum of Rs. 30,48,877. Of these 1,920 policies, 379 of the aggregate value of Rs. 5,89,800 were Life Insurance policies while 1,541 for Rs. 29,95,200 were Endowment Assurance policies, against 440 Life Insurance policies for Rs. 6,78,237 and 2,056 Endowment Assurance policies for Rs. 23,70,640 issued in the previous year. The falling-off, which is more marked under Endowment Assurance policies, is apparently due to the fact that the scope of the General Provident Fund was extended during the year with the result that a number of Government servants joined that Fund instead of the Post Office Insurance Fund.

The total sum realised on account of premia amounted to Rs. 12,97,673 as compared with Rs. 12,22,937 for the previous year. Claims to the extent of Rs. 5,99,666 were discharged as compared with Rs. 5,41,297 in 1911-12; while eighty-two Life Insurance policies representing a gross sum of Rs. 1,00,300, two hundred and ninety-seven Endowment Assurance policies representing Rs. 3,36,696 and one monthly allowance contract for Rs. 6 lapsed, were surrendered or cancelled.

Of the 1,920 persons to whom policies were issued during the year, 1,843 were pure Asiatics by race. Three women employed under Government were insured so that there are now twenty-five female policy holders in all.

Three new contracts for monthly allowances were entered into during the year, the total amount of the monthly allowances secured being R 40.

Two Life Annuities were purchased from the Post Office under Article 807 of the Civil Service Regulations.

The general results of the past two years are summarised below :—

The number of pensioners of the Native Army who had their pensions paid through the agency of the Post Office in the Punjab and North-West Frontier was 38,282 as compared with 38,310 in 1911-12, and the amount disbursed on this account was R28,77,664-13-4 against R27,51,321-11-4 in the previous year. The commission credited to the Post Office as remuneration for this special service was R21,582-7-9.

Section VIII.—Financial Results.

Financial results of working the posts in Kashmir.

45. The following figures show the financial results of the amalgamation of the posts in the Kashmir and Jammu State with the Imperial Post Office.

The total revenue was R 2,27,402 as compared with R 2,22,140 in 1911-12 and R 2,07,182 in 1910-11, while the expenditure amounted to R 2,37,041 against Rs. 2,46,718 in 1911-12 and Rs. 2,41,441 in 1910-11, the actual deficit for the year being Rs. 9,639.

46. The total receipts and charges of the year as shown in the Post Office Accounts and given in Appendix XII are as under:—

Receipts.		Charges.
1911-12.	1912-13.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
3,20,40,516	3,39,17,726	2,92,31,101	2,95,80,116

According to these figures, the charges for 1912-13 exceeded the charges for 1911-12 by Rs. 3,49,015, the receipts for 1912-13 exceeded the receipts for 1911-12 by Rs. 18,77,210, while the receipts for 1912-13 exceeded the charges for the same year by Rs. 43,37,610 as compared with Rs. 28,09,415 representing the surplus receipts for 1911-12.

47. Appendix XII shows also under a distinct head (II) certain charges which appear in the Finance and Revenue Accounts but not in the Post Office Accounts. These charges are reproduced in the margin* and if their total be added to those given in the table in the preceding paragraph, the total charges of the year amount to Rs. 3,03,99,296. It will thus be seen that there was a surplus of Rs. 35,18,430 on the year's transactions as shown in the Finance and Revenue Accounts. In order, however, to arrive at the true financial administration, it is necessary to increase the charges by a further sum of Rs. 10,95,672 representing the net balance of the items shown in the margin, and to add to the receipts the sum of Rs. 3,80,160 representing the estimated total value of the services rendered by the Department to a large number of Native States in carrying their official correspondence free of charge, in accordance with the arrangements under which their postal systems have been amalgamated with the Indian Post Office.

After these authorised adjustments have been made, the net result is a surplus of ₹28,02,918 as compared with ₹14,97,650 for 1911-12.

It will be observed that the result noted above has been arrived at without taking any credit for the loss on the large number of unremunerative post offices and road lines that are maintained solely or mainly in the interests of the Military or Political authorities.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

W. MAXWELL,

Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was nearly general rain on the 16th in north Bengal and Assam, but during the rest of the week weather was dry, except for a few falls in Assam.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—No rain fell.

Northwest India.—Kalat, Quetta, Drosh and Parachinar had light rain.

The Peninsula.—Occasional falls of rain were reported from south Madras.

4. The week's rainfall was 20 per cent or more in excess in Upper Burma and Assam. It differed from the normal by less than 20 per cent in Lower Burma and Baluchistan, and was 20 per cent or more in defect in all the remaining divisions, with the exception of the following where the absence of rainfall is a normal feature at this time of year: the Punjab, the North-West Frontier Province, Sind and Rajputana West.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is 20 per cent or more in excess in Bengal, Bihar, the Punjab Southwest, Sind and Gujarat; and is 20 per cent or more in defect in the United Provinces, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province, Baluchistan, Rajputana, Central India East, Hyderabad South and the Madras Deccan. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
18th October 1913.

Burma.—During the week the rainfall was moderate in Lower Burma and unevenly distributed in the dry zone. Cultivation of winter rice and harvesting of cotton and groundnut are proceeding normally. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice is a little above normal and is rising.

Assam.—During the week heavy to moderate rain fell in all districts which benefited winter rice and the cultivation of mustard except in Kamrup. Harvesting of jute and autumn rice continues in a few places. Ploughing for mustard and the sowing of pulses are in progress. The prospects of tea are generally good. The average price of rice has fallen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from three districts. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet and Kamrup.

Bengal.—During the week general rain fell throughout the Province doing immense good to the winter rice crop and facilitating ploughing operations for spring crops. The sowing of spring crops has also begun in places. The prospects of winter rice and other standing crops are promising except in parts of the flood affected areas. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. Want of fodder is felt in two districts. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. A small amount was given in gratuitous relief in some of the flood affected districts of the Burdwan division. Agriculturists' loans were paid during the week in Midnapur only.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week rain was general throughout the Province. The fall was mostly moderate and very beneficial to the standing paddy crop and for the sowing of spring crops. The harvesting of autumn crops is nearing completion. The sowing of spring crops has commenced. The standing crops are doing very well. Prospects in the flood affected areas are improving but some damage has been done to spring crops in parts of Cuttack by floods caused by the recent rainfall. Slight floods are also reported from parts of Balasore, but no damage appears to have been done by them. The price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from ten districts. Agricultural prospects in the Feudatory States of Orissa are good.

United Provinces.—No rain fell during the week except showers in the Central Submontane, South Oudh, Lower Doab, the south-eastern and eastern districts and in the Benares State. More rain is urgently needed throughout the Provinces. Standing crops are suffering from drought in most parts of the Provinces. Harvesting of autumn crops, picking of cotton and preparation of land for spring crops continue. Sowing of spring crops has commenced in some places with the aid of irrigation. Cattle disease is spreading slightly. Scarcity of fodder is increasing and in Bundelkhand water is also running short. Prices have risen further.

Punjab.—During the week the weather was practically dry. Conditions are reported to be unfavourable in the Ambala division where autumn crops are withering in unirrigated tracts and the outturn is expected to be below the average. Sowings of spring crops are seriously restricted and the necessity for rain is badly felt. Irrigated crops are doing well in parts of the division. Elsewhere standing crops are generally average to good. Picking of cotton and harvesting of other autumn crops continue and the outturn is average to good. Ploughings for and sowings of spring crops are normal. Cattle are generally healthy throughout the Province. The prices of wheat and other grains are close to the normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless. The weather was temperate and at times cloudy. The condition of standing crops is generally average except in the Swabi tahsil of the Peshawar district. Sowing of spring crops is in progress. Irrigation from the Foharpur Canal continues. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices of food grains are high but are stationary in Peshawar. The price of maize is falling.

Jammu.—Rainfall nil. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Kishtwar tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops are in progress. Cattle disease is reported in the Baramula district. Crops are in fair condition. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—No rain fell during the week. The weather was generally clear and the days hot. Rain is much needed. Crop prospects are unfavourable in the Eastern States and Central Rajputana including Ajmer-Merwara. Fodder also will soon be insufficient in these areas. Damage by locusts is reported in parts of Marwar and Jaisalmer. Cattle are generally doing well. Water is generally sufficient. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress and spring sowings have commenced in some places. Prices are high and rising in a few places. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Merwara, Jaipur, Kishengarh, Bharatpur and Karauli.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. The weather is seasonable. More rain is wanted in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand and the Rampura Bhanpura district and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Land is being prepared for spring crops in Indore, Bhopal, Baghelkhand, Malwa and Bhopawar. Operations have been stopped in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand for want of rain. Standing crops are bad in parts of Gwalior, Indore, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand and are good elsewhere. Crops have been damaged for want of rain in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior and Baghelkhand. The condition of cattle in the northern division of Gwalior is deteriorating. The fodder supply is bad in parts of Gwalior, indifferent in Baghelkhand and scarce in Bundelkhand. Prices are rising in the Gwalior division of Gwalior, Bhopal and in parts of Bundelkhand. They are above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in parts of Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be hot and occasionally cloudy. Except for a sprinkling of rain in the interior of Betul and the districts of Chittisgarh, the week passed rainless. Harvesting of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops were in progress. The autumn crops on poor soil, particularly in the Jubbulpore division, have deteriorated owing to the prolonged drought. The damage to rice and Kodon in the Jubbulpore, Damoh and Seoni districts is apparently considerable. Where rain fell in the previous week, prospects have improved but more rain is necessary for the successful germinating of spring crops. Fodder and water are generally sufficient except in parts of the Vindhyan districts. Cattle are doing well. Variations in prices of food grains are insignificant but generally exhibit a tendency to rise.

Feudatory States.—During the week nine States received rain ranging from 18 cents in Sakti to four inches in Bastar. This has improved the condition of standing crops but more rain would be welcome everywhere. Rice in Udaipur and gram in Jashpur rose by two and four seers per rupee respectively.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week in parts of the Konkan, the Deccan, the Karnatak, Kathiawar, Savantvadi and Kolhapur. The rainfall was beneficial but more rain is still needed in parts of the Deccan and Belgaum. Standing crops have been damaged slightly by locusts, rats and insects in parts of Sind, by rats in Kaira, Palanpur and Rewa Kantha, by insects in parts of Broach, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur, and by heavy rain in Kanara. Harvesting of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops continue. The fodder supply is generally sufficient. Agricultural stock is good and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Drinking and irrigation water is adequate. Prices are high but are fluctuating. The public health is generally good. Grain stocks are sufficient.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was general and moderate and beneficial to autumn crops. Mahbubnagar, Gulbarga and Karimnagar received good showers. The average for the Dominions was 1 inch 32 cents. Autumn crops are generally fair to good but have been damaged by locusts in parts of the Gulbarga, Raichur and Nalgonda districts. Early rice is being irrigated and the crop is fair, but is suffering in parts of the Karimnagar district and in a few isolated parts. Lands are being prepared for spring crops and sowings are progressing briskly. Fodder scarcity prevails in one taluka, water scarcity in five and cattle disease in five. The price of grains remains constant. White juar is selling at 10 seers per rupee in Hyderabad City. The highest price in districts is 8 seers in Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar and the lowest 25 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—The rainfall was good in Kadur and Shimoga and light to fair elsewhere. The price of ragi has risen slightly in Bangalore and has fallen in Kadur. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition, but more rain is needed in parts of Hassan. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The rainfall was general throughout the Province. Rice is in good condition. Picking of cardamom continues. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—During the week the rainfall was very heavy in Ganjam, the Vizagapatam littoral, Malabar and South Canara, heavy in the Vizagapatam Agency, Sandur and Cochin, light in South Arcot, Salem, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly and the South and fair to good elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy over small areas is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowing of dry crops and paddy is proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. The supply of water is insufficient for irrigation in some places. Fodder is generally sufficient. Pasture is scanty in some places. Prices are stationary.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

Simla, the 24th October 1913.

RESOLUTION.

READ :—

Notification in the Department of Finance and Commerce, No. 1354, dated the 14th March 1869.

Notification in the Home Department, No. 1902-(Sanitary), dated the 14th October 1910.

Schedule A to Notification, No. 94-E, dated the 18th March 1886.

As a result of the enquiries set on foot after the loss of the 'Titanic' the Board of Trade made a comprehensive revision of the scale of boats and life-saving appliances to be provided on board ships in the United Kingdom and appointed Committees of experts to deal with collateral questions arising in the same connection.

Meanwhile the maritime Local Governments have been consulted as to the necessity for revising the rules which govern vessels in British India, particularly those under the Native Passenger Ships Act, 1837, the Pilgrim Ships Act, 1895, and the Indian Emigration Act, 1908, which are read in the notifications detailed above. The replies show that, while revision is undoubtedly necessary, there is great divergence of opinion as to the extent to which it is required and the lines on which it should proceed.

The subject is one of considerable difficulty and complexity involving a number of technical and other questions which need careful scrutiny. The Government of India have therefore decided to appoint a Committee representative of official and non-official interests which will enquire generally into the sufficiency of the existing rules and report its views to Government. The Committee will consist of the following President and Members :—

PRESIDENT.

Mr. C. G. Todhunter, I.C.S., Collector, Madras Presidency.

MEMBERS.

The Hon'ble Sir Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy Ebrahim, Kt, Bombay.

Commander C. J. C. Kendall, D.S.O., R.I.M., Port Officer, Calcutta.

Mr. W. H. Ogston, Partner, Messrs. Killick, Nixon & Co., Bombay.

Captain P. deSt. Croix, Marine Department, British India Steam Navigation Company, Calcutta.

The Committee will meet at Bombay on the 10th November next and will subsequently visit such principal ports and make such enquiries as may be necessary. It will submit its report to the Government of India on the 1st March 1914. The report will be accompanied by drafts of the rules which it recommends for adoption.

The Government of India trust that Local Governments and Administrations will afford the Committee all the assistance which it may require, and will comply with any requests for information and advice which it may address to them.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, to the Home, Finance and Education Departments and to the President and Members of the Committee.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

TARIFF VALUATION OF SUGAR.

The following statement shows in respect of each of the descriptions of sugar distinguished in the Tariff Schedule IV (excepting molasses and all other kinds of sugar), firstly, the total imports into India in the month of September, 1913, and the average value per cwt. as calculated on the returns received from the Customs Houses; and, secondly, a running total showing the total imports into India in the whole twelve months October, 1912 to September, 1913, and the average net value per cwt. in each description. It is published in conformity with the procedure laid down in Customs Circular No. V of 1911, in order to enable merchants to compute the probable rate of duty for the year 1914:—

REPORT UPON THE OPERATIONS OF THE CURRENCY DEPARTMENT
DURING THE YEAR 1912-13.

From—M. F. GAUNTLETT, Esq., Comptroller-General and Head Commissioner of Paper Currency.

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Finance Department:

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit my report on the operations of the Currency Department, the movement of funds and on the resource operations of Government during the year 1912-13.

The main features of general interest of the report are the following :— Main features of general interest.

the large increase in the cash balances in the Government treasuries during the year was not produced by withdrawing funds from circulation in India (paragraph 13) :

the demands for rupees in financing the jute trade were very heavy, and Government were obliged to undertake new coinage of rupees by purchasing silver worth £7,000,000 (paragraphs 6 and 18) :

the absorption of currency of all kinds in the year amounted to 24½ crores against an average of 21¼ crores in the preceding three years (paragraph 21) :

the absorption of gold increased in every province save Madras, the total for all India being 15½ crores, out of a total absorption of all forms of currency of 24½ crores (paragraphs 25 and 37) :

the analysis of this absorption by circles, trade seasons and denominations of currency, and the inferences drawn therefrom, in paragraph 26 contain several matters of interest :

the use of gold as currency is extending, specially in Northern India and Bombay (paragraph 41), and in those parts at least gold has to some extent replaced in the circulation rupees (paragraph 44) and small notes (paragraph 59). The part which gold plays in the circulation is discussed in some detail in paragraph 41:

the rate of development in active note circulation was well maintained in 1912-13 (paragraph 51) and there was a steady increase in the circulation of small value notes used for everyday transactions (paragraph 53). But the growth of the circulation of small notes seems to have received a check owing to the more extended use of gold as currency (paragraph 59). The use of notes for remittance purposes is increasing (paragraphs 56 and 57).

I would invite special attention to the statements and remarks in paragraph 26, which, I venture to think, indicate more clearly than has hitherto been attempted, the correlation of the various forms of currency in the internal financial operations of the country.

I—BALANCE OF FOREIGN TRADE AND THE FINANCING THEREOF.

2. The following table shows the balance of foreign trade and the manner in which that balance was financed in the year under report and in each of the previous seven years :— Balance of Foreign Trade how financed.

(a) Opening Balances at commencement of year.

Although there are considerable variations in the monthly details, the progressive totals for the year show that, while the bank balances remained high, the value of the exports was allowed to exceed the imports, but that, as soon as the busy season lowered those balances, the progressive value of the imports rapidly caught up that of the exports. The reduction of the balance of the Bank of Bombay by 1½ crores during the year was mainly due to a temporary lock up of funds in cotton at the close.

of Mer- 3. Exports are steadily increasing. In 1912-13 there was a total increase of 18,06 lakhs over 1911-12 to which the following important variations mainly contributed:—

Increases.

	Lakhs.
Gunny bags and gunny cloth	6,80
Jute, raw	4,49
Wheat and wheat flour	4,63
Rice	3,51
Barley	3,31
Cotton, twist and yarn	2,33
Raw hides and skins	2,32
Tea	1,24
Ground nuts	86

Decreases.

	Lakhs.
Linseed	4,94
Gram and pulse	1,90
Opium	1,87
Raw cotton	1,66
Sugar	1,52
	11,89

Net important increase 17,60

Under jute and jute manufactures the year proved the most prosperous on record. In spite of the fact that the production of jute in the year was considerably in excess of the average of recent years, the demands for both the raw article and the manufactured goods were so great that a much higher level of price was maintained and the value of the exports beat all past records.

The increase under wheat and wheat flour occurred mainly in the United Provinces and the Punjab and partly in the Central Provinces. The exports from India appear to have been stimulated to some extent by a contraction of shipments from Russia due to the Balkan War.

Of the increase of 3,51 lakhs under rice, Burma contributed 2,53 lakhs and Bengal 69. Prices were unusually high in Burma in the early months of the year owing to shortage of crops in the Further East and the total exports from all India amounted to 2,763,000 tons against 2,624,000 tons in 1911-12 and 2,328,000 tons, the average of the previous three years.

The improvement in the exports of cotton twist and yarn was almost entirely in Bombay and raw hides and skins showed an increase chiefly in Bengal.

The increase in the groundnut trade took place in Madras.

The trade in linseed was abnormal in 1911-12 and in 1912-13 it returned to its usual level. The exports of pulse, millets and cereals were also unprecedentedly high in 1911-12. The exports of raw cotton from Bombay suffered a decline, owing to the failure of the monsoon of 1911 in the Guzarat districts coupled with the existence of large supplies of American cotton. The shortage at Bombay amounted to 4,03 lakhs in value, but this was partly counterbalanced by an improvement of 1,83 in the exports from Karachi.

4. Here the total increase amounted to 22,45 lakhs. The important increases occurred under the following heads:—

	Lakhs.
Cotton yarn and piece-goods	11,39
Sugar	2,37
Railway plant and rolling stock	1,97
Metals and manufactures of metal	1,42
Silk goods	1,07
Machinery	1,30
Building and Engineering Materials, Dyeing and Tanning Substances, Glass and Glassware, Instruments and Liquors	1,12
Coal, coke and fuel	65
Cutlery and hardware, etc.	60
Provisions	41
	<hr/> 22,30 lakhs

The large expansion in the imports of cotton yarn and piece-goods, railway plant and rolling stock, silk goods, machinery and provisions indicates the growth in the material prosperity of the country and in its industrial activity.

Although the increase in the value of the total exports of the year amounted to 18.06 crores the improvement in imports was still higher, 22.45 crores, and in the result the net exports were less by (22.45—18.06 or) 4.39 crores. This is the first time in four years that there has not been a progressive improvement in the net exports, and the deterioration is due solely to the transactions of the month of March when the net exports fell by 5.44 crores as compared with March 1912. Corresponding to the reduction in net exports, the imports of funds in India to finance the foreign trade were somewhat smaller both under Council bills and sovereigns.

5. The figures given in the first table in paragraph 2 show an increase, in 1912-13, in the imports of gold bullion of 73 lakhs and of silver bullion of 1,28 lakhs over the corresponding figures of 1911-12. It should be noted that these figures take into account, in the case of gold, coined gold other than sovereigns and also the exports of metallic gold from the Mysore mines. In the case of silver the figures comprise not only the imports of bar silver from the United Kingdom and other countries for the arts and industries, but also the imports and exports of Government of India rupees and the exports of British dollars coined at the Bombay Mint for circulation in Hongkong.

The production of the Mysore mines varies little from year to year, but in 1912-13 the net imports of coined gold other than sovereigns amounted to 23 lakhs against 35 lakhs in 1911-12, and the net import of gold bullion in 1912-13 was, therefore (73+35-23), 85 lakhs more than in 1911-12. The difference is not very large, but, as the first table in paragraph 2 shows, the figures for the three years 1910-11 to 1912-13 are unusually high, and, as the gold bullion is used mainly for the arts and manufactures, they indicate a steady continuance of the favourable material conditions of the country.

Price and consumption of Silver bullion.

6. In the case of silver, the ruling prices affect the demand to some extent, and during 1912-13 the price was at a higher level owing to heavy purchases on Government account for currency purposes and to the anticipation of such purchases. The price of bar silver in London, at the beginning of April 1912, stood in the neighbourhood of 27*d.*, the opening quotation being 26½*d.*. On the 26th April the price was quoted at 28*d.* This level was practically maintained till the middle of August when, on the 16th of the month, the quotation was 29*d.* The highest reached in August was 29½*d.* and at the end of the month the quotation was at 29½*d.* September recorded a slight rise, the closing rate of the month being 29½*d.* The highest reached in October was 29½*d.* on the 8th, but thereafter it declined till 29*d.* was reached at the close of the month. Towards the end of November the price reached 29½*d.* and in December it fluctuated between 29½*d.* and 28½*d.* January closed with 28½*d.* and February saw a rise to 28½*d.* only with a tendency to decline in the price towards the end of the month to about 27*d.* The lowest reached in March was 26½*d.*, the closing rate for the month being 26½*d.* against 26½*d.* quoted on 1st April 1912. The highest rate reached in the year was thus 29½*d.* and the lowest 26½*d.* in March 1913. The range of variation within a little over 3*d.* compares fairly well with the similar variations in 1905-06 and 1906-07, the last period during which heavy purchases of silver were made on Government account for coinage into rupees. In 1905-06 the highest rate quoted was 30½*d.* and lowest 25½*d.*, while in 1906-07 the highest was 33½*d.* and the lowest 29½*d.*

In spite of the higher level of prices during the greater portion of the year, purchase of £7,000,000 worth silver was made on Government account during the year at an average price of 28½*d.* This result was due to special precautions taken to enter into contracts for purchases over two months before actual delivery and also to postponement of shipments to India as far as possible. The first instalment purchased in England was on the 5th March 1912 for delivery in May and June, and the first shipment to India took place on the 9th August 1912. The value of imports of silver retained in the country for other than coinage purposes is worked out as follows for the two years :—

		1911-12.	1912-13.
		Lakhs	Lakhs.
Gross imports on private account		11.93	9.91
Deduct —Amount used for dollar coinage	5.00		1.45
Government rupees imported on private account	31	5.34	2.08
	Net	6.59	7.83
Gross exports on private account		6.64	3.33
Deduct —Dollars exported	5.00		1.45
Government rupees exported on private account	1.52	6.52	3.31
	Retained in the country	6.47	7.81

The above shows that in 1912-13 the amount of silver retained for home consumption exceeded the corresponding actuals of 1911-12 by about 1.34 lakhs. The figure for 1911-12 was unusually low, and the increase in 1912-13 would probably have been much higher but for the higher level of the price of silver maintained during the year.

Import of Sovereigns.

7. The imports of sovereigns in 1912-13 maintained the same high level as in the preceding year. One special feature of the year was the steady growth of imports of sovereigns into India from Egypt. Including bullion and coin the total net imports of gold to India have been as follows for the last three years :—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

	United Kingdom.	Egypt.	Australia.	Other places.	TOTAL.
1910-11	12,79	6,65	2,85	1,69	23,98
1911-12	14,08	8,18	12,52	2,98	37,76
1912-13	11,53	11,95	10,77	3,33	37,58

The figures of gold bullion included in the above amounts do not show any important variations in the three years, and practically the whole of the differences appears under sovereigns. It will be seen that the supplies from Egypt show a steady increase year by year. No doubt, as in the case of gold shipments from Australia, it is found cheaper and more convenient to bring the gold direct to India instead of first shipping it to London and then obtaining bills or transfers on India at about 16*d.* the rupee.

Another noticeable feature in the imports of the three years is the increase in the net imports of sovereigns from the Straits Settlements to India. In the year 1910-11 the Straits received from India over 42 lakhs. In 1911-12 there was a net export of about 40 lakhs from the Straits to India, and in 1912-13 the exports rose to 1,23 lakhs. The trade in merchandise between India and the Straits Settlements has been as follows in the three years :—

	1910-11. Lakhs.	1911-12. Lakhs.	1912-13. Lakhs.
Exports from India	7,61	8,60	9,01
Imports to India	3,10	2,98	3,09
Net export	4,51	5,62	5,92

8. The figures of imports of gold dealt with in the preceding paragraph relate to imports on private account. During the year 1912-13 remittances on Government account from India to England of gold of the value of £2,382,613½ were made as follows :—

	£
In October 1912 from Bombay	1,875,700½
In November 1912 from Calcutta	53,887½
In March 1913 from Bombay	453,025½
	2,382,613½

These remittances were not directly connected with the immediate requirements of the Secretary of State for Home expenditure. They consisted of light weight sovereigns which could not be reissued to the public in India and the remittances were made because the face value of such sovereigns could be realised only in England.

Under the Coinage Law in England sovereigns and half sovereigns remain current so long as they are not of less weight than that, for the time being, prescribed as the least current weight, viz., 122.5 grains for sovereigns and 61.125 grains for half sovereigns. But, following the practice in England, sovereigns and half sovereigns, even though below the prescribed least current weights, are received at Government treasuries at their face value when they have not been reduced more than 3 grains below standard weight, i.e., are not less in weight than grains 120.27447 and 58.63723 respectively. The remittances in question consisted of light weight coins of this class and were sent to England for recovery of their nominal value from the Bank of England. The sovereigns used in India as currency have not been sufficiently long in circulation to justify a loss by wear and tear of so much as 3 grains in one coin, and the light weight coins sent to England were not withdrawn from circulation in India but were found in the consignments imported from abroad by the Exchange Banks and presented at the currency offices. When such sovereigns are so tendered they are carefully shroffed at the mints and current weight sovereigns only are issued from the currency offices—the light weight coins being set apart at the mints for remittance to England at a convenient opportunity.

Withdrawal of light weight
Sovereigns.

9. The face value of the sovereigns so set apart in each of the last three years has been as follows :—

	Calcutta. £	Bombay. £	Total. £
1910-11 . . .	3,958	343,942	347,900
1911-12 . . .	41,790	512,964	554,754
1912-13 . . .	23,203	964,838	988,041
	68,951	1,821,744	1,890,695

By far the largest proportion of the sovereigns is received in Bombay, and the following were the percentages of the light weight coins to the total receipts in each year (in thousands of £) :—

	Total Sovereigns tendered.	Total light weight.	Percentage.
1910-11 . . .	6,972	344	4.9
1911-12 . . .	13,317	513	3.8
1912-13 . . .	15,891	965	6.1

The increase in the percentage of light weight sovereigns in 1912-13 is believed to be due to larger imports from Egypt where a gold currency has been in existence longer than in any other Eastern country and where, it is believed, sovereigns are sweated so as to reduce them within the limit at which the Bank of England will give face value in exchange. The percentages of the light weight sovereigns have been calculated since 1st April 1910 for each tender by every Exchange Bank at Bombay and they vary within very wide limits. For instance, in the case of one important bank, whose averages on the total year's tenders closely agree with those worked out above for the whole of the Government receipts, the averages on individual tenders varied as follows :—

	Minimum.	Maximum.
1910-11 . . .	Nil	12.98
1911-12 . . .	Nil	15.43
1912-13 . . .	Nil	22.70

The examination at the Bank of England of the light-weight sovereigns sent from India has shown that our automatic machines work unduly severely in rejecting light-weight coins. This is being rectified but it does not explain the steady growth in the percentage from year to year.

As shown above, £1,890,695 sovereigns were set apart for remittance to England in the three years ending 1912-13 and this, with about £579,000 in stock on 1st April 1910, made the total available for remittance about £2,469,600 up to March 1913. The actual amount remitted was £2,382,613. The net amount actually realised in England was £2,380,525, of which £1,600,000 were placed in the Currency Reserve and the balance £780,525 taken in aid of the Home Treasury balances.

Annul Bill drawings.

10. The total drawings of the Secretary of State in the year amounted to £25,759,700 (=38.50 lakhs) against £27,058,500 (=40.38 lakhs) in the year 1911-12, the reduction in the demands accompanying a similar reduction in the balance of India's export trade in the year.

The following figures compare the monthly variations in the two years :—

February . . .	5.02	4.41
March . . .	3.66	2.49
	40.38	38.50

The above comparison shows that the demands were low in the last three months of 1912-13, as compared with the corresponding figures of 1911-12. This was not due to any falling off in the gross export trade, nor to larger imports of treasure, but to an unprecedented development in the import trade during that period as indicated in paragraph 12 below.

The year opened with regular sales in April of 60 lakhs each week, of which less than half was allotted to Bombay, less than a third to Calcutta and less than a quarter to Madras. The 60 lakhs rate continued with occasional special sales till the third week of May, when the rate was reduced to 50 lakhs in the fourth sale of May. The 50 lakhs rate continued steady for eighteen weeks up to the last week of September—considerably more than half the total sales being appropriated by Calcutta to meet the requirements of the jute trade. The jute demands were abnormal and the rate of sale never went down below 50 lakhs a week in the year. On 25th September, the allotment was raised to 60 lakhs and, under the pressure for jute, 80 lakhs had to be allotted on 30th October. This high rate of regular sales continued up to the beginning of December, and on the second Wednesday of that month the sale had to be increased to 1,00 lakhs to finance the cotton and rice trades. As usual, the demands were very brisk about Christmas, and the regular sales were for 1,20 lakhs on the third Wednesday of December and 1,30 lakhs on the 4th Wednesday. The rate of 1,30 lakhs with intermediate special sales proved too high and in the first two sales of January 1,20 lakhs were allotted each day. After this 1,00 lakhs were fixed for the regular sales which rate continued up to the last week of February, for which 80 lakhs were announced, but in the sale of 5th March the full amount of 80 lakhs could not be allotted, as the rate of exchange offered by the Banks was unexpectedly low and only 61.40 lakhs were allotted at the minimum rate fixed by the Secretary of State. Simultaneously the allotment for the 12th March was reduced to 60 lakhs, but again there was a failure to sell more than 51½ lakhs at the minimum rate. Consequently the regular sales for the last two weeks for March were at 50 lakhs each, an unusually low rate for the closing month of the year. The highest amount drawn in any month was 5,37 lakhs in January and the lowest, 2,01 lakhs in August.

11. The total sales of Council Bills for the year were effected at an average of about 16 $\frac{1}{16}$ d. per rupee. The special feature of the year was that the rate of exchange did not go down below 16d. at any time during the slack season of the year. In 1909-10 a rate below 16d. continued for the first six months of the year. In 1910-11 it lasted from the middle of May to the middle of August. In 1911-12 the fall appeared only for two weeks in June, while in 1912-13 it never fell below 16d. during the first nine months of the year. But contrary to past experience the rate went down in the busy season about the middle of March, and, as already stated, there was a failure to sell the full amount of the regular allotment of Council Bills on two Wednesdays in March 1913, and the Secretary of State was obliged to fix 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. as the minimum for the sales of the last two weeks of March. At this time the rates of discount of the Banks of Bengal and Bombay were 7 and 8 per cent. respectively and the combination of so low a rate of exchange with 7 and 8 per cent. Bank rate is considered very abnormal.

12. The fall in the demands for Council Bills and in the rate of exchange in March is no doubt unusual and the main explanation must be sought in the conditions of trade at the time. To some extent, no doubt, the Exchange Banks were obliged to restrict transfers of their home balances to India at a time when the bank rate in England was specially high as the result of the Balkan War, but, as regards the combination of a high bank rate in India with a low demand for remittances from England, it may be mentioned that the Presidency Banks in India are not allowed to deal in foreign exchanges as they have no direct access to the London market, and, broadly speaking, the main function of the Presidency Banks is to finance the internal trade of the country, while the Exchange Banks finance the foreign trade at the seaport towns. A slackness in the demand for foreign funds is not therefore wholly inconsistent with active employment of local capital in India. In considering this subject the following figures of the Indian foreign trade in merchandise in the last three months of the year may be interesting :—

		(In lakhs of rupees.)
		Imports.	Exports.	Net exports.
1910-11.
January	.	11,89	20,56	8,67
February	.	10,27	19,24	8,97
March	.	12,73	21,73	9,00

January	.	11,39	19,24	4,85
February	.	10,72	23,15	12,43
March	.	11,02	23,96	12,94
Total		33,13	66,35	30,22
1912-13.
January	.	16,80	22,53	5,73
February	.	13,01	23,61	10,60
March	.	11,06	21,56	7,50
Total		40,87	67,70	23,83

The above table shows that while in each of the three months the value of the imports has shown steady improvement over previous corresponding actuals, in the case of the exports there was a substantial improvement in January, but in February the value of the trade was about the same as in February 1912, while in March there was a heavy decline of about $2\frac{1}{2}$ crores. Comparing the totals for 1912-13 with those for 1911-12 the exports increased by 1.35 crores only while the increase of imports amounted to no less than 7.74 crores. Thus the net exports were 6.39 crores less, and of this diminution 5.44 crores occurred in March. In that month there was an increase in the import trade of about 3 crores under yarns and textile fabrics and other articles classed as "wholly or mainly manufactured," while under exports rice, flour and opium were less by about $\frac{1}{2}$ a crore each and barley, gram and other grains and pulse taken together by over a crore. This combination of a falling off in exports and increase in imports at the same time is no doubt the chief explanation of the unusual feature of the sterling exchange in March 1913. The high bank rate in India at that period was partly due to the lock-up of funds in cotton in Bombay referred to in paragraph 2 above.

II—TREASURY BALANCES AND PAYMENT OF COUNCIL BILLS.

Treasury Balances.

13. Statement I gives the usual details of the cash balances in the Government treasuries on the first of each month. The year opened with a balance on 1st April of 18,42 lakhs, which is the balance just sufficient to meet the normal requirements of the Indian treasuries, till the rupee loan of the year is raised in July. The balances increased considerably from month to month, and the closing balance on 31st March 1913 exceeded the normal opening balance on 1st April 1912 by the large amount of $10\frac{1}{2}$ crores. This increase in the Treasury balances in India has been the subject of much adverse criticism, and the Government has been accused of increasing the stringency in the money market in India by taking off the market, and thereby swelling the Reserve Treasury balances, funds which were not required for immediate expenditure. It is necessary to explain, in the first place, that the large increase in the cash balances in India in the year 1912-13 is explained entirely by a transfer from the Home Treasury balances of Government in England to the Reserve Treasury balances in India, through the operations for purchase and adjustment of silver for new coinage. The increase of $10\frac{1}{2}$ crores in the Indian balances corresponds exactly to the price paid for silver (£7,000,000) purchased in England for coinage in the Indian mints. The price of the silver purchased for coinage was paid in England from the Home Treasury balances, and consequently the proceeds of the coinage in India should be credited in the treasury accounts to the extent of the price paid. The exact procedure followed was this. On receipt of intimation from the Secretary of State of the shipment of any consignment of silver or in some cases, on the delivery of the silver in the mints in India, the price of the silver was paid in India from the currency reserve to the reserve treasury and the silver treated as part of the currency reserve. On the coinage of the silver into rupees, the amount already paid from the currency reserve was replaced and the difference representing the profits on coinage made over to the Gold Standard Reserve.

Under the procedure described above, the result of the purchase of silver in England out of funds supplied from the Home Treasury balances, was to reduce those balances by a corresponding increase in the Indian balances, and the increase was obtained by a transfer from the currency reserve to the reserve treasury and not by the withdrawal of funds from circulation in India. The following amounts were transferred from the currency reserve to the reserve treasury in this way in the several months of the year :—

		(In thousands of rupees.)
		In the month.	Up to end of month.
August	2,17,50	2,17,50
September	1,87,66	4,05,16
October	1,81,49	5,86,65
November	2,39,98	8,26,63
December	82,49	9,09,12
January	1,50,00	10,59,12

If the above special credits in the cash balances in India are deducted from the figures of differences in the balances for the two years as given in Statement I, they would stand as follows :—

		(Increase + Decrease—)
End of April	— 2,20,01
„ May	— 42,15
„ June	+ 77,83
„ July	+ 1,91,97
„ August	+ 3,19,73
„ September	+ 4,36,05
„ October	+ 42,08
„ November	+ 31,12
„ December	— 1,70,82
„ January	— 1,03,23
„ February	— 37,52
„ March	— 6,63

14. The above indicates that in the busy trade season from December to March, there was no withdrawal of currency from circulation in India to swell the reserve treasury balances. Nor was the increase in the reserve treasury balances accompanied by any decrease in the Government balances with the Presidency Banks, which compare as follows month by month with the balances in 1911-12.

Thus, during the busy season of the year 1912-13 there were substantial increases in the balances with the Presidency Banks.

Surplus Balances in India not lent out to Trade.

15. This does not answer the question why the surplus balances in the reserve treasuries in India could not have been lent out in India, as they would have been lent out in England had they remained there. The answer to this question is that there were no applications for such loans, probably because the existing rules as regards such loans do not encourage applications.

Council Bill Payments.

16. Paragraph 10 of this report deals with the drawings of the Secretary of State in London, but the figures entered in the tables in paragraph 2 represent amounts paid in India. The drawings in London and the payments in India in any month do not agree, as the bills issued in London cannot be presented for payment in India till more than a fortnight after their issue, and, therefore, some bills remain unpaid at the end of the month in which they are drawn, and the amount thus outstanding varies from month to month. The sum of 38,83 lakhs paid on account of Council Bills in the year was met wholly from treasury balances against 37,19 lakhs so met in the preceding year, and the payments were distributed as follows among the three Presidency towns :

III.—CURRENCY RESERVES AND THE FINANCING OF INTERNAL TRADE.

18. Statement II shows the distribution of the Currency Reserve of coin month by month throughout the year. The opening balance of gold for the year stood at the high figure of 23·33 crores, but the rupee balance was 15·40 crores only. This balance was unduly low in view of the various trade requirements and the high volume of the note circulation, and frequent and costly movements of rupees were required. As a result, the resource work was done under considerable pressure throughout the year.

The net issues of rupees during the busy season in each circle are shown in the statement in paragraph 26 below. Those net issues amounted to 32·42 crores and were exclusive of the amounts met from local revenue collections. While heavy demands for trade occur in some provinces surplus revenue accumulates in others and to economise the coin balances, and to reduce to a minimum the coinage of new rupees, the surplus is withdrawn to trade centres as quickly as possible. To meet the 32½ crores issued from the currency offices at different seasons the surpluses available were as follows:—

		Lakhs.
April to June	Calcutta	3,65
April to November	Rangoon	2,20
June to September	Cawnpore	1,75
July to September	Lahore	1,50
May to October	Bombay and Karachi	4,60
June to November	Madras	1,25
November to March	Calcutta	4,25
December to February	Cawnpore	1,00
February to March	Lahore	1,00

21,20

Thus against about 32½ crores to be supplied from the currency reserves about 21½ crores were available by surplus collections in India leaving a deficiency of about 11½ crores. This deficiency had to be met by coinage of new rupees and the net amount added to the Currency Reserve during the year by such coinage was just about 12½ crores. The balance remained in the Currency Reserve where the balances increased during the year from 15,40 to 16,45 lakhs.

Main currency coin remittances.

19. Hot weather: April to June.—In the three months April to June 1912 about 5 crores in silver were required for the spring crops in Northern India and about 1½ crores for cotton and groundnut in Madras, and coin remittances in aid were required from other circles to the extent of 1½ crores in Cawnpore, 1¼ crores in Lahore and 1,60 lakhs in Madras. Gold is used largely for financing the trade in Northern India, and a remittance of over 4 crores was also sent in sovereigns from Bombay for this purpose, made up of 3,33 lakhs to the Lahore Circle and 75 lakhs to Cawnpore.

On the whole, the withdrawals from circulation in Calcutta, Bombay and Rangoon proved just sufficient to meet the demands, and the balance of rupees in the Reserve on 30th June was 15,41 lakhs against 15,40 on 1st April.

The issue of gold in the quarter exceeded 5 crores, but the imports far exceeded the issues and there was an increase in the stock in the three months from 23,33 to 26,08 lakhs.

Rains: July to October.—With an opening balance in rupees of 15,41 lakhs on 1st July the abnormal demand for the Bengal jute crop of 12,70 lakhs had to be met from July to October and every available rupee was withdrawn to Calcutta at considerable expense. The remittances brought to Calcutta during this season were—

Rangoon, Akyab and Moulmein	2,15	lakhs.
Cawnpore and its Agencies	1,02	„
Lahore and its Agencies	1,56	„
Bombay and its Agencies in the Central Provinces	4,75	„
Madras	20	„

Even these heavy remittances did not supply the demands in full and Government were obliged to undertake new coinage in September. The amount received by new coinage in the two months September and October was 2½ crores. Even with this, it was necessary to draw upon the opening balance to the extent of over 3 crores and the rupee balance in the Currency Reserve on 31st October came down from 15,41 to 12,37 lakhs—a very low balance for this season of the year.

Gold is not taken for financing the internal trade in jute and the accession of gold in the Currency Reserve by import during the jute season was about 6¼ crores. Against this 2,81 lakhs were sent to England in October and about two crores issued to the public in Northern India and Bombay, so that the stock of gold increased from 26,08 to 27,46 lakhs. During this period a remittance in gold of 75 lakhs was made from Bombay to Cawnpore.

Cold weather: November to March.—With the close of the jute season in October begins the season for cotton, seeds and wheat in Northern and Southern India, which is followed by the end of December by the rice trade in Burma. The last five months of the year from November to March is thus a period of active trade over a large area and the demands for accommodation are very heavy. In November and December the revenue collections are comparatively small and consequently there is a heavy drain on the currency reserve of rupees. But from January to March the drain is accompanied by large revenue receipts so that the net reduction of the currency reserve of rupees is not great.

Every circle of currency had been denuded of its available rupees to meet the demands of the jute trade, and it was therefore necessary to make considerable remittances to the trade centres from the proceeds of new coinage which continued to the end of March. The requirements at Bombay were supplied wholly from the coinage at the Bombay mint and the following remittances were made in the last five months of the year from Calcutta and Bombay mainly out of the new silver coinage :—

From Calcutta to Rangoon	3,70 lakhs
„ „ to Cawnpore	1,00 „
„ Bombay to Rangoon	1,50 „
„ „ to Lahore	1,25 „
„ „ to Cawnpore	25 „

The amount received by new coinage was about $4\frac{1}{2}$ crores in November and December and $5\frac{1}{2}$ crores from January to March. In spite of the addition of $4\frac{1}{2}$ crores by new coinage the balance of rupees in the Currency Reserve went down from 12,37 lakhs at the end of October to 11,80 at the end of December. In the second period from January to March the large revenue collections caused a surplus, and there was a net addition to the Reserve of (16,45—11,80) 4,65 lakhs in the last three months.

The issues of gold in November and December were heavy, and in spite of the usual imports the stock decreased, but in January the imports were unusually heavy, and in the last three months the imports exceeded the issues ; thus in spite of a remittance from Bombay to England of 68 lakhs the stock was raised by over $2\frac{1}{2}$ crores. In the five months from November to March the receipts by import were $11\frac{1}{4}$ crores, the issues to the public about 8 crores and the remittance to England 76 lakhs—the increase in stock being just a little below two crores.

The important remittances in gold during the period were 1,65 lakhs from Bombay to Cawnpore, 1,80 lakhs from Bombay to Lahore, 1,50 lakhs from Bombay to Madras and 45 lakhs from Bombay to Karachi.

The year closed with a stock in the currency reserve in India of 16.45 crores in silver, 29.38 crores in gold, being increases during the year of 1.05 crores in rupees and 6.05 crores in gold.

20. In the foregoing paragraphs it has been shown that to finance the foreign trade of the country in 1912-13 funds were imported by means of Council Bills to the extent of 38.83 crores and sovereigns to the value of 26.43 crores. Council Bills are paid directly from treasury balances at the three Presidency towns, and the treasury balances were sufficiently high in the year to admit of all the payments being met without any special assistance from the Currency or the Gold Standard Reserve. But it is necessary to concentrate the surplus treasury balances at Presidency towns to meet the payment, and the extent of the inter-provincial movements of funds necessary to secure this object has been exhibited in the table in paragraph 17. Council Bills are paid in the first place either by means of book credit or in currency notes, and thus pass immediately into the banks' stores of value. In the same way, imported sovereigns mostly find their way into the currency offices and currency notes issued in exchange are lodged with the banks as store of value. The stores of value at the Presidency towns are remitted to the districts in payment for articles of export, and silver or gold, according to requirements, is taken in exchange for the notes. The payments made for articles of exports partly come back into banking centres in payments for foreign imports and partly into Government treasuries on account of revenue. The effect of these various exchanges of currency on the currency reserve of gold and silver is reviewed above in paragraph 18, and the review shows that the demand for rupees exceeded the receipts by about $11\frac{1}{4}$ crores, and it was necessary to supply this excess by resorting to new coinage. As regards gold the demands were heavy, but the imports from abroad were heavier still, and out of about $21\frac{1}{2}$ crores received into the currency offices about $15\frac{1}{2}$ crores were absorbed leaving about 6 crores as an increase in the stock in India.

General summary
foreign trade.

IV.—TOTAL ABSORPTION OF CURRENCY.

Increase in total of currency.

21. It is now necessary to examine the total increase in the circulation as a whole as the result of the trade of the year. In the three years from 1909-10 to 1911-12 the average annual addition to the currency was 21·72 crores. For 1912-13 the total came to 24·52 crores made up as follows:—

	(In lakhs of rupees.)
New rupees coined and paid to Currency Reserve	12,27
Deduct —Amount obtained from silver held in Currency Reserve on 31st March 1912	8
Payment of gold from Treasury to Gold Standard Reserve	1,80	1,88
		10,89
Net imports of sovereigns received at the Currency Office	21,57
Deposit into the Currency Chest in England against equivalent issues in India	2,40	23,97
		34,36
Deduct —Increase in treasury balance in India	9,84
		24,52

The comparison of the total increase in the circulation with the trade balance is as follows for the last four years:—

	Balance of trade.	Increase in currency circulation.
1909-10	70,82	21,16
1910-11	80,53	18,69
1911-12	89,27	30,31
1912-13	84,88	24,52

New rupees coined.

22. As already stated, £7,000,000 worth of silver was purchased in the year for coinage into rupees. The average price paid was 28½d. per ounce British standard $\frac{3}{16}$ th fine. The outturn at the Indian mints in tolas Indian standard $\frac{1}{11}$ th fine was 15·85 crores of which 4·90 crores were paid to the Gold Standard Reserve and the remainder 10·95 crores to the treasury and currency. Of the 4·90 crores paid to the Gold Standard Reserve 1·80 crores were transferred to the currency reserve, in exchange for gold thus making the total addition to rupees on account of new coinage 10·95 + 1·80 = 12·75 crores. The withdrawal of uncurrent rupees in the mints amounted to 3·40 crores, of which only 2·92 crores were re-coined into rupees and the net addition to the rupee currency was therefore (12·75 + 2·92 - 3·40) 12·27 crores.

The sum of 3·40 crores on account of uncurrent rupees withdrawn from circulation during the year, included Rs1,05·12 lakhs tendered by a Native State at the Calcutta mint. This tender of uncurrent rupees came out of hoards, and the State instead of taking the whole outturn in rupees took only 25 lakhs in rupees and the remainder as follows:—

	Lakhs.
Sovereigns	50
Rupees 10,000 notes	7
„ 1,000 „	13·74
„ 500 „	9·32
Universal notes	·06
	80·12

Thus, about 80 lakhs in hoards were replaced partly by gold and partly by currency notes on account of the Native State.

Tender of imported sovereigns at the Currency Office.

23. According to the table in paragraph 2 the net imports of sovereigns on private account in the year under report amounted to 26·43 crores. Of this amount about 25·15 crores net were tendered into the currency offices in exchange for notes or transfers, and about 1·28 crores absorbed direct without passing through the Government treasuries or currency offices. From 25.15 crores received by Government about 3.58 crores were remitted to England as already explained in paragraph 8, and of the amount so remitted 2.40 crores were again taken into the currency chest in the Bank of England. Thus (21.57+2.40) 23.97 crores were taken as an effective addition to the currency circulation in India.

24. Gold of the value of about 1,28 lakhs not tendered to Government is believed to be either shield sovereigns or yellow sovereigns marked on the reverse with a large AUSTRALIA for which a premium is offered in the bazar. Doubts have been expressed whether such large amounts of shield sovereigns are really procurable. The subject is not of much practical importance, because even if the major portion of the imports not tendered to Government does not represent shield sovereigns specially used for jewellery there is nothing improbable in the assumption that a portion of the imports in current weight sovereigns were directly passed from the Banks for use either as currency or as ornaments. The subject of the proportion of shield sovereigns in light weight coins has, however, been specially examined. There is no doubt that the large imports by the Exchange Banks contain a few shield sovereigns, for many such have found their way into the mints. In February 1912 a lakh of light weight sovereigns packed for remittance to England were specially shroffed in the Bombay mint and 839 shield and 112 yellow coloured Australian sovereigns were found in the consignment. Between March and June 1912, 20,851 shield sovereigns found in a stock of light weight sovereigns of about £1,600,000 were actually separated at the Bombay mint. These two examinations show a percentage of nearly 1.3. The shields are in such request in the bazar that the Exchange Banks are prepared to pay Government par value for light weight coin and also the expenses of shroffing. I am also informed by a well-known bullion merchant in Bombay that Bombay imported £80,000 in shield sovereigns in the year 1912-13. This, I understand, was a special consignment apart from amounts found in large remittances for tender at the currency offices. On the whole, it is not unlikely that shield sovereigns formed a substantial proportion of those not tendered to Government.

25. The net addition to currency being worked out as above at 24.52 crores, it now remains to distribute this total circulation under the different denominations of currency. This is done in the following table:—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

	1909-10.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.	Total.

Distributing the increase or decrease in treasury balances among the different denominations of currency the total absorption of each denomination is worked out as follows:—

(In lakhs of rupees).

	1909-10.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.

Bank and other balances	—50	40	—19	—1,40
	21,16	13,69	30,31	24,52

These figures show that there was a steady increase in the absorption of gold in the country. The issues of rupees were less than those of 1911-12 in spite of the abnormal demands for jute.

Absorption of each class of currency by seasons in each circle.

26. A clear indication of the part played by each form of currency in the monetary transactions of the country is afforded by the following statements which show first the absorption of each during the busy seasons in each circle, and secondly the absorption or return of each during successive busy and slack seasons.

* The difference between this figure and (24,52 + 1,40) 25,92 in the preceding paragraph is due to this figure representing currency, while the latter includes also treasury transactions.

The important features of the above statements, and the inferences to be drawn therefrom are:—

(1) The regular ebb and flow of the rupee circulation: absorption in the busy season and return in the slack. This indicates the absolutely free circulation of the rupee throughout India for every purpose.

(2) The regular ebb and flow (save in the Rangoon circle and in one season in each of the Madras and Cawnpore circles) of the note circulation conversely to that of the rupee circulation. The cause of this is explained in detail in paragraph 48 below. Briefly it is that rupees, when wanted for circulation, are obtained from currency offices by the presentation of notes, and, when returned from circulation, are paid back to currency for notes in which form bank balances are kept. The converse movement in the Rangoon circle, however, indicates a real use of notes in substitution for coin in the financing of the rice trade, and it may be inferred that in other circles notes are not used largely in the purchase of crops.

(3) The regular issue of gold in small quantities in busy and slack seasons alike in most circles.

This seems to represent the normal flow of gold when it is used for the domestic needs of the well-to-do and enlightened portion of the community and not in the financing of any important crop.

(4) The very considerable variations, from this regular outflow of gold, in the Punjab and, to a smaller extent, in the Bombay and Cawnpore circles. In these circles there were issues in the busy season considerably in excess of, and, in the slack season, an issue in Bombay and Cawnpore much below, what may be called the "normal issue for domestic needs," or even, in the Punjab, an actual return. These variations from this "normal issue for domestic needs" undoubtedly indicate the use of gold in the purchase of important crops, and the return to the treasury of a portion of the gold so used.

(5) The total column indicates roughly the prosperity of the various circles, coupled with the habit of withdrawing coin or notes from circulation. Thus the considerable absorption in the Calcutta and Lahore circles was undoubtedly due to the excellence of the crops in those areas, and to a lack of desire, probably greater in the Calcutta than in the Lahore circle, to use to the full the money obtained therefor. The large absorption in the Rangoon and Cawnpore circles followed on good crops in those areas, while the smaller absorption in Bombay was undoubtedly due to the season having been less prosperous there than in other parts of India, coupled probably with a more general use of money for the purchase of household commodities—a higher standard of comfort—or for investment.

Other details worthy of remark are :—

- (i) The overwhelming importance of the jute season as regards the net issue and absorption of rupees—over 40 per cent. of each were in connection with jute.
- (ii) The net issues of gold in busy seasons exceeded those of silver in the Punjab, in the Bombay circle they were nearly a half, and in the Cawnpore circle nearly a third.
- (iii) The total absorption of gold was 40 per cent. in excess of that of silver.

V.—RESOURCE OPERATIONS AND MOVEMENT OF FUNDS.

Movement of currency to finance the internal trade.

27. In the foregoing paragraphs I have reviewed the total addition to currency circulation in India in the year 1912-13 and the distribution of the total among the several denominations of currency over the various trade seasons in each currency circle. It is necessary here to explain the processes and agencies by which this distribution is effected. As previously explained (paragraph 21), the total increase in circulation was made up originally of 23·97 crores of gold and 55 lakhs out of the new coinage of 10·39 crores of rupees which passed into circulation, the remainder having gone to swell treasury balances. Government paid at the Presidency towns 38·83 crores on account of Council Bills out of collections of surplus revenue and other funds in the several Provinces. Thus the Government supplied the trade originally at the Presidency towns with the large amount of 63·98 crores made up of 38·83 Council Bills and 25·15, the value of notes issued in exchange for the gold presented. To assist the trade in transferring funds from the Presidency towns to the interior, Government grant telegraphic transfers to the banks at a nominal charge between head offices of Currency Circles. Universal notes also furnish a means of remitting funds from one circle to another. Supply bills and telegraphic transfers are also granted between treasuries according to Government requirements. Telegraphic transfers are used largely, and as they and supply bills and universal notes are payable in coin at the option of the payee, almost the whole burden of coin remittances for trade purposes ultimately falls on Government. Coin remittances through private agencies are made largely to centres where there are no currency offices, but in the case of inter-provincial remittances Government practically undertake the whole burden of the movements of coin to currency centres. For instance, in the case of the Bengal jute trade, the remittances to the jute centres at Dacca, Narainganj, Sirajganj and other places in Eastern Bengal are made through private agency, Government supplying the coin at the currency office in Calcutta. In the same way the coin requirements for the North India trades are mostly supplied by Government at Cawnpore and Lahore, it being left to the trade to make its own arrangements to move funds from the currency centres to the interior. These arrangements, however, very frequently take the form of transfers through Government on district treasuries.

The processes and agencies for distribution of funds among trade centres are therefore considered under the following heads :—

1. Transfers of universal currency notes.
2. Inter-provincial transfers through Government.
3. Transfers through Government within Provinces.
4. Government remittances of coin between Provinces.
5. Remittances of coin on private account.

28. The transfer of universal notes from one circle of currency to another through private agency cannot be ascertained even approximately, but the encashment of these notes in a foreign circle gives some idea of the value of notes used for remittance purposes. The magnitude of the encashment in 1912-13 is dealt with in paragraph 56 below. The total encashments in 1912-13 amounted to 17.93 crores against 14.47 crores in 1911-12 and there is no doubt that currency notes are being used to a larger extent for trade remittances. It cannot be the case that all or even most of the notes remitted to a foreign circle are presented for encashment and the figures here given must represent a part only of the business done in the form of currency note remittances. The remittances as represented by encashments in foreign circles were as follows in 1912-13 :—

	Cashed	Remitted.	(In lakhs of rupees.)
			Net receipt of currency.	Net receipt in 1911-12.
Calcutta	4.23	5.08	—85	1.74
Cawnpore	2.24	2.12	12	—1.29
Lahore	3.98	2.33	1.65	—3.34
Bombay	3.69	4.91	—1.22	3.34
Karachi	68	1.77	—1.09	86
Madras	2.42	1.59	83	—95
Rangoon	69	13	56	—36
	17.93	17.93

It is worthy of note that according to the above figures the net movement in 1911-12 has been reversed in every case in the year under report. In the former year Calcutta and Bombay obtained funds withdrawn from Northern India, Madras and Rangoon. In 1912-13 Northern India, Madras and Rangoon obtained remittances apparently from Calcutta and Bombay.

29. Statement (No. III) gives the details of the transfers between different centres, the total value of the transfers in 1912-13 having been 47½ crores against $43\frac{1}{2}$ crores in 1911-12. The net results of the movements according to the statement are :—

Inter-provincial transfers through Government.

Bombay sent away . . .	$24\frac{3}{4}$ crores	against $22\frac{1}{2}$ crores in 1911-12,
Bengal and India sent away . . .	$1\frac{1}{4}$ „ „	$\frac{1}{4}$ crore „ while
Burma received . . .	$11\frac{1}{2}$ „ „	$10\frac{3}{4}$ crores „
Madras „ . . .	$5\frac{1}{2}$ „ „	$7\frac{3}{4}$ „ „
United Provinces received . . .	4 „ „	$1\frac{3}{4}$ „ „
Punjab „ . . .	4 „ „	1 crore „
Central Provinces „ . . .	1 crore „	$1\frac{3}{4}$ crores „

Thus larger remittances had to be made both in notes (see preceding paragraph) and by transfers to Northern India and Burma, and the supplies came naturally from Bombay where the gold imports and Council Bills were received in large amounts. The gross figures of the remittances are noticed below.

Bombay.—Bombay received for remittance to other provinces $27\frac{1}{2}$ crores while it paid $2\frac{3}{4}$ crores on account of bills and transfers drawn by other provinces. The payments included 1 crore supply bills drawn by the Punjab ($\frac{3}{4}$) and Baluchistan treasuries ($\frac{1}{4}$), 1 crore telegraphic transfers drawn by Calcutta in redistribution of the Exchange Bank balances among Presidency towns, $\frac{1}{2}$ crore transfers drawn on Karachi by Calcutta, and $\frac{1}{4}$ crore drawn by Madras and the United Provinces in the shape of bank transfers and supply bills. As regards the amounts received for remittance, the following are the details :—

Telegraphic transfers granted on Calcutta against imported gold . . .	$7\frac{1}{4}$ crores.
„ „ „ Madras „ . . .	$2\frac{3}{4}$ „
Other telegraphic transfers from Bombay on Calcutta . . .	$2\frac{1}{4}$ „
„ „ „ Cawnpore . . .	$2\frac{1}{4}$ „
„ „ „ Lahore . . .	$2\frac{3}{4}$ „
„ „ „ Madras . . .	$2\frac{3}{4}$ „
„ „ „ Rangoon . . .	$4\frac{1}{2}$ „
„ „ „ Central Provinces . . .	1 crore.
Transfers from Karachi on Lahore . . .	$1\frac{1}{2}$ crores.

Calcutta and Bengal.—Received for remittance 15 crores and paid $13\frac{3}{4}$ crores, making the net amount sent away $1\frac{1}{4}$ crores. As explained in the note under Bombay, there was a net payment on account of Bombay of ($7\frac{1}{4} + 2\frac{1}{4} - \frac{1}{4} - 1 - \frac{1}{2}$) $7\frac{3}{4}$ crores so that the net remittance to other provinces from Bengal was about 9 crores made up as follows :—

To Rangoon for the rice trade	$7\frac{1}{4}$ crores.
„ Cawnpore „ wheat „	$1\frac{3}{4}$ „
„ Lahore „ „ „	$1\frac{1}{4}$ „
„ Madras in the cotton and groundnut season	1 crore.
	$11\frac{1}{2}$ crores.

Deduct—

Returned by Madras in jute season	1 crore.
„ „ „ Burma „	$\frac{3}{4}$ „
Transferred from Cawnpore	$\frac{3}{4}$ „
„ „ „ Lahore	$\frac{3}{4}$ „
	$2\frac{1}{2}$ crores.

Burma.—The rice trade required a remittance of $12\frac{1}{2}$ crores made up of $7\frac{1}{2}$ crores from Calcutta, $4\frac{1}{2}$ crores from Bombay and about $\frac{1}{2}$ crore from Madras. Rangoon returned in its slack season about a crore only, of which more than three-fourths went to Calcutta and less than a quarter to Madras.

Madras.—The net payment of $5\frac{1}{2}$ crores in Madras was made up of 7 crores paid and $1\frac{1}{2}$ crores received. As has been already explained, the 7 crores paid were made up of $5\frac{1}{2}$ crores from Bombay, 1 crore from Calcutta and about $\frac{1}{4}$ crore from Rangoon. The receipts for remittance were for Calcutta 1 crore and Rangoon $\frac{1}{2}$ crore.

United Provinces.—Here the net payment was 4 crores made up of remittances from Bombay $2\frac{1}{2}$ crores and Calcutta $1\frac{3}{4}$ crores and of a transfer to Calcutta $\frac{1}{8}$ crore.

Punjab.—Here also the supplies made to trade through Government amounted to 4 crores, of which $2\frac{3}{4}$ crores came from Bombay and $1\frac{1}{4}$ crores from Calcutta.

Central Provinces.—The 1 crore paid in these Provinces represented mainly bank transfers of treasury surplus in the Akola and Amraoti districts.

The following arrangements of the figures of remittances indicate the main lines of the movements of the years, the figures for 1911-12 being given for comparison :—

* This figure represents remittances to Eastern Bengal and Assam in 1911-12 mainly for the jute trade in Eastern Bengal which remittances are shown this year in Statement IV under India and Bengal.

The outstanding feature in the above comparison is the considerable increase in the amounts drawn to Northern India to finance the wheat trade and the larger requirement for the rice trade in Burma.

30. Statement (IV) shows the internal movements of funds through Government agency. The magnitude of the transactions was greatest in Bombay, Madras and Burma, and for these provinces the aggregate figures compare as follows with 1911-12 :—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

	1911-12.	1912-13.
Bombay	5,39	7,09
Madras	5,47	4,70
Burma	4,36	4,07

In Bombay the differences occurred chiefly under currency transfers between Bombay and Karachi and under transfer through the Presidency Banks in districts. The increase in the currency transfers was due to growth of business at Karachi. As regards Presidency Bank transfers, the Bombay Bank had larger surpluses to spare at its branches in the first quarter of 1912-13 and in the last quarter of 1911-12, and simultaneously there was an increased demand for funds at Government treasuries for loans and advances to cultivators in connection with the failure of rains in 1911. Accordingly transfers were arranged by opposite payment to the Bank at Bombay.

In Madras the falling-off occurs chiefly in the requirements of the cotton trade. The demands for bills and telegraphic transfers on Bellary were about 40 lakhs less than in 1911-12, and the requirements of the Bank of Madras in the Circars (Guntur, Godavari and Kistna) and at Tuticorin dropped by 42 lakhs and 23 lakhs respectively.

The diminution in the transfers in Burma is attributed to stocks of paddy having been held up for better prices.

31. The specie remittances between provinces and circles undertaken by Government in the year amounted to the large sum of 24.40 crores in silver Government remittances of coin between provinces.

and 10.69 crores in gold, being a total of about 35 crores against about 20 crores in the preceding year. The following are the details :—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

The important movements take place as currency remittances, and have already been described in paragraph 19. The main reason of the large increase in the magnitude of the remittances was the low balance of rupees with which the treasuries and currency offices were worked during the year, the result being considerable remittances in opposite directions at different seasons of the year.

Remittances of gold are made almost invariably from Bombay, which receives the bulk of the imports, and require no special remark except that United Provinces and the Punjab took about $8\frac{1}{2}$ crores worth against about 5 crores in 1911-12 and Rangoon had no remittances from India, the demands being supplied partly from balances and partly from direct imports of sovereigns from the Straits Settlements.

Remittances of silver coin on private account.

32. To ascertain these remittances, we depend entirely on the returns of railway goods traffic, but experience shows that the figures are not suitable for our purposes. After deducting from the total remittances of silver coin as given in these returns the Government remittances likely to have been included in them, the remittances on private account are obtained as follows :—

	(In lakhs of rupees.)
Bengal	+ 50
Assam	+ 15
Bihar and Orissa	+ 8
United Provinces	— 84

Movements of
trade.

33. The most important movement of rupees through private agency takes place in connection with the jute trade in Bengal. Most of the funds required are drawn from the Calcutta currency office in exchange for notes and they are then sent to the trade centres in Eastern Bengal. Hitherto the year 1906-07 has been considered a record year for jute demands, but the year 1912-13 has broken all past records. The following are the figures of net issues of rupees from the Calcutta currency office in the jute season :—

(In lakhs of rupees.)

Year.	July.	August.	September.	October.	November.	Total.
1906-07	69	3,61	5,06	1,66	1,34	12,36
1907-08	37	2,07	2,95	1,33	21	6,93
1908-09	70	1,90	89	22	3,71
1909-10	1,20	2,40	66	...	4,35
1910-11	79	2,34	1,37	25	4,75
1911-12	54	1,67	3,87	1,93	...	8,33
1912-13	62	4,38	4,09	2,92	...	12,93

In addition to the 12·93 crores supplied from the Calcutta currency office in 1912-13 a sum of about 1½ crores was obtained by means of bills and telegraphic transfers on the district treasuries. The approximate value of the outturn of jute during the year has been calculated at about 50 crores, and of this over 25 per cent. had to be financed by means of funds obtained through Government.

34. We are now in a position to calculate the visible addition to currency in the several provinces by trade remittances through Government and private parties. The following table shows the compiled result :—

Allowing for variations due to want of exact correspondence between currency circles and provincial areas and also for necessary differences in the remittances of foreign circle notes, the agreement between the compilations by the two methods is fairly close and the absorption of currency in each province fits in fairly with the movements of trade.

VI.—Gold Circulation.

36. The year 1911-12 was a record year as regards the gross import of sovereigns which amounted to 27·51 crores. In 1912-13 the imports were nearly as high, having been 26·69 crores (Statement V). Of this total import 25·41 crores passed through currency offices and the difference of 1·28 between the figures as obtained from trade statistics and those supplied by currency offices is believed to represent shield sovereigns or other sovereigns of earlier coinage in special favour with the people for use as ornaments. Paragraph 24 gives further particulars regarding the import of such sovereigns.

ption of gold.

• 37. Statement VI gives the figures of absorption of sovereigns in the year distributed among the provinces. The total absorption in 1912-13 (£10,245,000) was more than a third in excess of that in 1911-12 (£7,600,000) there having been an increase in every province. In the Punjab the increase was about 60 per cent., in the United Provinces about 50 per cent., in Bengal and Burma it was also about 50 per cent., while in Bombay it was only about 14 per cent., and in Madras the figures were practically the same in the two years. Of the total of £10,245,000, Punjab took by far the largest amount, namely, £3,372,000, next in order comes Bombay, United Provinces and Madras with £1,658,000, £1,616,000 and £1,571,000, respectively. The absorption in India and Bengal figure, viz., £1,090,000, was large, but deducting from it the special issue to a Native State of 50 lakhs mentioned in paragraph 22 the balance was £756,700 against £677,000 in 1911-12. Burma absorbed £814,000 in 1912-13 against £573,000 in 1911-12.

38. In view of the importance of the subject special enquiries as to the exact use of sovereigns issued at Government treasuries and currency offices have been continued in all the provinces and the subject is receiving close attention from the Account and Currency officers concerned. Extracts from, or summaries of, the reports by these officers are reproduced below and acknowledgments are due to Mr. Brigstocke, whose report from Bombay, following on his equally thorough report from Lahore last year, indicates his great interest in this branch of economic enquiry.

India and Bengal.—A comparison of the issues over the counter of the Calcutta currency office of £100 or over with those of the previous year gives the following result:—

The whole of the treasuries in Bengal absorbed less than £59,000. It is stated that what gold is absorbed is used chiefly for melting and to a certain extent for hoarding purposes. Some is taken out of the country by pilgrims going to Mecca.

The absorption in Assam, Bihar and Orissa and the Central Provinces is still very small.

Central Provinces.—The large increase in the net total issues during the year under report was ascribed by all district officers to the rapidly increasing popularity of the sovereign throughout the province. In several districts it had the effect of partly reducing the demand for currency notes, the reason ascribed in one district (Akola) being that foreign merchants, who arrive during the harvest season, find it more convenient to return with their cash in sovereigns in preference to currency notes, for the encashment of which discount has sometimes to be paid. Gold was not used for financing crops in these Provinces, practically all payments being made in silver. The majority of the district officers expressed the opinion that sovereigns are not used for ornaments, nor hoarded to any appreciable extent.

Assam.—Two-thirds of the increase of absorption in the year under report was in Shillong.

Bihar and Orissa.—While the issues remained almost stationary as compared with the previous year, the receipts nearly doubled. One use of gold, which is brought to notice, is for making presents on marriage or other similar occasions as, e.g., when sending "Tilak," i.e., advance payment to bridegrooms.

In the other provinces the absorption was much larger and merits more detailed consideration. The remarks in the local currency reports are quoted, therefore, practically in full.

Burma.

Absorption of gold.—The following figures show the absorption of gold in Rangoon and in the districts separately for each quarter of 1912-13:—

		Rangoon.	Districts.
		£	£
First	quarter	153,226	61,837
Second	"	86,970	62,606
Third	"	75,997	60,980½
Fourth	"	202,821	109,952½

The absorption of the year under report shows an increase of £241,840 or 42 per cent. over the previous year's absorption, and was at its highest during the last quarter of the year, i.e., during the rice season, which may possibly be due to gold having been used to a small extent for the purchase of paddy.

Gold as currency.—The issues of gold at the Rangoon currency office during the first three quarters of the year were mostly to Chetties, and more than half the issues of gold from the currency office were in sums of £50 and under.

It is reported that the greater portion of the gold issued in the districts is melted down and converted into ornaments and jewellery, and is not likely to return to circulation, but against this opinion may be set the fact that a sum of £18,536½ in gold was received by the district treasuries outside Rangoon during the year. It is true that this is only 7·04 per cent. of the issues at these treasuries, but it seems to show that gold is to a small extent finding its way into circulation.

United Provinces.

Popularity of the sovereign.—With a view to obtain as much first hand detailed information as possible in regard to the actual circulation of gold, a circular was addressed to all treasury officers enquiring as to the exact nature of the receipts and payments of which gold formed a part. Their replies constitute a large mass of evidence which is almost unanimous in declaring that the popularity of the sovereign as currency is on the increase. The Treasury Officer, Bulandshahr, reports that the extraordinary increase in his district is mainly due to the fact that owing to the discount on the Mahajani Hundi being high in Calcutta and Bombay last year, the traders generally took payment of their dues in sovereigns instead of in Hundi; and the coins so received were subsequently handed over mostly to the agricultural class in purchasing cotton, grain, etc., who in their turn paid them into the treasury in payment of Government dues.

The Agent, Bank of Bengal, Cawnpore, ascribes the large issues and receipts of gold to greater prosperity of the people and the consequent freer currency of gold and says that it is questionable whether this free currency will remain in evidence during seasons of bad harvests. The Treasury Officer, Etah, says that the people in general like to keep the money in gold instead of in notes, and that on account of its portability, the export merchants made payment in gold which was in turn paid to Government.

Gold as currency.—Much of the gold coin issued necessarily comes back to the treasuries and the fact that over 15 lakhs worth sovereigns were received back and remitted by the sub-treasuries against 3½ lakhs of the previous year tends to show that the circulation of the sovereign is spreading from head-quarters to tahsils, and that the agricultural population also are gradually coming to look upon the use of sovereign as currency with favour, since the receipts in the sub-treasuries are payments by the people and indicate the composition of the currency they handle.

The circulation of gold does not appear to have penetrated yet to any appreciable extent to the villages, as payment for crops are still for the most part demanded in silver. This is proved by the fact that Messrs. Ralli Brothers and other European firms, who practically have the monopoly of the export trade, prefer silver to gold and make all their purchases in silver.* The general conclusion to be drawn appears to be that gold is passing more and more into circulation in these provinces, though not to the same extent as in the Punjab.

Use to which Sovereigns are put.—The popularity of the sovereign is ascribed to be due to its portability and the readiness with which it can be exchanged. In the bazars discount is generally charged for every note that is cashed, but not for a sovereign on account of its intrinsic value. This is not unlikely so far as notes of denominations higher than ten are concerned, but the large increase in the circulation of Rs. 5 and Rs. 10 notes at the same time show that such replacement, if it has taken place as regards small value notes also, is not on a considerable scale. Traders now prefer to keep their reserve in gold. It seems probable that gold is replacing both silver and notes for purposes of hoarding. There is no evidence that a large quantity of sovereigns goes into the melting pot in these provinces.

The net issues in gold from the Currency and the Treasury during the year amounted to £3,019,000 and £432,000 respectively giving a total of £3,451,000. Out of this £3,451,000, £1,217,000 were issued in payment of currency telegraphic transfers including £95,000 paid from the Delhi Currency Chest.

The replies received by me to references made to the leading firms, banks, etc., in the Province and to the Chambers of Commerce at Delhi and Karachi confirm the view that the circulation of gold is daily increasing, especially in the Punjab.

The Punjab Chambers of Commerce stated that the Committee had no doubt that the use of gold was daily becoming more popular with the natives of India and circulated freely in the bazar.

* It is possible that cause and effect have been mixed up here, for in the Punjab and in Bombay the experience has been that large buyers of crops can pay in gold, but that the European firms usually prefer to handle silver.

† This province is much the most important in respect of gold circulation, but this report is comparatively brief because the corresponding report last year was very elaborate.

The Karachi Chamber of Commerce replied that in the experience of the Committee of this Chamber, the circulation of sovereigns was still increasing and the coins were becoming more popular, especially in the Punjab.

The principal European export firms in the Province do not use gold for the reasons stated in last year's report, viz., the risk incurred in the transport of gold by rail whereas the Indian firms prefer gold.

Madras.

Gold coins were issued during 1911-12 and 1912-13 from the Currency Office to the extent of £968,034 and £925,359 respectively. The issues in amounts of £100 and over fell from £861,000 to £794,260, while those in smaller amounts rose from £107,034 to £131,094. The falling off in the former is more than accounted for by a falling off in the requirements of the Bank of Madras for its branches on the West Coast. The requirements of these branches to meet trade demands during the busy season, are met almost wholly by remittances of sovereigns from Madras, indicating that the demand for gold in these parts is still active, and the decrease in the remittances from Madras as compared with the previous year is believed not to have resulted from any decrease in the demand for sovereigns but from a decrease in the total trade requirements of the year. At the end of the busy season a considerable quantity of the sovereigns comes back to the branches of the Bank, showing that gold is circulating in these parts to a considerable extent as currency though the large amounts remitted year after year may undoubtedly be taken as evidence of the fact that large quantities are either being hoarded as coin or are being melted or otherwise used for the manufacture of ornaments. The most important reason for a large circulation of gold as currency in these parts, is undoubtedly the fact that currency notes do not circulate here to any appreciable extent and sovereigns are circulating in place of currency notes. An important reason for hoarding is probably the special law of inheritance in force in these parts, under which all immoveable property and investments in Government promissory notes and other securities devolve on the sisters' children while investments in gold can be bequeathed to one's own children.*

The total amount of gold coins issued by the Bank in the year was as follows:—

Remittances to West Coast branches for trade purposes	305,000
Remittance to Bangalore for the use of the Mysore Government	20,000
Issued to the public at Madras	138,970
Total	463,970

As regards other parts of the Presidency, it appears to be clear that considerable quantities are imported into the interior to finance trade, and these pass from hand to hand for the time being until they reach the substantial cultivator, landholder, or other citizen who hoards or melts them and thus they never come back into circulation.

Bombay.

The issues of gold during 1912-13 from the currency offices at Bombay and Karachi in Issues to what may be called the wholesale transactions in gold were £2,757,000 against £1,967,000 in 1911-12 and £1,453,000 in 1910-11. This steady increase in the "Issues to the public" shows that gold coins are growing in popularity and are being used for remittance and other purposes more freely. Here again we have an increase of 91 per cent. over the figures of 1910-11 and of over 40 per cent. on the figures for 1911-12. Taken by itself this increase does not necessarily imply that sovereigns are being more freely used as currency. To ascertain how far these coins go to form the ordinary circulating medium of the country we shall have to examine the receipts from the public both at the currency offices and at district treasuries. Of the £3,110,400 issued from the currency office in 1912-13 (including £353,100 issued for export by sea) £2,759,500 were issued at Bombay and only £350,900 at Karachi. The total issues to the public from the Karachi currency office in 1911-12 had amounted to £153,600 and compare as follows with those in 1912-13:—

	1911-12. £	1912-13. £
For trade remittances (including remittances to the Punjab for the purchase of wheat)	75,500	233,100
For pearls	8,200	12,300
For banking	1,000	6,000
For private use	3,600
In small sums	67,900	95,900
	153,600	350,900

* A curious instance of the tendency to evade the operation of a customary law which has become unsuited to modern conditions

Of the £2,759,500 issued from the Bombay office in 1912-13, £1,925,900 were issued in sums of £1,000 and over. Details of these issues are recorded in the currency office books and are given below in thousands of pounds :—

For remittance to Agra for the purchase of wheat	15
For remittance to cotton-growing districts	315
For the purchase of cotton	626
For export to Hongkong and Shanghai	6
For export to the Persian Gulf for the purchase of pearls	388
For melting	66
For payment to staff (especially Great Indian Peninsula Railway)	419
For banking and exchange business	141
Total	1,926

The balance of £833,600 issued at Bombay was issued in small sums—for remittance purposes (£671,000), for melting (£11,400) and for local use, etc. (£151,200).

The total amount issued for remittance purposes from the Bombay currency office was £1,971,000 as shown below, against £1,243,000 and £1,152,000 issued in 1911-12 and 1910-11 :—

	In thousands of pounds.
	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
For remittance to the Central Provinces and Berar	123	351	313
For remittance to Khandesh and Gujarat	681	499	801
For remittance to the Southern Mahratta Country	13	89	62
For remittance to other places within and outside India	335	304	795
TOTAL	1,152	1,243	1,971

It will be seen that the issues for remittances to the Central Provinces and Berar, and the Southern Mahratta Country were larger in 1911-12 than in 1912-13, while the issues in 1911-12 for remittances to Khandesh and Gujarat were considerably smaller than those in 1910-11 or 1912-13. The variation in the case of the Central Provinces and Berar was due to the bumper cotton crop of that province in 1911-12. The large falling off in the issues to Gujarat was the result of the unfavourable monsoon of 1911, which reduced the outturn of the Gujarat crop to a very large extent. The variation in the case of the Southern Mahratta Country was due to the lateness of the cotton season of 1913 and to a reduction of the cotton crop of 1912 owing to excessive rainfall in some places in 1911. The cotton season in the Southern Mahratta Country begins in February or March and continues till July. Hence the unfavourable season of 1911-12 affected the issues in 1912-13.

among Apart from that afforded by statistics there is, however, also a considerable volume of direct evidence on record in favour of the view that, as in the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province, so also in the Bombay Presidency and Sind and in the adjacent parts of Berar there is a marked and growing inclination among the cultivating class to receive payment in gold. The number of firms in Bombay who finance the cotton trade is large, but several of them were written to with the object of ascertaining what was actually done with the gold taken from the Bombay currency office. I quote the following from some of the replies received :— “ For our own purchases of cotton up-country we always pay cash in silver currency, we however receive consignments of cotton from up-country for sale here on commission and are often asked by the up-country merchants to remit in gold.” “ In the majority of our purchases of cotton the gold is paid to the cultivators and also to middlemen that buy direct from the farmers; so ultimately gold goes to farmers Demand from farmers and bankers of farmers who are, the middlemen grows rapidly in preference to silver The farmers are more inclined to sell to payers of gold.” “ The cultivators readily accept and prefer gold coins as the cost of cotton.”

ctions. To obtain a clearer idea of the extent to which gold coin circulates as money in this Presidency it is necessary to examine what may be called the retail transactions with the public at treasuries. Statement of receipts and issues of sovereigns at the treasuries in this Presidency during the last three years, show a net receipt from the public of £76,589 in 1910-11, a net issue to the public of £19,647 in 1911-12 and a net receipt of £36,386½ in 1912-13. The gross receipts increased from £778,536 in 1910-11 to £1,337,163½ in 1911-12, and £1,890,501 in 1912-13, while the issues also increased from £701,947 in 1910-11 to £1,356,810 in 1911-12 and to £1,854,114½ in 1912-13. The total turnover increased from £1,480 millions in 1910-11 to £2,694 in 1911-12 and to £3,744 millions in 1912-13. In 1911-12 there was an increase of 71·8 per cent. in the receipts from the public and of 93·3 per cent. in the issues to the public. The percentages of increase in 1912-13 were 41·4 and 86·6 respectively.

It will be useful also to examine the figures of the more important treasuries. The following table compares the transactions in 1912-13 at some of the treasuries in this Presidency with those in 1910-11 and 1911-12. The figures are given in thousands of pounds, and I have selected those treasuries only at which the receipts or issues have exceeded £20,000 in 1912-13—

The general increase in the figures for 1911-12, as compared with those for 1910-11, is most marked, while there has also been a considerable increase in the figures for 1912-13. The increase in the total turnover is also noticeable, it having risen from under £1·3 millions in 1910-11 to nearly £3·4 millions in 1912-13, or by over 160 per cent. Omitting the figures for the Bank of Bombay the increase has been from £630,000 to £1,681,000, or by nearly 170 per cent. On the whole there has been a progressive increase, both in receipts and issues, in the case of nearly all the treasuries.

The most noticeable point in connection with the circulation of gold in the districts is the very large increase in the issues of gold at the Broach Treasury in 1912-13 compared with the issues of the previous years. This was due to an endeavour made by banks and traders to pay the cotton-growers in gold coin to avoid the heavy expense of taking silver coin from the Presidency town.

Through the courtesy of the Comptroller, Central Provinces, I have been furnished with Receipts in Berar some instructive figures regarding receipts in gold at the Berar treasuries in payment of Government dues. A certain amount of gold has found its way there from Bombay in connection with the cotton crop, and it is interesting to see whether there is any tendency to an increase in the receipts at the treasuries. The figures are as follows for the first five months of the three calendar years :—

1911	7,753
1912	29,287
1913	73,310

These statistics relating to four treasuries only in Berar, are sufficiently eloquent testimony to the fact that all the gold issued from the Government currency offices does not disappear for ever into hoards.

A reference was made to the district and treasury officers in March last with a view to District evidence obtaining first-hand information of the circulation of sovereigns in their districts. The following extracts have been taken from their replies and serve to give a general idea of the growing popularity of sovereigns and of their increased circulation in the districts :—

Bombay.—The Secretary and Treasurer, Bank of Bombay, Bombay observes as follows :—

“ A very large proportion of the receipts and issues of sovereigns at this office are connected with transactions on Government account with the Bank.

The following are the figures relating to such transactions for the year 1912-13 :—

Receipts.										£
Great Indian Peninsula Railway	487,016
Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway	111,897
Customs and Stamp Office	118,469½
Sundry	7,286
Total										699,668½

Issues.										£
Great Indian Peninsula Railway	211,868
Bombay, Baroda & Central India Railway	2,680
Customs	3,422
Naval and Military	86,909
Sundry	39,022
TOTAL										343,411

"In addition, the Bank received on its own account £300,945 and issued £368,259½, so that the total receipts were 1,000,613½ and the total issues £706,670½. Practically, the whole of the issues on Bank account were made to firms who forwarded the sovereigns up-country for the purpose of buying produce, principally cotton. The sovereigns so issued were partly given in payment of cheques, etc., drawn on the Bank and partly in exchange for currency notes.

"The receipts were spread over a very large number of our constituents and the sovereigns were almost entirely tendered to us in the ordinary course of business, viz., for credit of accounts or in payment of bills, etc. Sovereigns are very rarely tendered to us to be exchanged for currency notes or rupees, and when they are so tendered it is only for trifling amounts.

"The increase in the issue of sovereigns has undoubtedly resulted in a material reduction in the issues of whole rupees, but we can find no indication that the issues of currency notes have been similarly affected."

The Collector of Bombay observes :—

"Sovereigns are paid in ordinary treasury transactions by all classes of persons having to make payments into the treasury. They are now so common that in Bombay at any rate the amount hoarded or used for ornaments is a very small proportion of the number in circulation. They are specially popular among persons having to make a long journey."

Karachi.—The Agent of the Branch Bank at Karachi observes as follows :—

"These coins are becoming increasingly popular and are now circulating more freely among nearly all classes of the community * * * * The classes of persons from whom gold is received are chiefly merchants and the general public, so far as Karachi is concerned, and in the districts, I believe, the Zemindars pay a good proportion of their land revenue in gold and that Government officials of all ranks ask for gold in payment of their bills. The circulation is to a certain extent confined to educated people, but not wholly.

"It is not the general practice of the public to bring to the bank sovereigns for the express purpose of exchanging them for notes unless for some special reason. Sovereigns appear to occupy a place by themselves in the circulation of the country quite equal in importance to notes. Sovereigns are generally received in ordinary business and treasury transactions.

"The use made of the coins is general. They are, in our opinion, mainly used not as ornaments or for the purpose of hoarding but as a circulating medium. A large sale of bar gold in this district by the banks tends to displace sovereigns in the manufacture of ornaments, while the spread of education tends to diminish hoarding; the extension of banking facilities also works in the same direction * * * * The increased demand (in 1912-13) in our opinion is due to the readiness of the public to accept sovereigns when they are freely issued by Government as a circulating medium. I am unable to say whether sovereigns have displaced Rs5 and Rs10 notes in the circulation to any extent, but it is very probable that they have."

The Currency Officer, Karachi, observes as follows :

"Since the public began taking gold in large quantities there has been a falling off in the issues of silver coin as may be seen from the statement below :—

Year.	ISSUES TO THE PUBLIC.

"As the export trade of Karachi has increased each year, I think I might safely say that the issues of rupees would have been considerably greater each year but for the fact that the public generally found gold more suitable for their requirements than silver. During 1912-13 Messrs. Ralli Brothers were practically the only people who asked for silver coin in large sums, their reason for preferring silver to gold being the greater risk attending the transport and storage of the latter in isolated places in the mofussil."

Ahmedabad.—"Gold coins are generally received into the treasury in payment of Government dues from persons such as land-holders, mill agents, excise and opium farmers and salt traders, and they are generally issued in payment of salaries to officials and for payment of money orders and savings bank transactions to post offices and to a small extent in exchange for silver or currency notes to the public.

"The use of gold coin in preparing ornaments is rare, that is only when the quality of gold required is hard. The general use of the coin is its circulation as money or for remittance or as ready cash on journeys.

"The excess (of receipts and issues) during the year 1912-13 is due to the fact that wider circulation of the coin is beginning in preference to silver and currency notes, generally of higher denominations."

Ahmednagar.—"Gold coins are generally received into the treasury from the post office, village officers in their remittances, opium and liquor shop-keepers, toll contractors, etc. They are generally issued to the public works department in ordinary treasury transactions to other Government officials in payment of their pay, to cash allowance holders* in payment of their emoluments and allowances. They are also issued to the public who find it convenient to take these coins with them to distant places, when going on pilgrimages or for making purchases. They are not received in exchange for silver or currency notes, but sometimes issued to the public in exchange for silver.

"They are not hoarded or used as ornaments. They mainly circulate as money or are used for remittance purposes. It is generally assumed that a gold coin when broken does not fetch exactly its face value of Rs15. It is therefore not a profitable transaction to hoard these coins or to use them as ornaments instead of pure gold, the value of which does not suffer by its being so used.

"It is probable that gold coins are to a small extent taking the place of whole rupees and notes of small values."

Belgaum.—"The European managers of the Gokak and Saundatti mills in this district, who purchased cotton in large quantities, paid the value thereof mostly in gold, so that even a day labourer who was paid his wages in cotton got the price of it in gold.

"Gold is scarcely hoarded. It is the currency notes that are very often used for hoarding money. Gold is mostly used for circulation as money or for remittance purposes as stated above.

"There is no special reason for the increase of the figures of the year under report over those of the preceding two years, except that as years advance people more and more get to the use of gold coins."

Broach.—"The gold coins are received into the sub-treasuries from the village officers, who receive them from Khatedars such as Patidars, Bohras, etc. These Khatedars receive coins from the cotton-buying merchants to whom they sell their cotton. Sovereigns are also received from excise licensees, etc., in payment of Government dues. At the Bank they are issued to cotton merchants and others connected with the cotton trade and at sub-divisional sub-treasuries to merchants and pleaders, who receive them in exchange for silver as they are light to carry. All classes of people seem willing enough to receive the coin. Sovereigns are not generally received in exchange for silver or currency notes.

"Sovereigns are not hoarded or used as ornaments, but they circulate as money and are used for remittance purposes"

The reason for the large increase in the year 1912-13 is that sovereigns have never before been available in such quantities for free issue. During the present cotton season sovereigns worth Rs35,85,000 have been brought here by Government and by the Bank of Bombay at Broach for issue to the public.

"Sovereigns have this year displaced silver. As regards the currency notes of the denominations of Rs5 and Rs10, the sub-divisional authorities report that sovereigns are displacing them, as they are easily portable and have their attraction as metal. The Agent to the Bank of Bombay states that these notes have never been much used in this district as a means of financing the movement of the cotton crops."

Hyderabad (Sind).—"Sovereigns are generally received from Zamindars in payment of Government dues and paid to contractors and Government servants.

* Receivers of annual cash compensations from Government for resumed lands, etc.

"Sovereigns are very seldom received and issued in exchange for silver and currency notes Sovereigns mainly circulate as money. They are to a small extent used for hoarding and ornament purposes, but they are very seldom used for remittance purposes.

"The Agent of the branch Bank reports that 'the bulk of the sovereigns received at this Branch, except those remitted from Karachi for Government purpose, comes from various public offices such as Post Office, Railway and Treasury Office. Large amounts have also been received from sub-treasuries, particularly so within the last two years, when land revenue collections were due, which would tend to show that the circulation of the coin in the district is on the increase.'

"The uses to which the coins are put are varied. Zamindars take a large number of them for hoarding purposes or to displace rupees which they may have already hoarded.

"Among the well-to-do class a small percentage of the coins are melted down and turned into ornaments.

"The circulation of sovereigns has had very little effect on the issues of notes of Rs 5 and Rs 10 denominations, but it certainly has reduced the issue of whole rupees to a fair extent."

Dharwar.—"Sovereigns are ordinarily received at the treasury in postal and sub-treasury remittances and at sub-treasuries generally from villagers in payment of Government dues. In Hubli they are also received from mill-owners and merchants in exchange for silver and notes.

"The coin is, of late, coming more and more into free circulation. There is a decided increase (in 1912-13) both under receipts and issues, in the treasury as well as in the sub-divisional sub-treasuries, except at Hubli and Gadag. The fall at Hubli and Gadag during the year 1912-13 is due to the lateness of the current cotton season and the shortness of the crop last year."

East Khandesh.—The Agent of the Branch Bank at Jalgaon reports as follows:—

"Sovereigns circulate very freely in this district as money and are readily accepted by all classes. They are also used by cotton dealers for remittance purposes to outlying centres where they are accepted freely. I do not think that gold coins are extensively used in this district for either hoarding or the making of ornaments.

"I estimate that in an ordinary good cotton season about Rs 7 lakhs is now imported into this district in sovereigns for the purpose of financing the crop. Sovereigns have largely displaced the whole rupee, and this applies not only in regard to receipts but also to payments. Messrs. Ralli Brothers is the only firm in this district who do not use sovereigns for remittance purposes."

West Khandesh.—"Gold coins are generally received from the cultivators who have to pay the land revenue, etc., and they are issued to anyone who has to receive payment from Government. Sovereigns are hoarded in very rare cases for the present in this district or used as ornaments. In the year 1912-13 the receipts and issues of gold are more than that of the two previous years. The cause can be assigned to the free circulation.

"The circulation of the gold coin has resulted in a material reduction in the net issue of the whole rupees, which is not considered now by the public as a very favourable medium owing to the bulk and weight."

Larkana.—"Gold coins are generally received in payment of Government dues on instalment days. Zamindars deal in grain with merchants and are generally paid by them in sovereigns, which merchants obtain from the big firms and Karachi and other places.

"Sovereigns are now-a-days hoarded to some extent in place of or in addition to notes and silver, and they are freely circulated as money and used for remittance purposes. They are also mixed with market gold in making ornaments but to a smaller extent than before. The public preference for gold is becoming more decided."

Nasik.—Almost the whole quantity of gold coin received in the treasury ultimately comes from the landholders in payment of land revenue. The Mamlatdars all report that gold is rarely hoarded. Sovereigns are never used as ornaments owing to their impure gold except in very rare cases."

Poona.—The Agent of the Branch Bank states as follows:—

"The class of people from whom gold coin is generally received at the bank are merchants. It is issued principally to pensioners, contractors, and private individuals. There are no indications that the circulation of gold has affected the rupee circulation, and the circulation of small notes has increased largely along with the increasing circulation of gold."

Sukkur.—"Sovereigns are not hoarded and rarely used as ornaments. They circulate freely in the market and are used by merchants for remitting purposes while making purchases of wheat, etc. The large increase in the receipts and issues of sovereigns in 1912-13 as compared with the two previous years is entirely due to the increasing popularity of the is a belief that sovereigns are often melted down to make gold ornaments but there is no strong reason to urge that they are hoarded up Gold coins mostly circulate as money and are not used for remittance purposes generally."

Rajkot.—"Gold coins at this treasury are mostly paid to and received from, those connected with Native States; to a less extent they are issued to contractors and a still smaller proportion are used in payment of salaries of Government officials and office staff generally. We have no definite information of either hoarding of gold coin or its conversion into ornaments in this district. It appears to be coming into favour very gradually as a medium of circulation among merchants and others and its bulk as compared with silver is making it increasingly popular for remittance purposes. This has been specially noticeable in the last two months."

At other treasuries the receipts and issues of gold are less important, but the testimony of the officers consulted is much to the same effect. Thus Bijapur states that "gold coins are neither hoarded generally nor used as ornaments, but they circulate as money to a small extent and are used mainly for remittance purposes." Kaira reports that "the tendency of the people now is to the circulation of gold coins as they can be easily taken from one place to another." From Kapara comes the statement that "the major part of issues of sovereigns is slowly and gradually absorbed in preparing ornaments though it cannot be said that they are not at all in circulation. In Haliyal sovereigns are somewhat freely circulated, the fact is due to the existence of large forest contracts and extensive dealings in forest produce." On the other hand, Kolaba reports that "sovereigns are not generally hoarded, they are not even used as ornaments. They generally circulate as money or are used for remittance purposes . . . The large increase in the receipts and payments in the current year is due principally to the fact that traders of corn bring in sovereigns for payment of the price of corn and people use them as a medium of ordinary currency." Mirpurkhas states that "the coins are undoubtedly gaining in popularity. The circulation of gold has resulted in a material reduction in the net issue of whole rupees and currency notes of the denomination of Rs. 5 and Rs. 10." Ratnagiri reports that sovereigns "are mainly in circulation as money. Their use as ornaments is very rare. People in this district are dead against using sovereigns for preparing gold ornaments, their reason being that sovereigns are not made of pure gold but of gold and copper alloy Gold sovereigns are not at all hoarded in this district." From Satara comes the unusual statement that "sovereigns are never accepted by agriculturists and other low class people," but it is added that "the use of sovereigns is increasing day by day for the convenience of the trade." The Agent of the Branch Bank at Sholapur observes that "sovereigns do not appear to be either hoarded or made into ornaments to any considerable extent but to be used as money for ordinary payments and for remittance purposes. People here invest their money in mills, railways and other securities and place deposits with banks, but there is no evidence that money is hoarded, indeed, the keenness of the people here to obtain interest on their money precludes the idea of hoarding. Sovereigns circulate freely in Sholapur city and they pass freely even in the villages in the district." Thana does not think "that over 5 per cent. are used as ornaments or over 15 per cent. for hoarding. The others or about 80 per cent. of the issues circulate as money." The Baroda Treasury reports "that during the past 11 years the receipts and issues have greatly increased. The reason for this increase is due to the free circulation of these coins among the public who have learnt to take more advantage of them day by day."

The above extracts are sufficient to prove the growing popularity of the sovereign and its increasing circulation as currency even in places far removed from the Presidency town. Further evidence to the same effect is available in the railway and post office figures which are given below. The figures for the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway are for stations within the Presidency only; the others are for the whole railway.

Receipts from the public at stations on the —	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway	32,383½	69,301½	90,961½
Great Indian Peninsula Railway	162,066	352,081	476,346
Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway	16,779½	32,429½	42,543½
North-Western Railway	134,094	248,880	451,809
TOTAL	345,273	702,692	1,064,460

The progressive increase in these figures is most marked and clearly shows that the public continue to make a greater use of sovereigns in their ordinary transactions.

The following table compares the receipts and issues of sovereigns at the several post offices in the Bombay Presidency (including Sind) during the last three years :—

Names of Offices.	RECEIPTS.			ISSUES.
	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
	£	£	£	£	£	£
Bombay General Post Office and its Town Sub-Offices.	37,663	81,070½	106,428	22,370½	45,741	63,127½
Karachi Post Office and its Town Sub-Offices.	3,241	8,626	15,628½	2,137½	4,714	7,602
All other offices in the Presidency	84,595½	159,795	215,444½	47,872½	93,071½	160,599½
TOTAL	125,499½	249,491½	337,501	72,380½	143,526½	231,329

These figures, which especially on the receipt side give some idea of the nature of the money in circulation and in the hands of the people, indicate a steady and continuous growth, the increase in the issues no doubt indicating larger payments of money orders in gold.

Receipts of sovereigns in Treasuries, Post Offices and Railways.

39. Statement No. VI A gives the usual details of receipts of sovereigns in Treasuries, Post Offices and Railways. These figures indicate the extent to which the sovereign is entering into the daily transactions of the public as currency. The transactions in 1912-13 were very much larger than those in 1911-12. The total Treasury receipts increased by £2,376,000 or 42 per cent., the Post Office receipts by £598,000 or 44 per cent. and the Railway receipts by £588,000 or 48 per cent. Of the increase of £2,376,000 under Treasuries United Provinces records the largest £1,018,000, Punjab comes next with £646,000 and Bombay third £301,000. Except in the case of Madras the figures for 1912-13 are the highest on record.

Uses of sovereigns
currency.

40. Sovereigns are no doubt used to some extent for hoarding or to be melted and turned into ornaments. It is not possible to obtain any definite information as to the extent of these practices except that in 1912-13, there was a substitution of 50 lakhs worth of gold for silver in the store of value held by a Native State (paragraph 22). All the information available on the subject is already given in the extracts from local reports quoted in paragraph 38. From Bombay the Accountant-General reports as follows :—

"There is little that is new to be said on the evergreen subject of hoarding. Statistics are necessarily of comparatively small use here. It is obvious that some of the gold absorbed goes into new hoards, as the wealth of the people increases, and some of it displaces silver in old hoards. That this gold will never re-appear is, however, a quite mistaken conclusion to arrive at. Silver has always come out of hoards when necessity has driven it, and there seems no prima facie reason to think that its action will be different in the case of gold. At the same time it is certain that, especially on this side of India, where the rise and growth of Swadeshi Banks, financing corporations and industrial concerns has been phenomenal of recent years, there is much less tendency to hoard and a greater inclination to invest money productively than used to be the case. The extension of the co-operative movement must have the same effect in agricultural tracts. The only danger is lest the failure of some of these mushroom companies should cause a set back and incline people to tighten their purse strings."

"As regards melting, it may be observed that the price of English bar gold in Bombay generally fluctuates between Rs. 24 and Rs. 24-1-0 per tola, and the value of the pure gold contained in sovereigns comes to Rs. 23-14-3 per tola. If, however, we take into account the cost of melting and purifying the gold contained in sovereigns it is doubtful if the use of sovereigns in the manufacture of ornaments could be more economical than that of pure gold. Nevertheless, it is a fact that sovereigns are to some extent melted by the people for making ornaments, etc. Direct evidence in this connection is available in the Currency office records. It appears that during the last eleven years sovereigns to the extent of £1,298,500 were taken ostensibly for melting. A great deal of this was taken by one man, and there is some reason to doubt whether some of it was not really exported and not melted. A portion of the amount which was taken for local use no doubt also found its way into the melting pot. In the case of outlying places far removed from trading centres it is possible that the gold required by the people for ornaments, etc., is obtained by melting sovereigns. At such places it may be more profitable to use sovereigns (which can be readily obtained at the local treasury) than bar gold which has to be brought from Bombay. The Treasury Officer, Kanara, for instance, reports that most of the sovereigns issued to the public are evidently melted for preparing ornaments. In Bombay the Hindus and Mahomedans generally prefer to have their ornaments made of pure gold or of gold of 97 touch, while the majority of Christians and the Parsis use sovereigns in the manufacture of their ornaments. Ornaments made of sovereign gold are said to retain their polish for a longer time and do not lose weight to the same extent as those that are made of fine gold. It is probably because of this that sovereign gold is preferred by the majority of Christians and Parsis. I am also informed that gold stated to be $\frac{97}{100}$ th fine is prepared locally and sold in the market at prices varying from Rs. 23 to Rs. 23-8-0 per tola according to the quality of the metal and that sovereigns are some times used in the manufacture of this gold. It is difficult to verify this, but as some of the gold which though stated to be $\frac{97}{100}$ th fine is really of an inferior quality, the use of sovereigns in the manufacture of the metal very possibly brings some small profit to the manufacturer."

41. It is now possible to indicate generally the use which is made of the sovereign in India at the present moment, and the task is made more easy by the fact that all the evidence is in accord with the conclusions to be arrived at by theoretical reasoning. In the first place there is a large mass of population who never enter into any transaction involving a receipt or expenditure of Rs. 15. To that class the sovereign will never penetrate. As regards the other classes, the use made of the sovereign varies considerably in various provinces as has been already indicated. But the following general conclusions seem to be permissible. Take the trading community. They are well aware of the intrinsic value of the sovereign, and, even though they might not be able to get rid of one readily in local trade transactions, they would probably accept a sovereign if offered in the course of business. One can now say more than this. In every town of importance in India, except in a few outlying districts, the sovereign can be used in retail transactions. General conclusion

Then there are the comparatively well-to-do people. The sovereign is entering more and more into their ceremonial life as, e.g., for presents at marriage ceremonies. They are finding that the sovereign is a very convenient and portable form of value, hence its use on journeys and pilgrimages and for remittance purposes, is increasing. Its use in retail transactions has already been discussed. These people know that Government accepts the sovereign readily, so small payments to Government are often made in this medium. There can be no doubt that sovereigns pass into hoards to some extent. Local custom as regards their use for ornaments seems to vary considerably in various parts of India. As was to be expected Government servants, pensioners and other payees have taken the lead in the acceptance of sovereigns.

Finally, we come to the most important portion of the Indian population—the agricultural community. The variations from province to province of the absorption of gold are due very largely to the use of the sovereign by this community. Every large expansion of such absorption has been due to an increased use of gold in the purchase of crops, and has thus been the direct outcome of the initiative of the wholesale purchaser. It is to the latter, more than to any other, class that the extended use of gold is due. And so far experience has shown that an attempt to use gold in such purchases, if persevered with, has always succeeded. There is even a strong volume of evidence that in parts of the Punjab the sovereign is preferred to the rupee, and a purchaser offering gold has an advantage over one offering silver. The use of gold in the purchase of crops is now pre-eminent in the wheat trade in the Punjab, it is large and increasing in the cotton trade of Bombay and the cotton and spring crops in Northern India, and it has obtained a footing in the west of the Madras Presidency. It has at last touched the rice trade in Burma.

In view of the statements in paragraph 26 it is clear that gold has fairly free circulation in parts of the Punjab and, to a smaller extent, in parts of Bombay and the United Provinces. I mean by this that there are many sovereigns which pass through a fair number of hands and are used as a medium of exchange in many transactions before they return to treasuries or pass into hoards. Giving "circulation" the wider meaning, which neglects to take into account the number of exchange transactions performed by each coin during circulation, Statement VI-A indicates a considerable and increasing volume of gold circulation except in Bengal (outside Calcutta), Assam, Bihar and Orissa and Burma.

It must not be thought that every sovereign which is absorbed is hoarded or melted down. A very large sum of money is in actual use in India. Banks have cash reserves, traders have till money, private persons have their petty cash. There can be no doubt that sovereigns now form some, and an increasing, portion of this daily balance of cash in hand ; and sovereigns so in use certainly must not be regarded as hoarded. Again a certain amount of gold must leave India in the pockets of travellers.

It is not for me to discuss whether a gold currency is necessary for the maintenance of exchange. But the conclusion must be drawn from these figures and accumulated opinions that the sovereign really has entered into the economic life of India. The withdrawal of the sovereign would now be viewed with disfavour by many, to whom currency controversies are unknown, who yet realise that this coin is superior to any other.

VII.—Silver Circulation.

Absorption of silver.

42. Statement VII gives the usual details of the net absorption of rupees and half rupees during the year. The total absorption in 1912-13 for all India compares as follows with the actuals since 1906-07 :—

	In lakhs of rupees (Absorption +, Return—).
1906-07	+ 18,00
1907-08	+ 3,92
1908-09	— 14,88
1909-10	+ 13,22
1910-11	+ 3,34
1911-12	+ 11,54
1912-13	+ 10,49

The absorption amounted to 10½ crores in 1912-13 against 11½ crores in 1911-12. This reduction of a crore is surprising in view of the increased issue for jute in Bengal. It was made up of a smaller absorption of 3¼ crores in Bombay, of about a crore in Burma, ½ a crore in the Central Provinces and ¼ crore in Madras counterbalanced by increases of 2¼ crores in the Punjab and 1½ crores in the United Provinces. For Bengal including Eastern Bengal, Assam and Bihar and Orissa the net absorption of the two years was practically the same.

Explanation of provincial variations.

43. The heavy reduction in Bombay of about 3¼ crores was due chiefly to the failure in some parts of the monsoon of 1911, the result of which was a net withdrawal of rupees in the first half year of 1912-13 of over 3½ crores against about a crore in the corresponding period of 1911-12. The smaller demand in Burma occurred wholly in the rice season and it is explained that currency notes have been used to an increasing extent in the rice trade and it is also suggested that the use of gold has increased. The large increases in Northern India were wholly due to the exceptionally active trade both in the spring and winter. The increase would have been still higher but for the fact that in the last quarter of the year there were heavy withdrawals, in payment of revenue, of some of the amounts issued early in the year. It has been stated above that for Bengal as a whole the net absorption in 1912-13 was practically the same as in 1911-12. This statement requires some qualification : it has been explained in paragraph 22 that about 80 lakhs were exchanged for note and gold at Calcutta on account of uncurrent coin tendered by a Native State—the uncurrent coin has been treated for purposes of Statement VII as withdrawn from India and Bengal and thus the real absorption in Bengal has been understated by about 80 lakhs. But even assuming that the absorption in Bengal in 1912-13 was more by about a crore than that in 1911-12 the result must be considered rather unusual, as the following figures show :—

	In lakhs of Rupees.
	1906-07.	1909-10.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Net issues in jute season (para. 33)	12,36	4,35	4,75	8,33	12,93
Total absorption of rupees in India	18,00	13,22	3,34	11,54	11,29
Net absorption in Bengal	10,78	— 83	10	5,59	6,52

While in 1906-07 and 1911-12 the absorption in Bengal was less by between 2 or 3 crores than the total jute issues, in 1912-13 the difference amounted to about 6½ crores. Bengal being a permanently settled province not liable to important fluctuations in revenue receipts, the explanation of this return in 1912-13 of such a large proportion of the issues must be sought in the large increase in the import trade in the last quarter of the year already explained in paragraph 12. Apparently the prosperity of the jute trader induced him to spare more from his savings for imported produce.

44. The question remains whether rupees have been replaced to any appreciable extent by other forms of currency. From the figures in paragraph 26 it seems clear that to some extent currency notes have taken the place of rupees in the rice trade in Burma, and, to a still greater extent, gold of rupees in the Punjab. Replacement of rupees by other form of currency.

The inference has been drawn in that paragraph that gold is now used to some extent in the purchase of crops in Bombay and the United Provinces. To this extent gold must have replaced rupees in those provinces also. It is not yet evident, however, as has been suggested, that gold has replaced rupees in Burma to any extent.

45. The subject of coinage of rupees both from purchased silver and by re-coinage of withdrawn coins has already been dealt with in paragraph 22. Statement VIII gives the usual details of the coinage. Rupee coinage.

46. Statement IX furnishes the usual figures relating to the rupee census. In Statement X a further comparison is given of the figures for certain groups of years to prove the substitution of rupees of new coinage for the older ones. This comparison clearly shows a steady decline in the percentages of older rupees in circulation and, so far as can be judged from these statistics, there is no evidence of replacement of silver in hoards to any large extent by gold in British India. Rupee census.

VIII.—Note Circulation.

47. Statements XI to XX contain the usual statistics regarding currency note circulation. These statistics comprise :— Statistics of Note Circulation.

the gross circulation.

48. The gross circulation at the end of each month of 1912-13 compares as follows with the corresponding figures in 1911-12 :—

		(In lakhs of rupees).
				Increase in 1912-13.	1911-12.	1912-13.
April	58,34	54,69	3,65
May	58,89	55,10	3,79
June	64,12	58,22	5,90
July	66,59	60,29	6,30
August	68,16	59,69	8,47
September	68,33	56,32	12,01
October	65,79	56,61	9,18
November	67,27	58,05	9,22
December	65,70	56,18	9,52
January	67,75	54,70	13,05
February	67,54	57,19	10,35
March	68,98	61,36	7,62

Ordinarily the end of the busy season in April and May is the time when the gross note circulation for the whole of India is at its lowest level. At this time the balances with Presidency Banks are brought down in anticipation of the collections in the slack season and funds begin to return from the public to the Government treasury or to the banks. The banks for convenience hold their reserves in the form of notes obtained by tendering coin in exchange. Thus the Currency Reserve of rupees and the note circulation alike increase. In the busy season there is a tendency for the operation to be reversed. Coin is obtained by the tender of notes so that the Reserve and the circulation decrease. This tendency, however, is counterbalanced by two factors, namely, a busy trade season in one Province in India overlaps a slack season in another, and, secondly, the exchange for currency notes of the sovereigns imported in large quantities in the busy season increases the note circulation. In 1912-13 there was yet another disturbing factor in the shape of transfers of Home Treasury balances to India, on account of silver purchased in England and China. These transfers are explained in paragraph 13, and, deducting the amounts of transfers from the large monthly increases of gross circulation, the comparison with 1911-12 stands as follows :—

		(In lakhs of rupees.)
		Gross increase.	Deduct transfers from Home Treasury.	Net increase.
April	3,65	...	3,65
May	3,79	...	3,79
June	5,90	...	5,90
July	6,30	...	6,30
August	8,47	2,18	6,29
September	12,01	4,05	7,96
October	9,18	5,87	3,31
November	9,22	8,27	95

January	13,05	10,59	2,46
February	10,35	10,59	— 24
March	7,62	10,59	— 2,97

The above shows that, but for the large transfer of funds from England, the gross circulation towards the end of the year 1912-13 would have shown a reduction instead of an increase, chiefly for the reason that the balances of the Presidency Banks were considerably reduced at that time (being nearly 1½ crores less on the 31st March 1913 than on the 31st March 1912, see second table in paragraph 2), in spite of substantial increases in Government deposits with the banks (vide table in paragraph 14).

balances.

49. Owing to the large variations in the gross circulation and the large increases in the Reserve Treasury balances, the figures of gross circulation less Reserve Treasury balances given in statement XIV supply a fairer comparison of the gross circulation of notes. This comparison shows that during the year 1912-13 there was an average increase in the gross circulation so reduced of currency notes for the whole of India of 3.09 crores made up as follows:—

	(In lakhs of Rupees.) Increase + Decrease —	Percentage Increase or Decrease.
Calcutta Circle	+ 3,16	+ 15.7
Cawnpore „	— 31	— 11.4
Lahore „	— 79	— 21.2
Bombay „	— 70	— 5.1
Karachi „	— 26	— 18.0
Madras „	+ 81	+ 13.2
Rangoon „	+ 1,18	+ 28.8
	+ 3,09

The major portion of the increase in the Calcutta Circle occurred in the circulation of 10-rupee and 100-rupee notes. There was some increase in higher value notes, mainly due to the issues to a Native State noticed in paragraph 22. The reduction in circulation in the Cawnpore Circle was almost entirely under high value notes. In the Lahore Circle every denomination of notes except the 5-rupee value seems to have been adversely affected. In Bombay and Karachi the falling off appeared under high value notes while in Madras and Rangoon the increases were chiefly in the circulation of universal notes. The remarkable increase in the circulation in Rangoon was due mainly to the increased use of notes in connection with the rice trade. The reduction in the circulation of high value notes in Cawnpore, Lahore, Bombay and Karachi appears to have been due entirely to a corresponding reduction in the notes held as stores of value by the Presidency Banks. The highly prosperous trade in Northern India necessarily reduced these stores very low and in Bombay and Karachi the Bank of Bombay had to work with unusually low cash balances during the year. The table in paragraph 28 shows that, in the year 1912-13, Cawnpore and Lahore were supplied with large amounts of universal notes from other circles and these to some extent appear to have replaced home notes. Although the increase in the average gross circulation exceeded 3 crores, the increase between 1st April and 31st March 1912-13 amounted to 13 lakhs only due to a reduction of the Banks' balances as already explained.

50. The average amount of notes held in Reserve and other treasuries during the year under report was about $13\frac{1}{2}$ crores and the Presidency Banks also held, on an average, nearly 7 crores. The active circula- Deducting these from the average gross circulation, the average active circulation during the year was nearly $45\frac{1}{2}$ crores. At the end of April it was nearly $43\frac{1}{2}$ crores; it then began to decrease slightly and the minimum of $42\frac{1}{2}$ crores was reached at the end of May. Afterwards it increased steadily till it attained its maximum of $48\frac{1}{2}$ crores at the end of February. In March there was a slight set-back and the circulation stood at $47\frac{1}{2}$ crores. As usual the aggregate amount of notes in the hands of the public was greater during the winter months than at other times of the year.

51. The growth of the average active circulation in lakhs of rupees is given below:— Its development.

1903-04	+ 2,85
1904-05	+ 1,77
1905-06	+ 2,41

1909-10	+ 4,11
1910-11	+ 1,54
1911-12	+ 3,14
1912-13	+ 3,50

The figures for 1907-08 and 1908-09 are abnormal, as these years were affected by adverse agricultural conditions and by the universal financial crisis. The figures for 1909-10 show a recovery from the effects of the previous two years. But the growth in 1910-11 was comparatively small. The figures for 1911-12 indicate a return to the ordinary rate of development prior to the set-back, and the rate of development has been well maintained in 1912-13.

52. The character of the circulation can be ascertained by a determination of the percentage of each denomination to the total circulation. Two statements are given below from which notes of R10,000 are excluded on account of their high value and their rare use outside Reserve treasuries. In each statement the calculations are based on the figures on the 31st of March; in the second statement the variations have been traced into the different circles and the notes have been grouped, notes for R20 being omitted as they are unimportant and are no longer being printed. Fives and tens have been grouped together; as these are the notes which are chiefly used as local currency. On the other hand 500's and 1,000's have been put together as the bulk of these notes is used either in remittance or as a store of value. The 50's and 100's are shown separately as these notes acquired special importance as universal notes of highest value during the years 1910-11 and 1911-12, respectively.

ation.

53. The main features of the above table are the steady increase in the proportion of 5 and 10-rupee notes and the corresponding steady reduction in the proportion of 500 and 1,000-rupee notes in circulation and the almost stationary character of the proportion of the 100-rupee notes.

The large actual increase in the circulation of small notes, and the steady increase of the proportion of such notes to the total circulation, are valuable indications of the growth of the popularity of currency notes, for these notes are used almost entirely in every-day transactions.

As shown by the figures given in paragraph 68, the average duration of circulation is larger for small notes than for the 100-rupee note, for these latter are used to some extent for remittance purposes, and notes so used naturally return from circulation as soon as the purpose is attained. So that the issues of R100 would probably compare more favourably with the issues of small notes than the above figures indicate.

The falling off in the proportion of 500's and 1,000's is not only a falling-off in the percentage but also in the absolute value in circulation. Though the special conditions of trade in 1912-13 caused some temporary reductions in the stores of value with the Presidency Banks, a steady decrease in these stores represented by high value notes can only be accounted for by the substitution of universal notes for local notes in the moveable portion of the stores. For example, the Bank of Bengal has its balances scattered over all the currency circles in India; in the trade season for any one circle all the local notes of that circle are brought there for financing the trade, but in the slack season funds are collected at the circle for remittance to the head office or to other circles and these remittances can be made in high value local notes only to the extent to which they can be held as part of the minimum working balance at other circles. Under the old system the whole remittance could be made in high value notes as there was no difficulty in passing such notes of foreign circles in payment of Government revenue, but now with the introduction of the universal notes, the remittances to other circles, if actually required for issue there, must be in notes of the lower denominations. The falling off in the proportion of 500's and 1,000's may thus be explained by the partial substitution of smaller notes in the moveable portion of the Banks' balances. This substitution being intended for exchange purposes, the general conclusion that the large increase in the circulation of small notes really represents an increase in the popularity of notes is fully warranted.

54. The 5-rupee notes have continued to grow in popularity in all circles, By denominations. the most noticeable increases being under Bombay, Madras and Calcutta.

There has been a large increase in the circulation of 10-rupee notes in Calcutta, Madras and Rangoon, and a slight increase in Bombay, Karachi and Cawnpore, but there has been a falling-off in Lahore.

There has been a decrease in the circulation of 50-rupee notes in all circles, except Karachi, where the increase has been slight.

As regards the 100-rupee note, Calcutta shows the largest expansion and next to it come Madras and Rangoon.

55. Calcutta.—The proportion to the total of the circulation of the 5 and 10-rupee notes has increased 3 per cent. at the expense of 50-rupee notes and notes of high denominations. By circles.

Cawnpore.—Here there has been a similar increase of 1 per cent. under 5 and 10-rupees by reductions under the higher value notes. The reduction is believed to be due partly to the free flow of universal notes, a large increase in the circulation of foreign notes in use reducing the demand for home notes.

Lahore.—The most striking feature in the circulation of notes in this circle was a substantial reduction in the use of 10, 20 and 50-rupee notes without any corresponding increase under 100 rupees. The 10-rupee circulation has practically gone back to that of 1910-11, and it is surmised that the figures of 1911-12 may have been swollen by the abnormal circumstances of the Delhi Durbar. It seems probable that there has been some replacement of currency notes of the denominations of R10 and R50 by gold.

Bombay.—The circulation of 5-rupee notes showed a steady and continuous increase, whereas that of R10 showed only a small increase. The 100-rupee circulation showed an upward tendency. Thus the popularity of the 5-rupee note has been well maintained and the absence of any large growth in the circulation of 10's may probably be not unconnected with the more extended use of sovereigns. The increase in the 100-rupee issues is believed to have been due to larger remittances to trade centres like Cawnpore.

Madras.—Here there was an increase under every denomination except 50's. The largest increases were in the 5 and 10-rupee notes, the circulation whereof during 1912-13 exceeded that during 1911-12 by over 16 per cent. The 100's came next with an increase of 8 per cent. over 1911-12. Thus universal notes have grown steadily in public favour.

Rangoon.—The total value of circulation of notes at the end 1912-13 showed an increase of 21 per cent. over that of 1911-12. The growth took place mainly under the 10-rupee and 100-rupee notes, the value of the increases being 87 lakhs and 14 lakhs, respectively. The results indicate the increasing appreciation of the advantages of a paper currency which is now used to a large extent in the financing of the rice trade.

56. By the currency legislation of February 1910 non-universal notes are encashable only within the circle of issue, except the old sub-circle notes which are encashable also at the head offices of circles, e.g., Cawnpore and Lahore notes at Calcutta, and Karachi notes at Bombay. Encashment of foreign circle notes.

foreign circle notes now represent mainly transfers of funds from one circle to another in universal notes.

The aggregate encashments of foreign circle notes during the year 1912-13 have been 17,93 lakhs (Statement XVIII). The comparison of this figure with the corresponding figures for previous years is shown below :—

	Lakhs.
1907-08	13,79
1908-09	23,14
1909-10	17,06
1910-11	8,12
1911-12	14,47
1912-13	17,93

The figure for 1908-09 was quite exceptional, as an enormous number of Lahore and Cawnpore notes were presented for encashment at Calcutta. The decrease in these figures in 1910-11 was unusual, the encashment of foreign notes having been out of proportion to the increase in circulation of universal notes. The increasing use of the 100-rupee notes for trade remittances seems to be indicated by the comparison of the figures for 1912-13 and for 1911-12.

These remittances along the main routes are analysed below :—

In Lakhs of Rupees.

	1909-10.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Sub-circle notes cashed at head offices	6,55	3,40	3,27	2,39
Per contra encashment at sub-circles	2,49	79	1,17	3,10

Calcutta and Karachi	24	10	24	39
Rangoon and other Circles	23	21	48	83
TOTAL	16,72	8,00	14,04	17,41

Fifty-two lakhs are left unaccounted for on less important lines such as Madras and Karachi, Cawnpore, etc. Under "sub-circle notes cashed at head offices" are included the old sub-circle notes of the Cawnpore and Lahore Circles which are encashable at Calcutta and of the Karachi Circle which are encashable at Bombay. But under this head is also shown the value of universal notes of the above circles cashed at Calcutta or Bombay.

In 1912-13 the remittances from Cawnpore and Lahore to Calcutta were a little over 2 crores; the remittance from Karachi to Bombay was a little over $\frac{1}{4}$ th of a crore. But the remittances in the opposite direction were over 3 crores to Calcutta and Bombay against less than $1\frac{1}{4}$ crores in 1911-12. Transactions between Presidencies also exceeded those of 1911-12 by about $1\frac{1}{2}$ crores. The net results have already been reviewed in paragraph 28.

57. From the record maintained in currency offices of the receipts and issues of notes in bundles of the value of R10,000 and over, an estimate of the value of notes which have been used for remittance purposes is prepared. When notes are issued, the applicants are asked as to the purpose for which they are required, and, if it be stated that they are required for remittances, this is recorded. It may be inferred, however, from the figures that correct information is not given by the public in all cases. During the year under review the total value of the 50 and 100-rupee notes, said to have been required for remittance purposes and issued in bundles of R10,000 and over, have been 2,43 lakhs against an aggregate value of 2,45 lakhs in the previous year. The value of notes of other circles tendered in such bundles in currency offices was, however, 4,64 lakhs against 2,05 lakhs in the previous year, and practically the whole of the receipts were in 100-rupee notes. It is probable that a large portion of the foreign circle notes cashed, as mentioned in the preceding paragraph, was in 100-rupee notes and used for remittance purposes. The inference to be drawn from these various facts is that considerably more than 5 crores of the 100-rupee notes cancelled during the year had been used for inter-circle remittances. The total cancellations of such notes during the year amounted to over 50 crores, so that over 10 per cent. of the 100-rupee notes cancelled had been used for inter-circle remittances.

58. The following statistics show that the transactions in notes in treasuries both under receipts and issues have increased :—

Non-universal notes of other circles are no longer receivable in treasuries either in payment of Government dues or as part of the Railway and Postal revenue credited into treasuries. This explains the insignificant figure for 1911-12 and 1912-13 under Foreign notes in the above table.

It would appear from the above table that the issue of notes to the public for silver has not increased to the same extent as the other transactions. This is said to be due partly to the popularity of gold. The use of universal notes for remittance purposes has also affected to some extent the tender of surplus notes at Government deficit treasuries such as Quetta for the purchase of supply Bills.

Statement XX gives the usual information regarding encashment of currency notes at treasuries in the several Provinces.

59. In paragraph 44 the conclusion has been drawn that gold has replaced rupees to a large extent in the Punjab, and to a smaller extent in Bombay and the United Provinces also. The question now arises whether the increased use of gold has affected the note circulation at all. In the Punjab it is certain that the circulation of 5 and 10-rupee notes has been affected. The gross circulation of the 5-rupee note after nearly doubling in the 3 years 1908-09 to 1911-12 increased by 5 per cent. only in 1912-13. The gross circulation of the 10-rupee note in 1910-11 was more than double what it was 3 years before. In the last 2 years it has increased by 1 per cent. only. These figures considered in conjunction with the large increase in the use of sovereigns in the last 2 years are irresistible.

In Bombay the gross circulation of the 10-rupee note after increasing by nearly 30 per cent. in the 2 years 1908-09 to 1910-11 has increased by 6 per cent. only in the last 2 years.

On the whole, it may now be definitely stated that, but for the use of gold as currency, the circulation of the smaller currency notes would have expanded much more rapidly in the Punjab, Bombay, and the United Provinces.

eral conclusion.

60. In paragraph 53 I have already arrived at the general conclusion that the large increase in the circulation of small notes represents an increased popularity for use in every-day transactions. It is probable that the increase in the volume of note circulation would have been greater but for the use of gold as currency, but there will always be a place in the currency for both notes and gold.

IX.—MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS CONNECTED WITH CURRENCY NOTES.

claims on lost notes.

61. The following figures compare the number of half notes and wholly destroyed or mutilated notes in respect of which claims have been admitted during the last two years :—

		1911-12.	1912-13.
Whole notes destroyed	.	27	71
Half notes	{ Lost by post	898	582
	{ Lost otherwise	1,163	856
Mutilated notes	.	516	675

The figures against the head "half notes, lost by post," given above indicate the extent to which the transmission of notes through the post, uninsured or unregistered, acts as a temptation to poor postal employes. Half notes so stolen are often converted into mismatched notes which entail loss on their innocent but ignorant holders. The introduction of compulsory insurance of notes sent by post, in 1911-12, apparently accounts for the decline in the number of losses in the post.

suggested precaution in remitting half notes.

62. A recent case of a claim for payment of half notes presents certain features which may be of interest to the banking community. A European firm in Calcutta wanted to remit halves of currency notes of 5, 10 and 100-rupee denominations of the aggregate value of Rs. 13,500 by post, registered and insured, and, with this object in view, the half notes were placed in several covers addressed to various collieries and made over to a peon of the firm on 23rd April 1913 to take to the Post Office for despatch. Some of the half notes so despatched at the same time were right halves and some left. The peon, instead of posting the letters, decamped with the half notes. A claim on the other halves of the notes was preferred by the firm at the Calcutta Currency Office, and, after the necessary preliminary investigation, the value of the notes was paid to the firm on the usual bond with sureties. Since then seven mismatched 10-rupee notes have been presented at the Currency Office for encashment, these mismatched notes having been prepared by joining together seven right and seven left halves of notes found in the remittance. A note formed by joining two right halves or two left halves of currency notes would not easily escape detection; and it is clear that these notes were successfully passed into circulation among the ignorant public, only because the consignment of half notes lost included the right halves of some notes and the left halves of others. It would, therefore, be a great help to the public if banks and firms making remittances by half notes made it a working rule not to send right and left halves of currency notes of the same denomination to the Post Office by the same peon at the same time.

abolition of the
system.

63. To afford facilities to the public in the tracing of lost notes, a system was in force in currency offices of registering the numbers of notes reported as lost or stolen. The working of the system necessitated a record of all transactions in connection with notes presented for exchange, and the maintenance of a list of lost notes, in each office, with which the notes presented were checked. The entire system has been under examination during recent years, and it was found that the procedure was of little use either as a preventive of crime or as a means of detection. It is doubtful whether would-be thieves were thereby deterred from stealing notes, as there were ample facilities for passing notes elsewhere, and a guilty person was rarely, if ever, discovered in a currency office. The value of the "stopped" note system, as a means of enabling the police to trace back possession of a note to a guilty person, thus depended almost entirely on the practice of the public of registering the particulars of the notes passing through their hands. It was evident, however, that this practice was being steadily abandoned by the public and consequently a charge could rarely be brought home to a guilty person. The Government of India, therefore, came to the conclusion that the benefits secured by the "stopped" note list were not commensurate with the expense and trouble to which the Currency Department was put, and the delay and inconvenience caused to innocent persons in the exchange of notes, and, accordingly, directed the discontinuance of the maintenance of the list in the Finance Department Resolution No. 523-F., dated the 12th November 1912. This order of Government has been given effect to in all the currency offices since the issue of the Resolution.

64. The number of forged notes presented for encashment or received ^{Forgeries.} in the currency offices for examination as to their genuineness or for safe custody aggregated 395 in the year under report against 146 in 1911-12 and 129 in 1910-11, and consisted of 3 of Rs. 5, 338 of Rs. 10, 1 of Rs. 20, 48 of Rs. 100, and 5 of Rs. 1,000 denominations. The new forgeries which came to light during the year are shown below :—

Rs. 10 . . .	YA 71 (of the Calcutta Circle)	} Calcutta.

The number of forged notes of the Rs. 10 denomination, received during the year under report, was more than three times as large as the aggregate number of such notes received during the preceding year. The excellent forgeries of the GA/40, TB/35, QC/15, QC/36, YA/47 series, noticed in the last Currency Administration Report, passed into circulation in almost all the currency circles and they were very successful in imposing on the public. The culprits could not be traced in British India, but it is satisfactory to note from the report of the Commissioner of Paper Currency, Rangoon, that the forgers have been arrested at Batavia, where they are being dealt with by the Dutch Police.

Of the new forgeries detected during the year, the TB/19 series of the Rs. 5 denomination is a very poor specimen of a hand-made forgery. The YA/71 series of the Rs. 10 denomination is also a clumsy imitation, apparently lithographed on ordinary paper ; while the SA/99 series of this denomination, found in Bombay, has also been produced by lithography. The QC/91 series of the Rs. 10 denomination, discovered in Burma, was produced by photo-lithographic process on a somewhat stouter paper with no water marks. The forgery of the UA/91 series is a hand-drawn one with bad colouring. Of the 48 forgeries of the Rs. 100 denomination, as many as 44 appeared in Rangoon Circle, of which 39 belonged to the forgery of the QB/96 series, which was noticed in the last report, and the rest were covered by 4 new forgeries which were discovered in that Circle. The most important of these forgeries is the QC/71 series, which has been produced by photo-lithography, or photo-helio-zinc-ography, and has been declared to be the work of an expert in photo-mechanical process. The forgery of the QB/11 series has been produced by photography on matt bromide paper, the green colouring being done by hand; while the other two forgeries, although produced by photography, were very crude imitations. The only forgery of this denomination, found in Calcutta, was a note of the DA/71 series, the right-half of which was genuine and bore Mr. Barrow's signature, while the left-half was struck from wood-blocks. All the 5 forgeries of the Rs. 1,000 denomination were discovered in Rangoon and appertained to the QC/4 series. This forgery was produced by photo-zincography or a similar process, i.e., a process of flat surface printing. The paper used was good, but slightly thicker than the proper paper. During the year under review there were 5 prosecutions in Burma, but conviction was secured in 3 cases only. One prosecution was undertaken in Calcutta, in which the offender was sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for 4 years.

Fraudulent claims.

65. There were seven prosecutions in Calcutta, one in Cawnpore, one in Lahore, three in Bombay, two in Madras, and one in Rangoon in connection with fraudulent claims on half and mismatched notes, and convictions were secured in all except two in Calcutta and two in Bombay. The accused in the Rangoon case was still under trial at the close of the year. During the year under report, six altered notes—one of Rs. 10 altered in material parts and 5 mismatched notes for Rs. 10, each having the number in one half altered so as to correspond with that on the other half—were presented for encashment in Rangoon, but they were impounded and their value credited to Government. A case was tried in Burma in connection with the fraudulent alteration of a note of Rs. 10 to Rs. 50 in which the accused were convicted and sentenced to 5 years' rigorous imprisonment each.

Writing-off of old notes.

66. The value of notes written off to Government under Section 19 of Act II of 1910 amounted, during the year 1912-13, to Rs. 49,830 as compared with Rs. 43,700, Rs. 43,080, and Rs. 44,250 in the preceding three years.

Proportion of transactions to circulation.

67. The following table gives the value of the circulation of the circles and the means of their receipts and issues over the counter during the year with the percentage of the former to the latter during the last three years :—

NAME OF CIRCLE.	IN LAKHS OF RUPEES.		PERCENTAGE ON AMOUNT IN COLUMN 2 ON THAT IN COLUMN 3.
	Average circulation on last day of month.	Mean value of receipts and issues.	1912-13.	1911-12.	1910-11.
Calcutta	28.43	88.94	32	30	34
Cawnpore	2.41	3.74	64	70	66
Lahore	2.92	8.18	36	46	45
Bombay	17.06	63.12	27	27	29
Karachi	1.18	3.72	32	54	67
Madras	8.34	26.81	31	29	28
Rangoon	5.28	29.78	18	14	12

This statement indicates the comparative duration of circulation of a note in each circle. Much the most rapid circulation is in Rangoon, then Bombay, Calcutta, Karachi and Madras are about equal, and Cawnpore is much the slowest. The only notable variation in the 3 years is the increased rapidity of circulation in Karachi.

Cancellations of notes compared with circulation.

68. The following statement compares the cancellation of the various denominations of currency notes during the year 1912-13 with the gross circulation of notes at the commencement of the year, and thus indicates the comparative duration of circulation of each denomination of note throughout India :—

	Rs. 5.	Rs. 10.	Rs. 20.	Rs. 50.	Rs. 100.	Rs. 500.	Rs. 1,000.	Rs. 10,000.	Total.
1. Total cancelled	4,497,579	19,049,308	16,659	793,305	5,041,951	201,334	622,369	82,493	30,304,998
2. Gross circulation on 31st March 1912.	2,599,877	15,090,740	65,633	379,255	1,652,209	56,102	92,971	14,320	19,951,107
Percentage of 1 on 2.	173	126	25	209	305	359	669	576	...

Neglecting the Rs. 20 note it may be said that the Rs. 10 note circulates longer than the Rs. 5 note, but that thereafter the duration of circulation varies inversely with the value of the note.

69. Statement XXII gives the details of the receipts and expenditure of the Currency Department for the year under report. The receipts showed an increase of Rs. 1,56,106 over 1911-12 chiefly under interest on securities, interest for a whole year on the additional investment of two crores in 1911-12 having been realised in 1912-13 for the first time. The charges increased by Rs. 1,59,882 owing mainly to a payment in Madras of Rs. 2,27,000 for the cost of the building acquired for the Currency Office. On the other hand, the payments for note forms in 1912-13 were about a lakh lower than in the preceding year. The temporary establishment and telegraph and postage charges were higher owing to the progressive growth of work of the Department.

X.—State of the Coinage.

70. The statement below shows the withdrawal of uncurrent and other coins during the year under report :—

Bihar and Orissa	65	7,00	33	...	6,09
TOTAL	7,50	79,53	10,57	4	1,55,89

The total value of withdrawn coins amounted to 2,53½ lakhs of rupees as compared with 2,60 lakhs in 1911-12. These figures do not include the remittance of 1,05 lakhs from a Native State mentioned in paragraph 22. The remittance consisted of 15.46 lakhs of the 1835 coinage, and of 89.37 lakhs of the 1840 coinage. In the total of 2,53½ lakhs are included 18 lakhs, the value of worn small silver withdrawn under the special order of May 1910 and 10½ lakhs of the new George V rupees bearing the date 1911 withdrawn owing to certain defects in the die for the obverse from which these rupees were struck. Column 6 in the above statement includes defective and defaced coin besides the light weight coin, which is separately dealt with in the next table.

12,465,947

The total receipts of uncurrent coin shown in column 6 of the first table amounted to 1,56 lakhs against 1,03 lakhs in 1911-12. Corresponding to these larger receipts increases are noticed in the number of coins reduced in weight under the various headings in the second table except heading 6. Portions of the increases are also attributed to more careful shroffing.

Receipt of called-in coins at Government treasuries.

71. Under the Indian Coinage Act of 1870 silver coins called in by proclamation though not legal tender were receivable by weight at Re. 1 a tola. Such coins were those called in by Financial Notification No. 2466, dated the 7th December 1877 (Gazette of India, dated the 8th December 1877), the most important being the coins known as "Farrukhabad" and "Murshidabad" rupees. The rate of rupee 1 per tola prescribed in 1870 really represented the bullion value of the rupee, but, on the closure of the Mints to free coinage in June 1893, the intrinsic value of the rupee was dissociated from the exchange value and it was no longer necessary to offer the old rate of rupee 1 per tola. Although, therefore, in the Coinage Act of 1906 now in force no provision exists authorising the receipt of called-in coins at the Government treasury, occasional tenders of such coins were still being received at the rate prescribed by law in 1870. This practice was changed in 1912-13, and in February 1913 orders were issued that in future the coins in question should be received—

(a) at 8 annas a tola for any one tender or 500 coins or less ;

(b) at bullion value calculated at the market rate of silver of the day for any larger number.

Receipts in British India of called-in coins are rare, but after the issue of the orders a Native State presented 31 lakhs of Murshidabad coins at the Calcutta Mint and they were received as a special case at the rate of Re. 1 a tola.

Special examination of work at the Mints.

72. The table below shows the result of the special examination at the Mints of remittances from the six Currency Offices :—

AMOUNT EXAMINED.	Calcutta.	Bombay.	Madras.	Cawnpore.	Lahore.	Rangoon.
	Rs10,00,000	Rs7,96,000	Rs3,52,000	Rs5,00,000	Rs5,00,000	Rs3,00,000

" 18¾ % " 25 %
TOTAL	4,277	5,716	3,210	1,903	3,688	3,007

The following statement compares for the last four years the total percentage of light-weights detected at the Mints in the remittances mentioned above:—

	Percentage detected at the Mint.
	1909-10.	1910-11.	1911-12.	1912-13.
Calcutta	1·139	1·057	·288	·423
Bombay	·482	·632	·922	·710
Madras	·575	·845	·402	·905

Lahore	·512	2·063	·732	·726
Rangoon	·886	·954	·647	·999

Cawnpore and Bombay have shown considerable improvement. In Lahore the result was practically the same as in the previous year, while Calcutta, Madras, and Rangoon record a deterioration. The results, in Rangoon and Madras, were unfavourable, and the subject, specially in these offices, should receive more attention.

73. The following tabular statement shows the number of counterfeit silver ^{False Coinage.} coins cut and broken in the different provinces during the calendar year 1912:—

1912	130,051	4,932	5,435	4,381

Out of the total number of 130,051, 50,695 were detected in Railway Cash Offices, the most important figures being 8,418 from the North-Western Railway, 7,722 from the Rajputana-Malwa Railway, and 5,375 from the East Indian Railway.

XI.—Small Coin.

Small Silver, Nickel and Bronze.

74. Statement XXI shows the absorption of these coins in each province during the year 1912-13 as well as in the two previous years. In the total for all India for all denominations of coin except double pice the absorption amounted to Rs. 87,60,000 against Rs. 66,90,000 in 1911-12. Of this increase of Rs. 20,70,000, Rs. 15,97,000 occurred under small silver and Rs. 5,73,000 under bronze coins, while there was a reduction of Rs. 1,00,000 under Nickel. The large increase in the issue of small silver was due to heavy demands at Calcutta. One reason for this growth in the circulation of small silver appears to be the issue of new coin and the withdrawal of worn out coins under the special order of May 1910 adverted to in paragraph 70.

The falling off in the absorption of nickel is made up of a reduction of over 2 lakhs in Bombay, an increase of 2 lakhs in the United Provinces and the Punjab and small reductions in the Central Provinces and Madras. In Bombay the supplies were heavy in 1911-12 for districts affected by famine, and in the United Provinces the replacement of small silver by nickel continues as before.

As regards bronze coins the absorption of half pice remained stationary, but in pie pieces, which circulate chiefly in Madras and Bombay, there has been a substantial improvement in 1912-13. Bombay apparently replaced Rs. 1,25,000 of single pice by nickel coin, and there were some small reductions in the Punjab and Madras and Central Provinces due to the same cause; otherwise there have been satisfactory increases in other Provinces, specially in the United Provinces and Calcutta. The issue of new coin is mentioned as the leading cause of these increases, but the active trade seasons in Bengal and Northern India has also no doubt contributed.

XII.—Gold Standard Reserve.

Gold Standard Reserve.

75. Statement XXIII gives the details of the Gold Standard Reserve on 31st March 1913. The profit on the new silver coinage of the year amounted to £3,301,025, raising the total held in the Reserve to £22,606,660 after allowing for depreciation in the price of the securities. Taking the market price of the securities on 31st March instead of the cost price as heretofore the total balance amounted to £22,606,660, of which Rs. 6,00,00,000 (£4,000,000) were held in rupees in the Indian Branch of the Reserve, £1,005,664 held by the Secretary of State in gold in the form of cash placed at short notice, £1,620,000 was set aside in the Bank of England in gold, and the balance £15,945,669 represented the market price of investment in sterling securities of the face value of £17,501,513. There was also an amount of £35,327 held as a book credit in India awaiting payment to the Reserve.

I have the honour to be,

Rainfall Summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 30th October 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. Rainfall continued throughout the week in Burma and southeast Madras, and reappeared on the 28th in Assam and the extreme southeast of Bengal. Disturbed conditions travelling eastwards from the northwest frontier gave some precipitation along the western and central Himalayas, the largest amounts occurring in the neighbourhood of Mussooree.

2. Burma.—Rainfall was only local, except on the 28th when nearly every station in Upper Burma had rain.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—The only rainfall that occurred was on the 28th and 29th in Assam and on the Chittagong coast.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—The disturbance from the northwest gave local rain from the 26th to the 28th in the Himalayas and sub-montane districts.

Northwest India.—Light precipitation occurred in Kashmir, the hills of the North-West Frontier Province and of the Punjab, and also at Ambala and Lahore.

The Peninsula.—Rainfall was of daily occurrence in the south, and was nearly general in southeast Madras on the 24th, 25th and 29th.

3. The chief daily amounts of rain were as follows:—

October 23rd. Table Island 1·93", Madras 1·10", Negapatam 1·35", Pamban 3·18"

The prospects of the winter rice, cotton and ground nut crops are generally good. Agricultural stock is healthy. The price of unhusked rice is a little above normal but tends to fall.

Assam.—During the week the weather was seasonable and almost rainless except in the Lungleh, Barpeta and North Lakhimpur sub-divisions. Harvesting of jute and autumn rice is practically finished. Ploughing for mustard and the sowing of pulses are in progress. Harvesting of broadcast winter rice has commenced in Nowgong and pressing of sugarcane in Lakhimpur. The prospects of tea are generally good, and those of transplanted winter rice very fair everywhere. The average price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet and Kamrup.

Bengal.—No rainfall has been reported throughout the Province during the week except from Darjeeling and Kurseong. The weather was favourable for agricultural operations. Cultivation of lands for spring crops is in progress. Sowings have also begun in places. Winter rice and other standing crops are doing well and their prospects are good excepting in parts of the flood affected areas. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Cattle disease is reported from nine districts. Want of fodder is felt in two districts only. The average price of common rice has fallen by 1·22 per cent as compared with that of the previous week. Agricultural loans and gratuitous relief were given on a moderate scale to those persons in the Burdwan division who have suffered from the recent floods.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week. Sowing of spring crops is going on. Harvesting of early winter rice has commenced in some districts. The prospects of standing crops are good. The situation in the flood affected areas has improved. The average price of common rice is almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts (reports from five districts have not been received). The prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. More rain is urgently needed over almost the whole of the Provinces. Standing crops are suffering from drought in all but the upper Doab and the Central Submontane, and South eastern districts. Harvestings of autumn crops, and picking of cotton are nearing completion. Sowing of spring crops is going on wherever irrigation is available and the preparation of the land continues. Cattle disease is still reported from one-third of the Provinces. Scarcity of fodder is increasing and water is running short in Bundelkhand and parts of the Aligarh and Muttra districts. Prices are rising.

Punjab.—No rain of importance fell during the week. It is urgently wanted in the Ambala division where standing autumn crops in the unirrigated tracts are withering for want of rain and the outturn of crops reaped is poor. Elsewhere the condition of the standing crops and the yield of crops being harvested are generally average to good. Ploughings for and sowings of spring crops continue and are normal except in the Ambala division where they are seriously restricted in unirrigated lands for want of moisture. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices are generally close to normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless and the weather temperate. The condition of the standing crops is generally average except in the unirrigated areas of the Swabi tahsil of the Peshawar district. Sowings of spring crops are proceeding. Harvesting of autumn crops is in progress and the outturn is expected to be normal. Irrigation from the Paharpur Canal has been stopped. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. The prices of food grains are high and tending to rise in Peshawar but the price of wheat is falling.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 12 to 21 seers per rupee. The condition of the standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in one tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—Slight rain fell in the Province during the week. Standing crops are in fair condition. Harvesting of autumn and sowings of spring crops are in progress. Cattle disease is reported in some villages of the Anantnag and Baramula districts. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—During the week 73½ cents of rain fell in Merwara. Slight rain also fell in Ajmer. The weather was generally clear and cool. Rain is urgently needed for the sowing of spring crops. The outturn of the autumn harvest is unfavourable in the Eastern States and Central Rajputana including Ajmer-Merwara. Fodder also will soon be insufficient in these areas. Cattle are generally doing well. Water is generally sufficient. Prices are high and rising. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Merwara, Jaipur, Kishengarh, Bharatpur and Karauli.

Central India.—During the week slight rain fell in the Rampura Bhanpura district of Indore, the Rewa State of Baghelkhand and the Barwani State of Bhopawar; elsewhere no rain was received. The weather was abnormally hot. More rain is wanted in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand and the Rampura Bhanpura district and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Spring sowings are in progress except in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand where operations are stopped for want of rain. Standing crops are bad in the northern districts of Gwalior and in Bundelkhand and indifferent in Baghelkhand. The crops have been damaged for want of rain in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. The condition of cattle is bad in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand. The supply of fodder is bad in parts of Gwalior, indifferent in Baghelkhand and scarce in Bundelkhand, and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Prices are rising in Gwalior, Bhopal and parts of Bundelkhand, are above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in parts of Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—During the week no rain worth mentioning was received. The days were hot and the nights and mornings cool. Reaping of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops are in full swing. Germination of spring crops is defective in many places, and rain is urgently required everywhere. Autumn crops, especially on light soils, have been damaged all over the Provinces and the outturn of different crops on the whole is expected to be considerably below normal. The supply of fodder and water is generally adequate except in Betul and the Vindhyan districts. Agricultural stock is in good condition. The price of gram and juar fell in Chhindwara by $2\frac{1}{2}$ and juar in Yeotmal by 2 seers per rupee. Gram rose by 2 seers in Wardha. Elsewhere the prices of staple food grains remained stationary or fluctuated slightly.

Feudatory States.—Sirguja and Jashpur received 20 and 56 cents of rain respectively. More rain is required for the successful germination of spring crops. A fair outturn of the autumn crops is anticipated on the whole. The price of rice in Sarangarh and Jashpur fell by 2 seers and that of gram in Jashpur by 4 seers per rupee. Rice in Udaipur rose by 2 seers per rupee.

Bombay.—Slight rain fell during the week in parts of Kathiawar and Kolhapur. Standing crops are in good condition except for slight damage by locusts and rats in parts of Sind, by rats in Kaira, Palanpur and Rewa Kantha and by insects in parts of Broach, Ahmednagar, Bijapur and Kolhapur. The harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops continue. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Water for drinking and irrigation is adequate. Prices are high but fluctuating. The public health is generally good. Stocks of grain are sufficient.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. The general prospects are fair. Autumn crops are being harvested but suffered somewhat through want of rain and by insects in parts of the Gulbarga, Raichur, Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar districts. Early rice is being irrigated and the crop is fair except in the above districts and in a few isolated parts. The sowings of spring crops are progressing generally and germination is satisfactory except in isolated parts. Scarcity of fodder prevails in three, water scarcity in six and cattle disease in three talukas. Prices of grains are almost stationary. White juar sells for ten seers per rupee in Hyderabad City. The highest price in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar and the lowest 20 in Adilabad.

Mysore.—No rain fell throughout the State during the week. The price of ragi has fallen slightly in Hassan and Chittaldurg. The markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition, but want of rain is felt in the greater part of the State. The prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—No rain fell during the week. Rice is in good condition. Picking of cardamom continues. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—During the week the rainfall was heavy in Madras, fair to good in Chingleput, South Arcot, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly and South Travancore and light or nil elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy over small areas is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. The supply of water is insufficient for irrigation in some places. Fodder is generally sufficient. Prices are stationary.

Nepal.—Report for the quarter ending 15th October 1913.—The rainfall for the period was 19.86 inches against 23.95 inches for the corresponding period of last year. The deficiency has caused a good deal of damage to the rice crop on high lying lands round about the Nepal valley which depend entirely upon rainfall for irrigation.

July and August 1913.—Pears, apples, and pepper were gathered in the Nepal valley. The outturn has been good. Rice was sown in the Terai and in Nepal.

September 1913.—Chillies, Indian corn and early rice were harvested in the hills and in the Nepal valley. The outturn was satisfactory. Potatoes and early winter vegetables were sown.

October 1913.—Millets and autumn rice were being harvested in the hills and valleys and the sowing of garlic and onions is in progress. Lands are being prepared for the sowing of wheat, barley and peas. The market is well stocked and the price of food grains is normal. The health of live stock is reported to be good.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

(CIVIL VETERINARY ADMINISTRATION.)

Simla, the 31st October 1913.

DISEASES OF ANIMALS ACTS, 1894 TO 1911.

Horses (Importation and Transit) Order of 1913.

This Order revokes the existing Orders dealing with the Importation and Transit of horses, asses, and mules, and re-enacts those Orders with the following amendment :—

Importation—Chapter I.

Horses, asses and mules brought to Great Britain from abroad are required by the new Order to be accompanied by a veterinary certificate of freedom from symptoms of glanders (including farcy), epizootic lymphangitis, ulcerative lymphangitis, dourine, horse-pox, sarcoptic mange, psoroptic mange, influenza, ringworm, or strangles, instead of, as at present, from symptoms of glanders (including farcy) only.

The existing special provisions as to landing at Leith and Newcastle-upon-Tyne are continued.

The provisions of Chapter I of the Horses (Importation and Transit) Order of 1912, which, in effect, required horses, asses, or mules brought from abroad to be either accompanied by a Licence of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries or to be examined at a place of detention at the port of landing, but which had, for various reasons been postponed from time to time and have not come into operation, are entirely withdrawn.

The new Order will come into force on the 1st October, 1913.

(iv) During movement to the shed, horses, asses and mules shall be kept separate from all horses, asses or mules not landed under this provision.

(2.) If any horse, ass or mule in the shed is diseased or suspected within the meaning of any Order of the Board, the Local Authority of the District shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of that Order, except that any horse, ass or mule which is not diseased or suspected may be moved with the written permission of an Inspector of the Local Authority of the District to a vessel in the CHAPTER II.—CARRIAGE BY WATER.

Carriage by Water of Unfit Horses, &c.

3. No horse, ass or mule shall be permitted by the owner thereof, or his agent, or any person in charge thereof, to be embarked in a vessel for carriage thereon from any port in Great Britain if, owing to infirmity, illness, injury, fatigue or any other cause, it cannot be carried without unnecessary suffering during the intended passage.

Notification by Inspectors of Unfitness of Horses, &c., for Conveyance.

4. Where an Inspector of the Board or of a Local Authority is of opinion that a horse, ass or mule intended to be carried on a vessel from any port in Great Britain cannot, owing to infirmity, illness, injury, fatigue, or any other cause, be so carried without unnecessary suffering, he may serve a Notice to that effect on the person in charge of the animal and also, when practicable, on the master of the vessel, and until such Notice is withdrawn by an Inspector it shall be unlawful to carry the animal on a vessel, and if the animal is carried in contravention of this Article, the person in charge thereof, and the master of the vessel, where the Notice has been served on the master, shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Act of 1894.

Provisions as to Vessels carrying Horses, &c.

5. The provisions of this Article shall apply to all vessels on which horses, asses or mules are carried to or from any port in Great Britain.

(Fittings of Vessels.)

(i.) Each horse, ass or mule shall be carried in a separate box or stall, except that brood mares, ponies, asses, mules and unbroken horses, and horses in charge of special attendants, may be carried in pens. Boxes, stalls and pens shall be of sufficient size, and shall be so constructed as to be of a substantial character, and of sufficient strength to withstand the action of the weather and to resist the weight of any animal that may be thrown against them. A moveable box shall be so secured as to prevent its displacement by the motion of the vessel.

(ii.) The floor of each box, stall or pen shall, in order to prevent slipping, be fitted with suitable battens, and be strewn with a proper quantity of sand or other suitable substance.

(iii.) The vessel shall be provided with sufficient and suitable means for slinging the animals carried.

(vii.) All parts of the vessel over which the horses, asses or mules pass, or in which they are carried, shall be properly lighted, and arrangements shall be made for the provision at all times of adequate light for the proper tending of the animals.

(Passage-Ways)

(viii.) Every part of the vessel where horses, asses or mules are carried shall be provided with one or more passage-ways leading from the hatchway or entrance to such part of the vessel and giving frontal access to each box or stall containing a horse, ass or mule. Each passage-way shall be of a minimum width of one foot and six inches, and be kept free of obstruction.

(Food and Water.)

(ix.) Horses, asses and mules carried on a vessel for a voyage which on an average takes more than six hours shall be provided while on board with a sufficient amount of suitable food and water, and proper accommodation shall be provided on board for the stowage of the food so that the same shall not be unduly exposed to the weather at sea.

(x.) The provisions of the preceding paragraph (ix.) shall not apply to a vessel on which horses, asses, or mules are carried from Ireland to a port in Great Britain, or from Great Britain to a port in Ireland, but in any such case the following provisions shall apply :—

(a) Horses, asses, and mules shall be provided while on board with a sufficient amount of food and water on the request, made before the sailing of the vessel, of the consignor or any person in charge thereof, or if the master of the vessel considers such food and water should be provided in order to protect the animals from unnecessary suffering. The cost of providing the food shall in each case be recoverable from the consignor of the animals.

(Saving for Ferry Boats, etc.)

(xiv.) The foregoing provisions of this Article shall not extend to the carriage of horses, asses or mules on a vessel across an arm of the sea or over any ferry, or on a river, canal, or other inland water, but the fittings of the vessel shall be such as to protect as far as practicable the animals so carried from injury and unnecessary suffering, and as far practicable provision shall be made in order to prevent slipping by strewing the deck with sand or other suitable substance.

(Approaches, Gangways, and other Apparatus.)

(xv.) Approaches, gangways, passage-ways, cages, and other apparatus used for the loading or unloading or movement of horses, asses or mules on or from a vessel, shall be so constructed that injury or unnecessary suffering shall not be caused to the animals.

(Injured Horses, &c.)

(xvii.) If any horse, ass or mule on a vessel has a limb broken or is otherwise seriously injured so as to be incapable of being disembarked without cruelty, the master of the vessel may, and shall if so required by the Diseases of Animals Act, 1910, forthwith cause that animal to be slaughtered. The person in charge of the animal shall forthwith report the injury to the master of the vessel.

(Approved Killing Instruments.)

(xviii.) Every vessel on which a horse, ass or mule is carried shall carry a proper killing instrument, to be approved by the Board for that purpose, and it shall be the duty of the owner and master of every such vessel to see that the vessel is provided with such an instrument, and the master, if so required by an Inspector of the Board or of the Local Authority, shall produce the instrument for his inspection.

Water at Shipping and Unshipping Places.

6. At every place where horses, asses or mules are put on board of or landed from vessels, provision shall be made, to the satisfaction of the Board, for a supply of water for the animals; and water shall be supplied there gratuitously to any animal on request of any person having charge of the animal.

Provision to be made at Unshipping Places.

(3) The battens in a truck or other vehicle (other than a horse-box) shall be placed across the vehicle, except between the doorways, where they shall be placed lengthways.

(4.) Every truck or other vehicle (other than a horse-box) shall be so constructed as to admit of ventilation and inspection at the floor level.

(5) Every truck or other vehicle shall be so constructed that the interior thereof shall be free from any boltheads, angles or other projections likely to cause suffering to animals carried therein.

(6) Every falling loading door and every gangway, passage-way, loading or unloading board, shall be fitted with longitudinal battens or other proper footholds.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall Summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 6th November 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A shallow depression formed in the neighbourhood of Table Island on the 31st October and, advancing in a northerly direction, was the cause of an increase of rainfall in Burma. It crossed the south Arakan coast on the 1st November and had disappeared completely by the morning of the 2nd.

Conditions have been disturbed at an unusually early date on the northwest frontier and there has been some precipitation in the western Himalayas and submontane districts as far east as Mukteswar. Rainfall of a fairly general character occurred during the first three days in the south of the Peninsula, but it then decreased and weather was practically dry there for the rest of the week.

2. Burma.—There was fairly general rain on the 31st October and 1st November; on the remaining days only a few falls were recorded.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Darjiling had a light fall of rain on the 31st October.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Light rainfall occurred in the Mussooree hills on the 2nd and 3rd November, and showers were also reported from Dehra Dun and Meerut.

Northwest India.—Nearly general rain fell in the North-West Frontier Province on the 1st November, while local precipitation occurred in Kashmir on the 2nd and 3rd, and in the Punjab hills on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. Ludhiana had a light fall of rain on the 3rd.

The Peninsula.—Rainfall was nearly general in Mysore on the 30th October, and in south Madras on the 30th and 31st. It was fairly general in the latter area on the 1st November.

3. The chief daily amounts were as follows:—

October 30th. Table Island 4·46", Diamond Island 1·81", Lashio 1·18", Calicut 1·21", Tinnevely 1·79", Trichinopoly 1·93", Cuddalore 2·78", Madras 6·86" and Nellore 2·82".

" 5th. Mergui 1·99" and Tinnevely 2·18".

4. The week's rainfall was 20 per cent or more in excess in Burma, the Punjab East and North, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and Madras Southeast; and was within 20 per cent of the normal in the United Provinces West and Malabar. It was 20 per cent or more in defect in the rest of the country, except in the following divisions where the absence of rainfall is a normal feature at this time of year:—the Punjab Southwest, Baluchistan, Sind, Rajputana, Gujarat and Central India West.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is 20 per cent or more in excess in Bengal, Bihar, the Punjab Southwest, Sind and Gujarat; and is 20 per cent or more in defect in the United Provinces, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province, Baluchistan, Rajputana, Central India East, Hyderabad South, the Madras Deccan and Mysore. It differs from the normal by less than 20 per cent elsewhere.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
1st November 1913.

Burma.—During the week moderate rain was general over Lower and Upper Burma. The cultivation of the winter rice crop and the ingathering of cotton and ground nut are proceeding under normal conditions. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice is a little above normal and tends to fall.

Assam.—During the week light rain fell in all districts except Goalpara and there was a severe hailstorm in Nowgong. Harvesting of autumn rice in Darrang and of jute in Kamrup still continues. Ploughing for and sowing of mustard and pulses continue. The prospects of tea are generally good and those of transplanted winter rice fair to good everywhere. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet and Kamrup.

Bengal.—During the week light rain fell in all the districts of the Chittagong division and in some parts of the Rajshahi and Dacca divisions. The weather was favourable for agricultural operations. The preparation and sowing of lands for spring crops are in progress. The conditions and prospects of winter rice and other standing crops are good except in some parts of the flood affected areas. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Cattle disease is reported from nine districts. The average price of common rice is almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week. Agricultural loans and gratuitous relief were given on a moderate scale to those persons of the Burdwan division who have suffered from the recent floods.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week a few scattered showers fell in parts of Bihar. Sowing of spring crops is in progress. Harvesting of early winter rice has commenced in some districts. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has fallen as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna. Cattle disease is reported from eight districts. The prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are good.

United Provinces.—Save for showers in a few districts the week was rainless. More rain is urgently needed in all but the Eastern districts. Standing crops are suffering from drought except in the Upper Doab, the Central Submontane and Eastern districts, and in the Native States. Harvesting of autumn crops and picking of cotton are almost complete. Irrigation and preparation of land for spring crops are in progress. Sowing of spring crops continues and in some places is nearing completion. Cattle disease is still reported from about one-fourth of the Provinces. Scarcity of fodder is increasing and water is running short in Bundelkhand and in parts of the Aligarh, Unao and Fatehpur districts. Prices are rising and in some districts are above scarcity rates.

Punjab.—During the week light rain fell in the Submontane and Hill districts, elsewhere the weather has been dry. Rain is urgently wanted in the dry area in the South East where standing autumn crops on unirrigated lands are withering. Elsewhere the condition of the standing crops is average. The autumn harvest is nearly completed in the dry area in the South East and the outturn on unirrigated land is very poor. Elsewhere harvesting is in progress and the yields are generally average to good. Sowings of spring crops continue and are normal except in the South East where they are seriously restricted on unirrigated land for want of moisture. Cattle are generally healthy but fodder is getting scarce in some of the South Eastern districts. The price of wheat is generally close to normal and that of other grains a little above normal.

North-West Frontier Province.—Rain fell during the week in Hazara, Peshawar and Kohat. The weather was temperate. The condition of standing crops is generally average except in unirrigated areas in the Swabi tahsil of the Peshawar district. Harvesting of autumn crops continues and the outturn is expected to be normal. Sowings of spring crops is proceeding. Irrigation from the Paharpur Canal has stopped. Cattle are in good condition. The supply of fodder and water is generally sufficient. The prices of food grains are high but are tending to fall in Peshawar. The price of wheat is rising.

Jammu.—No rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 15 and maize from 12 to 21 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle disease of a mild type prevails in one tahsil. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—During the week fair rain fell in the Province. Harvesting of autumn and sowing of spring crops are in progress. Cattle disease is reported in some villages of the Valley. Prices are normal. Water and fodder are sufficient.

Rajputana.—During the week slight rain fell in the Kotah, Bikaner and Merwara districts. The weather was generally clear and cool. Rain is badly needed for spring sowings. The outturn of the autumn harvest is unfavourable in the Eastern States of Central Rajputana including Ajmer-Merwara where fodder also will soon be insufficient. Cattle are generally doing well. Water is generally sufficient. Prices are generally high and stationary in the areas mentioned above. Cattle emigration continues in Ajmer-Merwara, and Marwar, Jaipur, Kishengarh, Bharatpur and Karauli.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. The weather was clear and cool. More rain is wanted in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand, Bundelkhand and the Rampura Bhanpura district and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Harvesting of autumn crops has commenced in the Malwa division and the districts of Bhilsa and Isagarh of the Gwalior division. Spring sowings are in progress except in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand where operations are stopped for want of rain. Standing crops are bad in the northern districts of Gwalior, Bundelkhand, portions of the Rampura Bhanpura district and the Alampur pergana of Indore; indifferent in Baghelkhand and fair in Bhopal. Crops have been damaged for want of rain in parts of Gwalior, Baghelkhand Bundelkhand and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Cattle disease prevails in Gwalior Gird, the Nagod State of Baghelkhand and the Jhabua State of Bhopawar. The condition of cattle is bad in parts of Gwalior and Bundelkhand. The supply of fodder is bad in parts of Gwalior, indifferent in Baghelkhand and scarce in Bundelkhand and the Alampur pergana of Indore. Prices are rising in Gwalior, Bhopal and parts of Bundelkhand, normal in Baghelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been clear and warm with nights and mornings cool. No rain fell anywhere. Agriculturists are busily engaged in the harvesting of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops. Rain is badly needed in many places for the spring crops. Fodder and water are generally sufficient except in the Vindhyan districts. Cattle are faring well. The price of gram and juar in Chhindwara and of gram in Chanda rose by two and a half seers per rupee, elsewhere the prices of staple food grains remained stationary or varied slightly indicating an upward tendency.

Feudatory States.—During the week the rainfall was nil. Reaping of autumn crops and sowing of spring crops are in full swing. The price of rice rose by two seers per rupee in Sarangarh and four in Sirguja and that of wheat and gram by six in Sirguja.

Bombay.—Standing crops are in good condition except for slight damage by locusts and rats in Karachi and Hyderabad, by rats in Kaira and Palanpur, and by insects in parts of Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Bijapur. The harvesting of autumn and the sowing of spring crops continue. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Agricultural stock are good and sufficient except in parts of Ahmednagar and Poona. Water for drinking and irrigation is adequate. Prices are high but generally steady. The public health is generally good. Stocks of grain are sufficient.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. The autumn crop is being harvested and is fair but has suffered somewhat through insects and want of rain in parts of the Gulbarga, Raichur, Mahbubnagar and Karimnagar districts. Early rice is being irrigated and the crop is fair but suffers from want of rain in parts of the above districts and a few isolated parts. Spring sowings continue and the crop is good except in isolated parts. Fodder scarcity prevails in four, water scarcity in six and cattle disease in one taluka. The price of grains remains constant. The highest price in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Mahbubnagar and the lowest 20 in Adilabad.

Mysore.—During the week the rainfall was light. The price of ragi has fallen slightly in Mysore and is steady elsewhere. The markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition, but want of rain is felt in the greater part of the State. The prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—During the week the rainfall was light throughout the Province. Agricultural prospects are good. Picking of cardamom continues. The prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—During the week the rainfall was fair in Cuddapah light or nil in the Circars, South Canara and the Deccan except Cuddapah and good to very heavy elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops and paddy is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally for the most part. The condition of cattle is generally good. The supply of water is insufficient for irrigation in some places. Fodder is generally sufficient. Prices show a downward tendency.

It will be published in two editions, a popular one in a cloth binding at a cost not exceeding Rs. 7-8, and a very limited edition de luxe, which will contain a list of the subscribers, at a cost of about Rs. 250.

A translation of the popular edition will be made in Urdu and possibly in other languages also, if the demand is sufficient.

IMPERIAL DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IN INDIA.

NOTIFICATION.

Pusa, the 5th November 1913.

The following Prospectus of Short Courses of Instruction given at the Agricultural Research Institute, Pusa, is published for general information :—

SHORT COURSES OF INSTRUCTION GIVEN AT PUSA.

The function of the Pusa College in the general scheme of Agricultural Education in India has been defined as that of a higher Teaching Institution and Research Station for post-graduate agricultural students and for advanced science students, particularly from Indian Universities.

But for the present it seems necessary for the Pusa Institute to continue to assist Provinces and Native States by giving short courses of instruction in special branches of agriculture or in simple industries connected with agriculture. There are now facilities at Pusa for thorough instruction in the subjects referred to.

The short courses are broadly defined in a syllabus for each subject which is appended hereto. The instruction is essentially practical in character and requires no scientific training and not even a knowledge of English. Students should, however, have a fair general education.

Men who have not the instincts of the profession which they are following or propose to follow will not be accepted. It is desired to admit in particular to Pusa for these courses men who are bonâ fide agriculturists or Malis by caste.

The courses will be suitable for men of the subordinate staff of all the Agricultural Departments, and will be open to private individuals who are engaged or propose to engage in the special branches of agriculture and allied subjects dealt with.

A recommendation of a suitable candidate by a Director of Agriculture or any other authorised authority will be accepted, if the applicant is certified to be of good character and in robust health.

Free quarters of a very simple but sufficient character will be provided.

Students will have to pay all travelling and personal expenses. The latter at Pusa need not exceed Rs. 15 per mensem.

No books will be required.

Applications should be addressed to the Director of the Agricultural Research Institute Pusa, Bihar.

SYLLABUS OF SHORT COURSES.

Section of Agriculture.

(1) Cattle Management.—The course will occupy three months. It will deal with the general management of breeding herds and of milch and draught cattle and will include simple instruction in the recognition, treatment and prevention of the more common diseases. The Imperial Pathological Entomologist will deal with the principal insect-pests of cattle, the part which they play as disease-carriers and methods of treatment. Courses will commence in October and January.

Section of Economic Botany.

(2) Fruit Growing.—The course will be an eight months' one and will deal with —

- (a) The general management of a fruit garden, including choice of site, laying out, draining and planting, the choice of varieties, irrigation, cultivation and manuring.
- (b) Special processes, such as budding, grafting, layering, pruning and root pruning, weathering.
- (c) Disposal of fruit, including packing, grading, packing and marketing.
- (d) Evaporating, drying and preserving.

The course will begin each year on the 1st of October and will last till the end of May.

Section of Entomology.

(3) Eri-silk as a Cottage Industry.—The course will occupy about six months and will commence on July 1st of each year. It includes rearing, spinning, dyeing and weaving.

(4) Lac Cultivation as an Adjunct to ordinary Agriculture.—The training can be given only from June 1st to 30th and October 1st to 31st. The June course is the chief one but if a sufficient number of bond fide students apply, a second course in October will also be given. These dates vary a little according to the season as lac does not always come out regularly. The training includes pruning and handling of trees, inoculation of lac, harvesting, scraping and washing. It covers the whole industry to the production of seed lac and is exclusive of the production of shellac.

(5) Mulberry Silk Culture.—The course includes rearing, selection of disease-free eggs, reeling and the utilization of waste cocoons. Instruction is also given in the varieties of silk worms. Silk twisting (spinning) and dyeing with the simpler forms of weaving are taught. The full course occupies twelve months. The training covers only the ordinary existing methods of reeling and weaving and not the more complex ones. The course will commence on July 1st each year.

Provided that official Members and Members nominated under the provisions of sub-section (2) of Regulation I shall hold office for three years, or such shorter period as the Chief Commissioner may at the time of nomination determine.

(2) A Member elected or nominated to fill a casual vacancy occurring by reason of absence from India, inability to attend to duty, death, acceptance of office or resignation duly accepted, or otherwise, or a Member nominated on failure of an electorate to elect an eligible person shall hold office as long as the Member whose place he fills would have been entitled to hold office if the vacancy had not occurred.

XI. (1) When a vacancy occurs in the case of a Member who represents any interest specified in Regulation II, or at any time within three months of the date when such a vacancy will occur in the ordinary course of events, the Chief Commissioner shall, by notification as aforesaid, call upon the electorate concerned to elect a person for the purpose of filling the vacancy within such time as may be prescribed by such notification.

Vacancies.

Provided that, when a casual vacancy occurs in the case of an elected Member, the election shall always be made by the same electorate as that which elected the Member whose place is to be filled, and shall be subject to the same conditions in respect of eligibility of candidates for nomination as those which governed the election of such Member:

Provided further that, in the case of a Member nominated under Regulation I, sub-head B, clause (b), the Chief Commissioner shall, on the occurrence of the vacancy or at any time within three months of the date when such a vacancy will occur in the ordinary course of events, notify the vacancy or the impending vacancy in the local official Gazette.

XIII. The power of making laws and regulations or of transacting other business vested in the Legislative Council of the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces shall be exercised only when eight or more Members of the Council are present.

XIV. (1) No election shall be valid if any corrupt practice is committed in connection therewith by the candidate elected.

(2) A person shall be deemed to commit a corrupt practice within the meaning of these regulations —

(i) who, with a view to inducing any voter to give or to refrain from giving a vote in favour of any candidate, offers or gives any money or valuable consideration, or holds out any promise of individual profit, or holds out any threat of injury, to any person, or

(ii) who gives, procures or abets the giving of a vote in the name of a voter who is not the person giving such vote.

And a corrupt practice shall be deemed to be committed by a candidate, if it is committed with his knowledge and consent, or by a person who is acting under the general or special authority of such candidate with reference to the election.

Explanation.—A "promise of individual profit" includes a promise for the benefit of the person himself, or of any one in whom he is interested.

Non-compliance with rules.

XV. No election shall be invalid by reason of a non-compliance with the rules contained in the Schedules to these Regulations, or any mistake in the use of Forms annexed thereto, if it appears that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in such rules, and that such non-compliance or mistake did not affect the result of the election.

Disputes as to validity of elections.

XVI. (1) If the validity of any election is brought in question by any person qualified either to be elected or to vote at such election on the ground of the improper rejection or reception of a nomination, or of a vote, or of any corrupt practice in connection with such election, or for any other cause, such person may, at any time within fifteen days from the date of the publication of the result of such election in the local official Gazette, apply to the Local Government to set aside such election.

(2) The Chief Commissioner shall, after such inquiry (if any) as he may consider necessary, declare, by notification as aforesaid, whether the candidate whose election is questioned or any or what other person was duly elected, or whether the election was void.

(3) If the election is declared void, the Chief Commissioner shall by notification as aforesaid, call upon the electorate concerned to elect another person within such time as may be prescribed by such notification.

(4) If within the time prescribed the electorate fails to elect, the Chief Commissioner may, with the sanction of the Governor-General, nominate any person who is eligible for election by such electorate.

Finality of decisions.

XVII. The decision of the Chief Commissioner on any question that may arise as to the intention, construction or application of these Regulations shall be final.

Future elections.

XVIII. (1) As soon as conveniently may be after these Regulations come into force, a Council shall be constituted in accordance with their provisions.

(2) For this purpose the Chief Commissioner shall, by notification as aforesaid, call upon the electorates referred to in Regulation III to elect Members in accordance with these Regulations within such time as may be prescribed by such notification.

(3) If within the time so prescribed any such class fails to elect, the Chief Commissioner may nominate, at his discretion for a period not exceeding six months, any person who is eligible for election by such class.
